Management Conference To Be Held

The Society for the Advancement of Management will hold its second annual conference on Oct. 22.

The topic for this year's conference will be "The Social and Political Responsibilities of Businessmen."

The Society is composed of two organizations, one for students and the other for faculty and industrial executives.

Students in the Society will be required to pay $4 and non-students, $8 for the conference which will include lunch and dinner in the Hetzel Union Building.

Principal speaker at the conference will be John H. Seldon, secretary of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association. Seldon attended the University in 1931-32 and is now active in over 15 industrial organizations.

Students can register for the conference at the HUB desk. The deadline for registration will be 11 a.m. Oct. 22.

Greek Week--

(Continued from page eight) announced schedules of events for the week have been made due to scheduling difficulties, he added. The Bridge Tournament will be held in the Hetzel Union ballroom instead of the HUB cardroom, due to the large number of contestants entered.

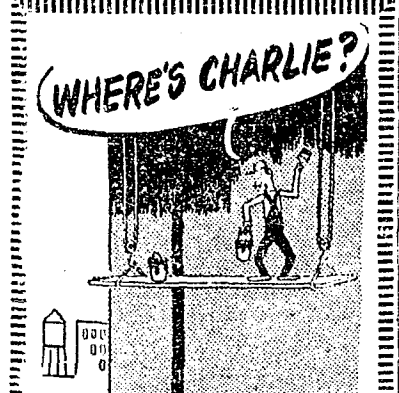

The IFC-Panhel Sing finals have been changed from 8 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. in Schwab so that Thespians may use the auditorium, Anthony said.

Chancellor's Comments--

(Continued from page three) the lights, but when a threat to confiscate their matric cards was made, they dispersed, grumbling about the counselors trying to dampen school spirit.

One disgruntled Nittanyite remarked "Maybe we ought to go up to Syracuse to have a pep rally."

In 1903 the first auto crossed the United States under its own power. The trip took 52 days. Today, more people travel by auto than by any other means of transportation. And the automobile manufacturers of America invest more advertising dollars in newspapers than in any other media.

LA Faculty-- Assembly Studies Budget--

Murray, head of the department of history, said that a student can acquire the basic knowledge required to enter a "400" course in a variety of related courses, not necessarily those stipulated in the catalogue. Murray added that a student's entry should be determined by an evaluation of his record by the department involved.

Dean Euwema requested that Murray do further investigation on this matter.

In other business the faculty head a report by Harold E. Dickson, professor of art, on his meeting yesterday morning with President Eric A. Walker concerning the improvement of the Pattee Library.

Dickson announced that the sum recently allocated to the library would be $100,000, of which $10,000 would go to the Commonwealth Centers. He added that the distribution of the remaining $90,000 had not been determined.

Because of Walker's expressed desire for a more substantial report on the condition of the library, the Liberal Arts faculty will be working to expand on the report it made last spring.

The faculty also voted to eliminate the lecture series which they have sponsored in the past. Wallace R. Brewster, professor of political science, noted that many other groups were now sponsoring lecture series and that there was no longer any need for the Liberal Arts School to implement the existing programs.

Susan Sherman, SGA secretary-treasurer, argued that Darren was basing his suggestion on need and that this idea was "silly."

Frank J. Simes, dean of men, rose to Darren's defense. "SGA is just fortunate that it has the money to give compensations," he said, "but what of all the other students who render a definite service to the University and are never compensated. Some of the compensations named in the proposed budget are ridiculous. Fifteen dollars doesn't really compensate anyone." (Several of the allotments, including junior, sophomore and freshman class presidents called for $15).

Questioning the manner in which the proposed budget was drawn up, Jacqueline Leavitt (U.-Sr.) asked Milus if all people named in the compensations had been contacted and asked about their jobs. Milus said that they had.

Miss Leavitt answered, "I was not contacted." (Miss Leavitt was last year's Spring Week publicity chairman. This is a compensated position.)

Judith High (C.-Sr.), who worked on the budget committee, said that she had contacted the Spring Week float chairman and had received a run-down on all the Spring Week jobs.

Miss Leavitt then said that she was opposed to the budget.

Ultimately, Assembly accepted Grubb's suggestion that the budget, particularly compensations, receive further study.
