Block 'S' to Make First Appearance At Saturday's Game

The Block 'S' Club will make its first public appearance as a flash card cheering section at Saturday's football game with Boston University and will sponsor the first pep rally of the season at 6:45 p.m. tomorrow on Old Main lawn.

Block 'S' had first planned to originate its flashboard cheering section at the Homecoming game with Missouri on Oct. 1, but at its Tuesday meeting decided to begin earlier.

Kochman Sidelined For Season

Roger Kochman, the most explosive Penn State halfback since the days of Lenny Moore, will have to wait another year before making his bid for All-American honors.

Team physician Alfred H. Griess announced yesterday that Kochman will undergo a knee operation which will probably sideline him for the season.

Kochman has a history of knee trouble dating back to the Holy Cross game last fall.

He re-injured it this summer in a sandlot baseball game and the knee didn't stand up when practice started two weeks ago.

Since then Kochman has been limited to jogging and light exercises. "We've observed him long enough to know his knee wouldn't go through the season," Griess said.

"He just wasn't making any progress, and we were kidding ourselves," Dr. Griess added.

Kochman has agreed to go ahead with the operation but no date has been set.

The news hit Lion coach Rip Engle pretty hard, even though he had a good idea it was coming. "You get a back like that every ten years," Engle said, "and then here you sit."

Kochman made a sensational debut as a sophomore last year. He didn't see much action until the West Virginia game when Dick Pae was forced out of the lineup with injuries.

He racked up 111 yards against the Mounties in eight carries, including a 52-yard touchdown run around end.

The following week he electrified the football world when he cheering section at the Homecoming game with Missouri on Oct. 1, but at its Tuesday meeting decided to begin earlier.

Some 700 seats in senior sections EF and EG at Beaver Stadium have been reserved for operation of the flashcard show by virtue of a senior class referendum held last year. At present, over 500 seats have been filled.

Students interested in joining Block 'S' can purchase a membership at the table set up by the club next to the main desk in the Hetzel Union building. Club representatives will also be soliciting new members in the dining halls.

Price of membership for the entire football season is 75 cents and sales will continue until the quota is reached, Betty Segal, president of Block 'S,' said. Any member is entitled to buy two tickets.

There will be a rehearsal for all members participating in the cheering at 10 a.m. Saturday at Beaver Stadium.

A flashcard cheering section had been tried at the University in previous years at Beaver Field, but the structure of the stands did not give the height needed for adequate viewing of the cards. However, the new Beaver Stadium is expected to alleviate this problem.

The Block 'S' pep rally tomorrow night, will be preceded by a motorcade accompanied by a pep band, forming at 6 p.m. in the HUB parking lot.

Master and mistress of ceremonies, Arthur Schneider and Sheila Cohen, will introduce Rip Engle, Lion football coach. Engle, in turn, will present outstanding team members and deliver a short address to the spirited team backers.

The cheerleading squad will be on hand to lead freshmen and upperclassmen in a peppy warm-up for Saturday's game, which some 20,000 fans are expected to attend.

The next issue of the special Orientation Week series of The Daily Collegian will be published on Saturday. On Tuesday the Collegian will begin regular daily publication.

15,500 Students Expected To Enroll in Fall Classes

A record number of about 15,500 students is expected to take part in the rigors of the three-day registration, Robert M. Koser Jr., associate registrar, announced yesterday.

Today's figures alone should top the 4500 mark as freshmen and upperclassmen alike pass under the tent entrance to Recreation Hall and set up the final form to their fall semester schedules.

Scheduling for many of this year's freshmen will be quite different, however, from past years because of the block registration plan adopted for the first time by many of the colleges.

All new students including transfers should be sure to bring their authorization-to-enroll papers in addition to their fee receipts and schedule cards signed by their advisors.

Besides providing a vast registration area, Recreation Hall, for the next few days, will be the scene of several service booths. One of these will be the sale of the Student Accident and Sickness Insurance Plan.

Under this plan a student may be insured for one full year beginning this month no matter where he is even during vacation periods. The Insurance Plan is underwritten by the Continental Casualty Company, Chicago and is administered by Higginbottom-Marquette-Purnell, Inc., Pittsburgh.

Another extra will be the collection for the class gifts. Each student will receive a blue card with his registration cards from his advisor. These cards are to be filled out and, it is hoped, returned to the class table with $1.

