

Australia Attacks Khrushchev On Attempts to Break-Up U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (P)—Australia denounced Soviet Premier Khrushchev as a hypocritical latter-day Caesar trying to break up the United Nations and advance his influence by threats and violence.

The sizzling attack came as a tense struggle shaped up in the UN General Assembly over an apparently foredoomed neutralist attempt to bring President Eisenhower once again face to face with the Soviet leader.

Prime Minister Nehru of India, a leading and influential voice of neutralism, spearheaded the neutralist effort, demanding unanimous or near-unanimous passage of a five-nation neutralist resolution appealing for a two-man summit. Failure of the assembly to adopt it, he said would be dangerous to the world's future.

But apparently reflecting sagging neutralist hopes, the sponsor nations watered down their original resolution, changing their "request" for an Eisenhower-Khrushchev conference to an expression of hope that one would take place.

Apparently the best the neutralists hoped for, in view of the distaste for the idea expressed by both world leaders, was that the assembly would spread that expression of hope on the record.

Spirited debate over the neutralist attempt, occupying most of the assembly's morning time, was interrupted in the afternoon for a resumption of the policy debate.

It was then that Prime Minister Robert Gordon Menzies, in an address for that debate, let fly his heavy assault on Khrushchev, one of the strongest against the Communist chief thus far at this spectacular 15th General Assembly session. Menzies conferred with President Eisenhower in Washington Sunday.

"Mr. Khrushchev," the Australian told the assembly, "has sought to convert the United Nations into the disunited nations by dividing the nations — as ancient Gaul was according to Julius Caesar — into three parts, which he conveniently describes as the Communist world, the free democratic world or, as he might prefer to call it so as not to step outside the slogan line, the capitalist world and the neutral world."

This was a reference to Khrushchev's proposal to scrap the office of the U.N. secretary-general and substitute a board of three veto-wielding members.

Assembly To Consider Contest Bill

The Student Government Association Assembly will consider tonight a bill which calls for SGA to sponsor a cheer contest. Assembly will meet at 8 tonight in 203 Hetzel Union Building.

The bill grew from an Encampment recommendation that the contest be held to promote school spirit and to provide some new cheers.

Assembly will also hear a general Encampment report and Encampment Workshop reports on academic affairs, communications, rules and regulations and University expansion and welfare. The Student Check Cashing Agency report will also be heard.

The committee which was approved by SGA Cabinet to review budgets of some campus organizations will begin work soon, SGA President Richard Haber said yesterday.

The organizations whose budgets will be reviewed will be those which were originally set up by SGA such as the Student Check Cashing Agency, Chess Team and the Debate Team.

Later, Haber said, the committee hopes to review budgets of other student organizations on campus. The purpose of this review, he said, will be to evaluate the distribution of funds and to suggest reallocation of compensations.

Indie Week to Open With Hike Saturday

A week of social activities are in store for all independent students on campus with the beginning of Indie Week on Saturday.

A hike up Mt. Nittany on Saturday will begin the week's activities. All independent students are requested to sign up at the Hetzel Union desk by Friday if they wish to participate. The group will meet at 2 p.m. Saturday at the HUB desk. Transportation to the mountain will be provided.

A wiener roast is planned after the hike for all conquerors of the mountain.

On Sunday there will be a card party for all Indies. Interested players are requested to sign up for any card game they want to play at the HUB desk until Saturday of this week.

Interviews for one of the big attractions of the week, the selection of the Indie Queen, will begin this Sunday. Candidates for queen may pick up applications at the HUB desk until Saturday.

Any independent woman is eligible for the contest. She may be nominated by a campus group or may make a self-nomination.

The queen will be judged on beauty, charm, poise and talent, Barry Rein, co-chairman of Indie Week for the Association of Independent Men, said.

Tryouts for a talent show will also begin this Sunday. Applicants are asked to sign up at the HUB desk by Saturday.

Fireside chats, sponsored by the West Halls and Pollock Halls Councils, Leonides and the Association of Independent Men, will be held next Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights.

A favorite social activity on campus, the jam session, will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Pollock lounge.

The crowning of the Indie Queen, the AIM-Lenoidea Talent Show on Friday night and a "Las Vegas Nite" on Saturday night in the HUB ballroom will climax the week-long program.

Bonfire Will Spark 'Beat Army,' Rally

That "ole" Army mule will lose all of her kick if a spirited student crowd cheers at the bonfire pep rally tonight and at the "Lick 'um Lions" rally tomorrow morning.

According to Paul Krow, sophomore in business administration from McKeesport, the Block 'S' Club is sponsoring a pep rally and morning send-off for the team in order to arouse the apathetic students on campus to cheer the Lions on to victory.

A motorcade will leave from Simmons at 7 p.m., travel up Shortlidge Rd. past North Halls, and lead team-supporters to tonight's pep rally on the field across from Beaver Stadium.

According to Krow, everyone is invited to join the motorcade.

