Encampment Reports: Some New, Few Echoes

Student Encampment, the pre-season conclave of student leaders which convened two weeks ago, came up with some interesting recommendations but also merely echoed some recommendations that had been made at last year's encampment.

The discussion of the possibility of Penn State obtaining a 50,000-watt transmitter and becoming the keystone in a regional educational radio network system that would cover the northeast as far as Canada and even extend into the mid-West was certainly intriguing and rightly gained encampment support.

Conversely, other recommendations such as the request for codification of existing student and organizational regulations and changes in the grading system are just echoes of recommendations made last year.

Which brings up the question, "What happens to encampment recommendations after the student leaders leave the pleasant surroundings of Mont Alto?"

Probably the most important recommendation passed at encampment was to have each workshop chairman follow the progress of the recommendations made in his workshop and to make a report next spring.

These reports would be given to the new encampment chairmen and compiled for presentation to members of next year's encampment so they could evaluate the effect of the past encampment and the results accomplished by its recommendations. They would also serve as a guide for the ensuing encampment.

Last year the SGA workshop recommended that student government assume more responsibility in student affairs.

Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, special assistant to the president for student affairs, in the opening speech at this year's encampment called for the same thing, though neglecting to indicate just how much responsibility for student affairs the administration would allow SGA to take.

This year's SGA workshop did not specifically mention it, but all its recommendations pointed toward this assumption of greater responsibility.

Bernreuter said the administration would not respect SGA until it regulated student conduct and took more responsibility in student affairs.

SGA has seemed reluctant and hesitant to do much actual regulation, feeling that they had only the power to recommend

Maybe they should take Bernreuter at his word and see how much regulation the administration will allow by SGA.

Just as the progress of SGA actions must be followed and their effects evaluated, so it must also be determined just how much weight encampment recommendations carry.

When I returned from Northern Europe, a friend of mine asked "Why did you go? You could have gotten more knowledge from textbooks or news reports. All you have are some bits of information and some pictures!"

And so I replied, "But I saw for myself. It is my own first hand knowledge of—"

Iceland, a rugged little island country, filled with scattered volcanos, geysers and rock strewn pastures for scrawny sheep and cattle.

The people are thankful for the U.S. Marshall plan aid and yet uneasy about its NATO base.

Norway, land of mountain islands, whose people are independent fishermen, farmers and foresters not scared easily by Russian threats against them.

Sweden, more industrialized with its mining and manufacturing, yet famous for its beautiful lakes. The people are easy going, reserving judgement of peoples and countries until they have seen them act instead of promise.

Denmark, a paradise of rolling green fields decorated by fat brown and white cows. The Danes are a friendly people who bend backwards to be hospitable.

These last three are socialist countries where high taxes go toward free education, medical and accident insurance, free hospital care for the aged, free living quarters for the aged, and government loans up to 80 percent on a home or apartment.

Finland, Helsinki's yellow buildings looking bleak in the rain. The people are being pushed toward a dependence on Russia because of the USSR's nearness and for trade reasons.

East Germany, Hamburg, the tugboat capitol of the world, showing hardly any traces of the bombing it suffered in World War II. While in West Berlin, the people wait for the East Germans to start trouble.

Holland, a land of irrigation ditches surrounded by green fields.

Belgium, a country that has been continually overrun by conquerors throughout history because of its chemical and machinery parts industries.

You ask the people about the Congo and they will complain about Communist agitation which wrecked plans for a gradual withdrawal of troops needed to help Lumumba set up a stable government. Yet you wonder why the Congolese were not better educated for independence.

Ireland, a land of green mountains and the shimmering blue lakes of Kilarney. Yet the younger generation are leaving the isolation of the farms for other countries.

Yes, you can learn a lot from books but experience, as well as a professor, can be a very good teacher.

Congo Causes Clash at U.N. Lawrence Says Jobless Ignored

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The Soviet Union clashed head on with the Asian-African nations yesterday over support of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in his policies on the Congo.

Valerian A. Zorin, the Soviet deputy foreign minister, submitted a resolution to the emergency session of the General Assembly seeking to hold Hammarskjold responsible for the overthrow of Patrice Lumumba, the sometimes Congo premier.

But the assembly appeared headed for certain approval of an Asian-African resolution backing the secretary-general.

This would be a rebuke to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who arrived in New York to attend the regular fall assembly opening this afternoon. He has accused Hammarskjold of backing "Belgian colonialists" in the Congo.

Zorin declared the Soviet Union could not accept the Asian-African resolution because it failed to make any reference to what he called "direct acts of subversion in the Congo by colonialist elements."

Then he introduced the Soviet resolution amounting to a virtual indictment of Hammarskjold and seeking condemnation of Belgium for armed aggression against the Congo "with the support of her NATO allies."

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. David L. Lawrence yesterday said President Eisenhower turned his back on unemployment by vetoing area development bills.

"When the President vetoed the Douglas-Clark-Flood area development bill, he turned his back on Pennsylvania, her population, her industries and her needs," the governor said.

He was speaking at a nine-state conference on unemployment. The conference was called by Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate.

Lawrence said one out of every 12 jobless workers in the United States lives in Pennsylvania.

"We're not begging for hand-outs," he said. "We were asking instead that the present administration demonstrate its faith in the future of America by investing in that future."

Nixon Campaigns In Scranton Area

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon campaigned in rain-splattered Wilkes-Barre and Scranton yesterday promising help for this economically depressed region if he is elected president.

Nixon, covered with an umbrella, spoke in Wilkes-Barre, where police estimated the crowd in what is known as the downtown public square as between 15,000 and 20,000 people. The rain pelted down as Nixon spoke on a subject dearest to the hearts of these eastern Pennsylvania anthracite residents—economic help.

"As I entered the city," Nixon asserted, "I saw a sign which read 'vote Democratic, Democrats care.' If they care so much," said Nixon, "why didn't they pass an acceptable bill in the last congress to aid economically distressed areas?"

Congolese Leaders May Make Peace

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo, (AP) — President Joseph Kasavubu's pro-Western government sought yesterday to make peace with its bitter enemy, Patrice Lumumba, by offering the deposed, Communist-backed premier a Cabinet post.

There was no immediate reply from Lumumba whose office earlier had said a conciliation had been reached between Lumumba and Kasavubu under which Lumumba would remain premier.

Kasavubu acknowledged he had discussed a possible reconciliation with sources close to Lumumba but said he refused to sign any accord and subsequently repudiated the Lumumba announcement.

Kasavubu's premier is Joseph Ileo.

Ike Alludes to 'K' As Troublemaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said yesterday "There seem to be some troublemakers trying to come to our country."

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter saw no brightening of the slim prospects that Eisenhower will get together with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. He discounted the possibility of serious negotiations at a big United Nations General Assembly meeting.

These comments just about summed up first Washington reaction to the second U.S. visit of Khrushchev. Washington's No. 1 cold war foe.

The President did not specify "the troublemakers" by name and the White House declined to amplify. Over the weekend Eisenhower had appealed to Americans to be calm, reasonable and dignified toward the U.N. visitors even though they may have vilified the United States.

Castro Stays in Hotel, Protests U.S. Treatment

NEW YORK (AP) — An angry Fidel Castro stayed behind a formidable police guard yesterday, refusing to budge from the hotel suite to which he has confined himself since his arrival Sunday.

The Cuban prime minister's wrath came out in an official protest to the United Nations over the manner in which he said he was treated by his American guards Sunday upon his arrival from Havana.

Castro is here to address the United Nations General Assembly which starts today.
