21-8 Upset Victory by Missouri Spoils Nittanies' Homecoming

By SANDY PADWE

The course of the 1960 football season changed abruptly for Penn State and Missouri Saturday afternoon.

Missouri's 21-8 upset before 35,500 homecoming fans in Beaver Stadium firmly established the Tigers as one of the nation's top teams, but for State the outlook was glum with Army, Syracuse and Illinois dead ahead.

The story of the game was simple. State gave the ball away five times on fumbles and interceptions and Missouri took advantage of every opportunity.

"We simply couldn't get an offense mounted," a sad-faced Rip Engle said following the game.

"Missouri simply ran faster, blocked harder and was a much quicker team today," he added.

Even though State had the advantage in the statistical department, Missouri managed to control the game both offensively and defensively from start to finish.

Missouri's offensive line carried out its blocking assignments perfectly and opened huge holes for their fleet backs to fly through all afternoon.

The Tigers rolled up 180 yards on the ground, with halfbacks Mel West, Norris-Stevenson, Norm Beal and Donnie Smith leading the way.

West was the individual leader with 48 yards in 16 carries, but it was Stevenson who did the most damage with 39 yards in six carries, including a 13-yard touchdown sprint to clinch the game for Missouri in the last quarter.

In the passing department, the Tigers only had four completions, but two went for touchdowns.

Both came in the second quarter. Quarterback Ron Taylor flipped the first one and Smith threw the second.

Missouri's first touchdown drive started at the end of the first quarter and covered 80 yards in 15 plays.

West was the chief factor in the drive, ripping off 29 yards in six carries, including a 15-yard jaunt which set up the score.

After West had moved the ball to the State 19, Andy Russell, a substitute fullback got nowhere on a plunge up the middle. West moved for three yards and the

Autumn Weather To Prevail Today

Beautiful autumn weather will prevail in the Nittany Valley today and tomorrow as a slow moving high pressure area maintains clear to partly cloudy skies and seasonable temperatures.

The high center will be drifting across New York state this afternoon, but its favorable influence will be felt over the entire eastern half of the nation.

This afternoon's temperature will hover about the 65 degree mark with slightly higher readings in prospect for tomorrow.

'Series' Tickets Distribution Begins Today

Ticket distribution will begin at 1:30 p.m. today at the Hetzel Union desk for the program to be presented Sunday night by the National Symphony Orchestra.

The appearance of the orchestra with Jaime Laredo as violin soloist will be the second presentation of the Artists' Series for the fall semester. The concert, which will include works by Dvorak, Bruch and Prokofieff, will begin at 8 p.m. in Rec Hall.

Non-student tickets will go on sale at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

The orchestra, under the direction of Howard Mitchell, will open the program with "Carnival Overture" by Anton Dvorak.

Laredo will be featured violinist in the presentation of "Concerto No. 1 in G Minor for Violin and Orchestra" by Max Bruch.

Following intermission the program will close with Prokofieff's "Symphony No. 5 in B Flat Major."

Mitchell, who joined the orchestra in 1933 as a cellist, was named conductor in 1949. Under his direction the Symphony has won wide acclaim both in this country and abroad.

Students May Accelerate; Exam Period Eliminated

By MEG TEICHHOLTZ

This summer will see the initiation of the four-term plan as the possibilities of a jet age education begin to revamp the entire academic year at the University.

Announced yesterday by President Eric A. Walker, the plan will divide the present two semesters into four terms of 10 weeks each. Concentration of the class periods from the present 50 minutes to 75 minutes will retain the current total time allotment in classes, course organization and credit structure.

A 20-minute break will be provided between classes.

According to Walker the principal reasons for a change in the academic calendar are to:

- Provide a more flexible program of studies and one more readily adaptable to the needs of the rapidly increasing number of students.

- Increase the year-round utilization of the resources of the University.

- Adjust the affairs and relationships in the University to make a maximum contribution to the varying needs of the Commonwealth.

The fee structure will remain the same. The present $480 for two semesters will be divided by three, and the cost will be $160 per term.

Centralized registration in Recreation Hall will be continued during the Orientation Week for the fall term. Registration for the winter, spring, and summer terms will be completed in the regis-

Khrushchev Sets Parley Conditions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—(AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev said last night he will meet President Eisenhower provided that the United States admits that the flights of the U2 and the RB47 were "treacherous acts."

Khrushchev made the statements in a reply to five neutralist nations who introduced a resolution in the United Nations urging a personal meeting between him and Eisenhower.

Khrushchev repeated his charges that the flights of the U2 and RB47 constituted "flagrant violations" of Soviet territorial sovereignty. He continued, "The U.S. government repeatedly reaffirmed the said treacherous policy although this policy represents an unprecedented violation of the very foundation of international law."

Then, stating his conditions for meeting Eisenhower, the Soviet premier said:

"A clear admission of what was the reason for the deterioration of relations is necessary.

"A clear admission is necessary that it has been occasioned by the unprecedented treacherous acts of the U.S. government which chose the way of carrying out provocative, aggressive acts against the Soviet Union.

"In other words we are ready to establish contacts and enter into negotiations with the President and the government of the United States, having in mind that the U.S. government will find courage to condemn the above-mentioned acts that brought about a deterioration of the Soviet-American relations and will show good will toward the practical improvement of these relations."

Indies to Organize Executive Council

Leonides Council voted last night to establish an Independent Student Association Executive Council with the Town Independent Men and the Association of Independent Men. The group also reversed an earlier decision and decided to participate with TIM and AIM in an Indie Encampment.

The ISA Executive Council will be set up to establish coordination and communication between the independent men's and women's groups, Phillip Haines, TIM president, told Leonides council members.

Under the new organization, the officers (a total of 12) of each independent association — Leonides, TIM and AIM — will meet to recommend actions to their individual groups. Haines said.

They will not initiate or vote on legislation, but will only have the power to recommend ISA suggestions to their separate groups.

Haines also spoke to the council on joining with TIM and AIM for an Indie Encampment on campus, since Leonides' main objection to the proposal had been that the encampment was planned for off-campus and would involve extra expense to council members.

Leonides voted affirmatively to join the encampment, which will be held on Oct. 23 in the Hetzel Union Building. All independents will be invited to participate in the workshops, Haines said.

"By meeting with Leonides, we will be able to re-evaluate our position on campus, and the changing role our two groups now play under the new community residence council setup," he said. Reorganization of the Association of Women Students was also discussed by the council. Lillian Davenport, AWS reorganization chairman, explained the "revised and expanded" functions of AWS and how Leonides will be affected by the change.

"We are also working for more direct communications between student groups here on campus," she told the group.

Further explaining the part Leonides will play in the conjunction with the AWS Senate, Miss Davenport said that the Senate representatives will be selected according to the percentage of class groups living in the dorms.

Since the two representatives from each community will be elected from among the council members of the respective communities, the system will provide independent women with a greater opportunity to participate in student government, she said.