On the back of the card are listed a few of the gifts presented to the University by past classes. Students should be generous with their gifts especially since the University plans to discontinue its policy of matching student contributions with the class of 1962.

Students will be able to park in the following lots during registration without parking stickers, the Campus Patrol announced: 43, 52, 53, 80 and 83.

EE Prof Writes Article For Popular Mechanics

Charles Marsh, associate professor of electrical engineering, has published an article in the current issue of Popular Mechanics, titled "We Need Safer Tail-lights."

Marsh, who has done extensive research on auto lights, particularly on lights to combat fog, has illustrated the article with photographs of numerous types of lights in use.

WHAT EVERY GOOD FRESHMAN NEEDS is a dink. Edgar Snyder, sophomore in arts and letters from Pittsburgh, and Barbara Feit, sophomore in business administration from Great Neck, N.Y., show dinks to Arnold Cohen of Philadelphia, Doris Golden-son of Harrisburg and Lois Fromkin also of Harrisburg.

Cool Weather Will Continue

The coolest weather of the season invaded the State College area yesterday afternoon and it will remain for the next two days.

A massive high pressure area, which represents the cool air, will be moving slowly eastward across the middle of the nation today resulting in partly cloudy, cool weather throughout Pennsylvania.

The forecast for this area is sunny and pleasantly cool today with a high temperature of 66 degrees expected.

Clear and chilly weather is indicated for tonight with the mercury slipping to the 42 degree mark.

UBA Will Accept Books Tomorrow

The Used Book Agency, located on the ground floor of the Hetzel Union Building, will begin accepting books all day tomorrow and will begin selling books on Friday.

A 10-cent handling fee is charged by the UBA.

The Book Exchange, selling school supplies, will be open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. today through Friday, and on Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m.

Give Much to Achieve Much—Walker

Living in an atmosphere of scholarship demands that students accept the accompanying responsibilities. President Eric A. Walker told 6000 new students Monday.

Dr. Walker spoke at the convocation opening orientation activities.

He told the students that they are free to make a great many decisions and that "learning to live successfully with this sort of adult responsibility is one of the major lessons your university experience will teach you."

Walker added that students should feel responsibility to their parents and Pennsylvania taxpayers who provide a portion of their tuition.

"To achieve much, you must give much," Walker said.

He said the students would find they had increased freedom—to study or not to study, to pass or not to pass. Most of all, he said, they will be free to determine a pattern for the rest of their lives.

Dr. Walker reminded the students that the adjustment they must make in the next few weeks may be the most difficult one they will ever make. He urged them to seek the aid of faculty members, administrative staff members, counselors or student leaders with their problems.

After introducing the orientation counselors in the audience, Walker said the University's job is to turn out students who will think, look, act and dress like these counselors.

Richard Haber, president of Student Government Association, also spoke to the new students. He discussed SGA projects and students' obligations to themselves and to the University.

Students were shown the official University mace, the small end of which Walker said he reportedly uses on students. He told them not to despair, however, for it is said he uses the large end on the faculty.

Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, dean of admissions, presided at the convocation. He introduced the deans of the colleges and other administrators, including Dorothy J. Lipp, dean of women, and Frank J. Simes, dean of men.

Receipts to Be Used As Tickets to Game

All students will have to hold on to their stamped fee receipt till Saturday if they plan to attend the opening football game against Boston University at Beaver Stadium.

The stamped fee receipt which must be shown at Recreation Hall in order for a student to register will also be the student's admission pass to the football game Saturday because matriculation cards will not be completed by that time.

No student will be admitted without his fee receipt.

Matriculation cards will probably be completed next week and will be used for admission to all other home games.

Students may also purchase reserved parking permits for the stadium lots at the Athletic Association desk in Recreation Hall during registration.

Season parking permits may be purchased for $3 and single game permits may be purchased for $1. Permits will allow students to park in the "green" area, which is located directly across Curtin Rd. from the stadium.

Students may also park in the "black" area where unreserved parking will be sold on the day of the game for 50 cents. No permits will be required for this lot, which is the farthest lot from the stadium.

Registration stickers and student parking permits for the regular University student lots do not entitle students to park in any of the stadium lots.

To enter the stadium, students will have to use the specially constructed student entrances around the horseshoe and behind the east (Continued on page two)
