

Profs from 8 Fields To Give Lectures

As a part of the Orientation Week events, eight faculty members will present lectures to give new students a taste of academic subjects offered to them.

The lectures will be presented today, tomorrow and Friday in the HUB assembly room. Free tickets for the talks may be obtained at the HUB desk.

Winona L. Morgan, head of the department of home economics, will start the talks at 10:30 a.m. today. Her topic is "What Kind of Parents Will Your Children Have?"

"Logic: Laughter and Courage" is the next talk in the series. Henry A. Finch, professor of philosophy, will show the relation of a sense of humor to using one's logical abilities. His talk will be given at 1:30 p.m. today.

Richard C. Maloney, associate dean of the College of Liberal Arts, will speak on "Penn State: History and Traditions" at 3:30 p.m. today and again at 7:30 Friday. His talk will be accompanied by a movie.

For those interested in the strange, old-fashioned life of the Amish people, Maurice A. Mook, professor of anthropology will talk on "Barndoor Britches and Shoo-Fly Pie" at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Kinsley R. Smith, professor of psychology, will speak at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow on "What Psychology is Not." He will comment on the practices of fortune telling, handwriting analysis, and mind reading.

Mary L. Willard, professor of chemistry, will talk on new scientific methods of detecting criminals. Her lecture, entitled "Murder under the Microscope," will be presented at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow.

"Painting as Language" will be the topic of Harold E. Dickson, professor of history of art and architecture. His talk will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Forrest J. Remick, research associate for the nuclear reactor project, will close the series with a talk on "Fission in a Swimming Pool" at 1:30 p.m. Friday. He will explain the operation of a nuclear reactor.

IFC Group Hears Talk By Frizzell

"Fraternity men must not only learn the essentials of fraternity life, but also carry them out," John Henry Frizzell, long-time fraternity advisor and an originator of the Interfraternity Council at Penn State, said yesterday.

Frizzell addressed about 50 fraternity presidents, faculty advisors and members of the administration, in the Hetzel Union building at the afternoon session of the IFC Encampment.

"If we are to meet the challenge and criticism directed toward fraternities, we must discharge our responsibilities," he said. Fraternities must realize that they are an integral part of the institution in which they are located and make a real contribution to that institution, he said.

"We must accept our role in the moral and spiritual development of our members," he said. "Life's greatest values are of the mind, heart, soul—the ideals a fraternity tries to inculcate. Our responsibility is to carry on and make it our tomorrow," he concluded.

Reports from the eight workshop discussions were also heard at yesterday afternoon's session. Recommendations reported from the committees will be mimeographed and brought up on the IFC floor for legislation, according to Howard Mears, IFC Encampment chairman.

Recommendations from the Activities Workshop, as presented by Chester Lucido, workshop chairman, included a proposal that IFC set up a committee to investigate the possibility of an inter-collegiate jazz festival in place of the former IFC ball.

Liberal Arts Council Mixer

The Liberal Arts Student Council Mixer will be held at 7:45 tonight in Pollock dining area, rather than in the Hetzel Union ballroom as is printed on the tickets.

Frosh to Learn About Activities

Wanna be a hatman or hatwoman? According to the representatives of the hat societies on campus, in addition to having a good scholastic average and exhibiting leadership qualities, one of the main prerequisites needed in aiming toward a hat is active membership in a number of varied activities.

New students will have the chance to find out what activities are offered on campus and how to join them by attending the Activities Information Center which will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. tomorrow in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

Members of the various college councils will be on hand to tell about activities within the colleges.

For information on student government there will be representatives of the Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic Council, Women's Student Government, Student Government Association, election committees, judicial and political parties.

Also represented will be dramatics and forensics, publications, hat societies, religious societies, military societies, music and band, independent organizations, Leonides and AIM, and education societies.

Each booth will be staffed with representatives of the various activities.

Information will be available for students interested in running for offices, and for those who wish to get started with training programs in some of the activities, such as the Daily Collegian.

Most of all, new students will be able to meet the men and women who are leaders of the activities in which they are interested.

Used Gymsuit Collection

A collection of secondhand gymsuits will be held from 5 to 6 p.m. today and tomorrow by members of Cwens, sophomore women's hat society.

Women wishing Cwens to sell their old gymsuits for them may bring the suits to the mailrooms of Atherton, McElwain, Simmons, Redifer and Pollock 1 or the McKee lounge.

Suits must be clean and ironed, and the size must be known.

725 Students Awarded Scholarships

Approximately $218,289 is awarded each year by the University as scholarships to 725 students.

One hundred fifty members of the freshman class were presented with scholarships prior to enrollment. The majority of these grants were made with consideration to the student's curriculum and were awarded by the various colleges in accordance with their scholarship programs.

The University Senate Committee on Scholarships presents approximately 100 awards each year without consideration to curriculum. These grants are retroactive to the beginning of the school year, but the money is officially distributed in January.

In order to renew a scholarship freshmen should apply following their first completed semester. Upperclassmen should turn in their applications before Oct. 31 during the academic year. Scholarships presented to first semester students are given on the basis of applications filed in March previous to the year of enrollment.

Financial aid, granted on the basis of need and scholarship, ranges from $25 to the highest scholarship presently worth $1230. The size of the grants varies according to the students financial need.

Inspection to Be Held For Student Bicycles

A bicycle inspection will be held Saturday, Sept. 24, 9-12 a.m., in the Municipal Building, announced John R. Juba, State College chief of police.

The inspection is being held for the benefit of students who intend to keep bicycles on campus and who have not already had them inspected.
