

19 Upperclassmen, Frosh Selected for Men's Debate

Nineteen upperclassmen and freshmen have been selected for the men's debate team.

The men who tried out were required to present a five minute talk on the national debate topic for this year, "Resolved that the United States should have compulsory medical insurance for all its citizens."

The following upperclassmen were chosen: Richard Bradford, Stephen DeJong, James Goodman, Myron Hafetz, Leonard Krauss, Ronald Lyon, Keith O'Leary, Paul Stegner, Steven Sulzbacher, Richard Weiner and Jim Roberto.

Charles Brewer, Carl Thormeyer, Stephen Kleisath, Stephen Cavrak, John Bonmi, Paul Brownstein, Clifton Mitchell, and Barry Neillinger.

The first two events for the Men's Debate Team will be public debates with West Virginia Oct. 28 and with Maryland Nov. 4.

The first invitational tournament for the men this year will be held at Wayne University in Detroit. About 16 universities, many from the Midwest, will participate in the debates.

Dr. Eugene White, associate professor of speech, is the new advisor and Peter Galie, senior in labor management relations from Conshohocken, is the student manager-elect for the team.
