

Junior Residents To Attend Workshop

A workshop for all junior residents in the women's residence halls will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the Nittany Lion Inn.

Dean of Women, Dorothy J. Lipp, will open the session which is to acquaint junior residents with their functions and responsibilities. After introductory remarks by several of the community coordinators, small groups will form to discuss the topics of leadership and responsibility, communications and service.

Faculty Women To Have Use Of White Hall

Faculty women and wives of faculty members will soon be able to use the facilities in White for two periods each week.

The first meeting to orientate the participants with the facilities and proposed program will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday in 105 White. An activity period will follow the organization meeting.

The program has been started in response to a large number of requests, Martha A. Adams, assistant professor of physical education for women, said.

The activity periods will be held on Tuesdays from 3 to 4:30 p.m. and on Thursdays from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Badminton, bowling, swimming and volleyball will be offered Tuesday. A dance and exercise group led by Mrs. G. K. Nelson, wife of G. Kenneth Nelson, professor of accounting, will be held on Thursdays.

A nominal fee will be charged for bowling, but all other activities will be free.

Religious Author to Talk At Rufus Jones Lecture

Dr. Anna C. Brinton, author of books on religion and liberal arts, will speak at the annual Rufus Jones lecture at 8 p.m. Sunday in 121 Sparks.

Sponsored by the University Christian Association and the State College Friends Meeting, the talk will be on "The Quaker World Outlook."

Disciplinary Action Taken Against Two Students for Misdemeanors

A first semester student was put on suspended suspension and a sixth semester student was given disciplinary probation this week, according to Leroy Austin, assistant dean of men.

The freshman, a student in business administration from Philadelphia, was put on suspended suspension for the rest of the semester by the Senate Subcommittee on Discipline.

The student was sentenced for repeated misbehavior in the residence halls, particularly for misuse of a fire extinguisher, and for showing disrespectful and emotional behavior toward the residence hall staff members during this semester.

He was scheduled to appear before tribunal but because of involvement in further difficulties he was finally referred to the subcommittee.

The junior, a student in chemistry and physics from Baltimore, Md., was put on disciplinary probation for the rest of the semester by the dean of men's office.

He had flouted the authority of the residence hall counselors and refused to cooperate in fire drills, required residence hall meetings, and refused to respect quiet hour regulations, Austin said.

Under both suspended suspension and disciplinary probation, the student's activities are limited. Although they may be members of organizations and participate in their activities they may not be officers or committee chairmen. Also, they may not participate in varsity sports although they can participate in intramurals.

If a student misbehaves while under suspended suspension he may be suspended immediately by the dean of men's office.

Ferguson To 'Storm' Rec Hall

Tickets are still available for the Maynard Ferguson concert to be held at 8 p.m. Sunday in Recreation Hall.

The jazz trumpeter and his twelve-piece band are being sponsored by the Penn State Jazz Club.

Ferguson formed his jazz band in 1956 after playing with such name bands as Boyd Raeburn, Jimmy Dorsey, Charlie Barnet and Stan Kenton.

Ferguson is one of the few trumpet players who hits "double high C" easily. To quote the music critic of the New York Herald Tribune, "Mr. Ferguson either has a lip of rock, or else he uses a mouthpiece with a bore the size of a sipping straw. Such sounds as he produces are nowhere in the trumpet register; how he made them is a secret he alone knows."

When asked why he has such a large band, he has said, "I find that twelve men give me all the 'bigness' I want and I can operate better at very fast tempos when it comes to swinging because essentially it's lighter than larger orchestras."

Tickets are on sale at the HUB desk, The Harmony Shop and the Nittany News. Tickets are $1 for members of the Jazz Club and $1.50 for non-members.

WRA Hockey Club Defeats Bucknell

The Women's Field Hockey Club, sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association, participated in a fall sports day last Saturday with Bucknell University and Juniata College.

Penn State won by beating Bucknell 3 to 0, while their game with Juniata ended in a 0-0 tie. The third game between Juniata and Bucknell also ended with no scoring.

The games were played on the women's athletic fields.

Schiller Gets $2500 Grant

Roger W. Schiller, instructor of mechanical engineering, will receive a $2500 grant from the American Machine and Foundry Co. to assist in completing research projects initiated during the current academic year.

Schiller, one of three recipients named, is a candidate for a doctorate degree in mechanical engineering. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Society of Electrical Engineers and the American Ordnance Association.

He will investigate possibilities inherent in a pulse hydraulic system where energy is transmitted by pressure pulses rather than oil flow.