The cheerleaders and band will strike up the "There will be a hot time at old Army Saturday" chant as 80 20-foot red pines burn in the bonfire.

Pete Ferretti, junior in horticulture from Nazareth, acting for the Horticulture Club donated the pines that were used in the horticulture show.

Jerry Abrams, senior in business administration from Harrisburg and Corky Goldstein, junior in arts and letters from Harrisburg, will amuse all loyal Lion boosters with a skit.

Paul Krow, who is master of ceremonies, cheerleaders, band, and Co. will also be on hand at 8:45 tomorrow morning on the steps of Recreation Hall to give the Lions a roaring sendoff.

"I hope that every student will attend both pep rallies to help insure our team of a victory," Pete Hodges, captain of the cheerleaders, said.

Cloudy Skies, Rain Predicted

A steady deterioration in weather conditions is expected in the next day or two.

A major storm system should develop in the South-Central portion of the nation today and will begin moving toward this area. Consequently, cloudiness will be on the increase today and rain or showers are likely this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow.

Temperatures will be on the rise today, but slightly cooler weather is indicated for tonight and tomorrow.

Today's high temperature will be about 72 degrees, while tonight's low will be about 58. A maximum of 62 is expected tomorrow.

Curtin Rd. Traffic Will Be Rerouted

Curtailed traffic on Curtin Rd. will be necessary tomorrow from 8:20 a.m. until the afternoon due to construction work.

Utility lines will be laid across Curtin Rd. to the east of Frazier Rd. Traffic moving from west to east campus should detour via Atherton St., Park Ave., and parking area 70, east of the old athletic fields.

A similar restriction will be necessary on Monday, Oct. 10, but at that time Frazier Rd. will be available to cars traveling from west to east. Traffic moving from east to west will use the Park Ave. detour.

Senate Group Considers Charters

By KAY MILLS

The trend toward reorganization of student activities leaves some students wondering how the administration decides which groups to recognize.

AWS, MRC, TIM, AIM or any other student groups must apply to the Senate Committee on Student Affairs for approval of new constitutions or changes in existing ones.

"Technically speaking," said Dr. Monroe Newman, chairman of the committee, "no student organization may use University property unless it is chartered."

If, however, a group is organizing and preparing to seek a charter, Newman said, the University allows it to meet on campus.

Any student organization must be chartered to be recognized by the University. To receive this charter, the group must present its constitution, bylaws, officers' and advisers' names to the Senate committee.

The committee refers charter or constitutional changes to its Subcommittee on Organizational Control, of which Dr. Alex Black, assistant director of the agricultural experiment station, is chairman.

The subcommittee reviews the group's petition, usually talking with its officers and perhaps adviser, Newman said. The subcommittee then makes its recommendations for action to the full committee.

If the charter is not approved, the student group may be asked to make improvements in its constitution and can reapply when it feels sufficient improvement has been made.

The full committee is composed of 11 members, including in ex officio capacity Richard Haber and Donald Clagett of the Student Government Association and Margaret McPherson of the Association of Women Students.

The Subcommittee on Organizational Control has three faculty members and two students appointed by SGA.

Newman said the committee normally charts many student interest groups if they meet minimum membership requirements. Groups involving student government get "much more careful examinations."

A student group denied a charter cannot function at the University.

Eidophor to Carry Campaign Debates

Faculty and students will be able to see the remaining three Kennedy-Nixon debates and possibly one of the World Series games via the Eidophor system in Schwab.

The second debate in the Kennedy-Nixon series will be presented over the new projecting system at 7:30 tomorrow night. The Third debate is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Oct. 13; the fourth for 10 p.m. Oct. 21.

The doors of Schwab will open at 7 p.m. and the audience will be seated on a first-come-first served basis, according to Leslie J.P. Greenhill, associate director of the Division of Academic Research and Services.

The possibility of witnessing a World Series game of Eidophor will be investigated as soon as possible by a committee to be appointed by the Student Government Association Assembly tomorrow night. Dick Haber, SGA president, said.

George Donovan, co-ordinator of student activities, brought the idea of Eidophor expansion to the attention of the SGA Assembly.

The committee hopes to be able to present other programs of major interest to faculty and students via the unique facilities of Eidophor.

Pronounced eye-do-for, the experimental system has definite technical advantages which are not present in ordinary television reception, according to Dr. Clarence R. Carpenter, head of the Division of Academic Research and Services.

Eidophor permits a large audience to witness a clearer, sharper picture on a 10x14 foot screen.

The projector, installed in the back of Schwab, is 65 inches high, 25 inches wide and 48 inches deep. It weighs about 900 pounds.

The new projector is based on the control layer system in which electrical impulses from the camera bombard and thus cause ripples on the surface of a concave mirror coated with a thin layer of oil. Light passing through the resulting ripples in the oil film is projected through a special grating onto the screen.

The control layer system of television projection was invented in 1939 by Dr. Fritz Fischer at the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich.

At present several courses at the University are using the Eidophor facilities.
