

United States Resumes Laos Military Program State Department Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has ordered resumption of its big military assistance program to Laos, including direct salary payments to the 25,000-man royal army, a State Department official said last night.

The action ended a suspension of 10 days or more during which the Soviet Union sought to move into the vacuum with an offer of aid to neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma.

The decision to resume American aid which amounts to about $46 million a year stemmed from talks with Phouma in the Lao capital of Vientiane by troubleshooter J. Graham Parsons, assistant secretary of state for the Far East.

U.S. officials said whatever influence the United States brought to bear was in an effort to bring a unified effort by Lao authorities in their fight to maintain independence against Communist pressures.

Sufficient assurances were received from Phouma so that the United States could go ahead and resume its aid program, informants said.

Most of the September payments to troops which had been held up have now been authorized for payment and steps are being taken to make the October payments by the end of this month.

The United States had disagreed with Phouma in the timing of his peace talks with the Communist-directed Pathet Lao guerrillas which now are under way.

But the neutralist Lao premier has shown backbone in the first conditions he has laid down in negotiating with the Pathet Lao leaders, the State Department feels.

These conditions are first that the Pathet Lao must get out of the northern garrison town of Sam Neua.

Secondly, Phouma has demanded that Pathet Lao guerrillas disengage in areas where they are fighting royal Lao forces.

If the negotiations with the Pathet Lao follow the pattern of 1958, it is believed here that the peace talks will drag out for a long time.

The Varsity 'S' Club will show movies of the Penn State-Syracuse football game tonight in 119 Osmond Lab.

The first film will be shown at 7:30. The second will start at approximately 8:45.

Quarterback Galen Hall will narrate one of the films, and Captain Henry Oppermann may narrate the second. Donations will be collected.

Fraternities Report $112 Stolen Sat.

Two fraternities reported the theft of a total of $112 early Saturday morning, according to State College police. Acacia fraternity reported the loss of $53 from four members and Phi Kappa Tau reportedly lost $59 from five members.

Police officials said they believe the crimes were committed by the same persons or persons, since the operating procedures were identical. In both cases, they said, only folding money was stolen.

Both fraternities use the dormitory system for sleeping, so the rooms where students study and keep their clothing were unoccupied. Saturday morning members of both houses found their clothing in disarray and their wallets empty, police said.

Only the two ground floor rooms of Acacia were victimized, police said, but the Phi Kappa Tau theft occurred on the second floor.

In both cases the front door of the house was found open at one time in the evening. Phi Kappa Tau's door was left open all night and Acacia's door was found open at about 4 a.m., although previously it had been locked. Police said a member of Acacia may have left the door unlocked when leaving or entering the house very early.

This is the first time a theft has occurred at either house, a police official said, but similar incidents have occurred periodically at other neighborhood houses.

Orange Squeeze Past State, 21-15

Syracuse turned Piety Hill into Heartbreak Hill for Penn State Saturday with a 21-15 victory which left 40,617 Archbold Stadium fans wondering just how long it's going to be before Ben Schwartzwalder's luck runs out.

It almost did Saturday, but the National Champs received a six-point gift on an intercepted pass and then put on a last-second goal line stand to win their 15th straight and their third squeaker in four games this season.

The 1960 struggle was almost an exact replica of last year's 20-18 spintingler won by the Orange. And it will undoubtedly go down in the record books as one of the greatest games ever played.

This was drama at the Hollywood level with the Nittany Lions trying desperately to come from behind for an upset victory.

They just couldn't quite make it, though, as an 85-yard drive in the last two minutes stalled on the Orange four-yard line with just seven seconds remaining.

"I've had some great disappointments through the years," Lion coach Rip Engle said as he thought back to the game, "but this was the most discouraging because the boys played so well and fought their hearts out. I wanted the win for them, not myself."

"The whole team looked good," Engle continued. "We came back strongly in the end and I thought we were in control."

Schwartzwalder took nothing away from either team. "This game did us good. Penn State threw a lot of different stuff at us," he said referring to State's spreads and unbalanced line. "They gave us a liberal education."

"All in all it was a good win. We made some mistakes that have to be corrected but I'm proud of the kids."

"Rip has nothing to be ashamed of. His boys did a good job. If they had a couple of breakaway backs like Kansas, they'd really be something."

Arctic Air Will Hit Area With Force

Old man winter will begin to bring the calendar up to date today.

The balmy, summer-like days of the past two weeks which featured sunshine and afternoon temperatures in the 70's will be transformed into more wintery ones with blustery northwesterly winds, much colder temperatures and possibly a few light showers tomorrow.

The arctic air that will begin to influence the weather in this area tonight originated over the polar ice cap late last week and temperatures in its core are below zero.

There will be considerable modification of this air mass as it journeys southeastward from Northwestern Canada.

But, nevertheless, temperature readings in this area will fall into the upper 20's tomorrow night.

The forecast for this area indicates partly cloudy skies and cooler temperatures for today. The maximum reading will be near 60 degrees, which 10 degrees cooler than yesterday's high.

Partly cloudy, windy and colder weather is expected tonight with temperatures falling into the upper 30's.

Tomorrow will be mostly cloudy, windy and considerably colder with a few light showers likely. The high temperature will barely reach the 50 degree mark.

Much colder weather is due tomorrow night.

First place winners in the fraternity and sorority divisions of both the group sing and quartet contests will be awarded trophies. Second, third and fourth place winners in the group sing for both divisions will receive plaques.

Group sing first place winners will get 40 points toward the over-all Greek Week trophy. Second place will carry 30 points and third place 20 points.

The first place quartets will gain 20 points for their respective groups. Second place in the quartets will result in 15 points and third will carry 10 points.

Every group which entered the Sing Contest will be given an additional 10 points and each quartet entry will gain five points.

Each group will sing one required song and one number of its own choice. The required number for fraternities is "Shenandoah" and the selected number must be sung unaccompanied.

The required sorority number is "Green Cathedral" and must also be sung without accompaniment. The selected sorority number may be sung with or without accompaniment.

Judging will be based on tonality, intonation, interpretation and phrasing, balance of parts, diction and general effects.

Accident Postpones Artist Series Show

The University Artists Series Concert, by Leon Fleisher, pianist, scheduled for tomorrow evening in Schwab Auditorium, has been postponed until 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

The change was made yesterday after the pianist informed the Artists Series Committee that he had sprained a ligament in his wrist, making it impossible for him to keep his concert schedule.

Fleisher, a judge for the Leventritt Foundation Music Award, believes that he suffered the sprain carrying heavy stacks of music around during the judging last week.

Tickets issued and sold for the Wednesday night date will be used for the Saturday night program.

Students who have obtained tickets and cannot attend the Saturday performance are requested to return the tickets to the Hetzel Union desk so that they will be available for other students who wish to attend the concert.

About 300 student tickets and 116 faculty and non-student tickets remain for the concert.

Faculty and other non-students who have purchased tickets may return them if they are unable to use them Saturday.

Fleisher was born into a musical background, began his piano studies when he was four, and gave his first public recital when he was six.

Between the ages of 10 and 20, Fleisher studied in Italy and New York, under Artur Schnabel.

He made his first official orchestral debut in 1943 with the San Francisco Orchestra under Pierre Monteux, who a year later presented him at the New York Philharmonic.
