

Greeks, Indies to Work On Stone Valley Project

About 500 Greeks and 500 independents are expected to work on the clean-up project at Stone Valley today, according to Duane Alexander, chairman of the SGA Stone Valley Committee.

Free transportation to Stone Valley will be provided between 12:45 and 1:30 p.m. from the parking lot between McElwain and Pollock. The same buses will return to campus at 5 p.m. and at 6 p.m.

Twenty fraternities and nine sororities have been assigned to the area for their Greek Week project. All other groups have been asked to participate, after they complete their assigned work.

Alexander, in a report to SGA Thursday night, asked that all fraternities bring tools with them to aid in the clean-up project.

However, he emphasized that this project is for all students and faculty and is not just a Greek Week project.

The work to be done includes cleaning debris from the lake, trimming trees and underbrush, diverting a stream and clearing a toboggan slope, beach and picnic area.

The Lion-Illinois game will be broadcast across the lake, Alexander said, and a free hot dog roast will be held for all workers at the end of the day.

Scrolls, senior women's hat society, will operate a concession throughout the afternoon to sell pop, coffee and sandwiches. Funds from this concession will be used to support scholarships.

Committee chairmen for Stone Valley Work Day are: Mary Swed, Greek Week; George Henning, independents; Rebecca Hadden, faculty; Barbara Isaacson, organizations; Mary Sue Hersey, work program; Sondra Schrenker, work plan; John Gilbert, transportation and tools; Samuel Lerch, Hetzel Union exhibit.

1st Meeting Scheduled By DARE

DARE, Direct Action for Racial Equality, will meet at 3:15 p.m. Sunday in the Chapel Lounge. The open meeting is being held for all those interested in learning the functions and purposes of DARE.

Stephen Blum, temporary chairman of the group, explained that the meeting would be informative rather than organizational.

Officers will be elected at a future meeting, he said.

DARE was set up last spring by a group of students and ministers interested in examining discriminatory practices in State College and in perhaps lending support to the Negro sit-ins then occurring in the South.

The group, upon investigation, found that a barbershop, then owned by Kenneth Bunn, refused to service Negroes.

Members of DARE picketed the barbershop in an attempt to bring discriminatory practices to public attention, Blum said.

The group also investigated housing discrimination and conducted a fund raising campaign to help Negroes who were jailed during the sit-ins appeal their sentences.

DARE has not applied for a charter from the University and is, therefore, not an officially recognized student activity.

During this academic year, DARE intends to "concern itself with cooperating with various local and University groups concerned with the discrimination problem and, in specific, that of housing for off-campus minority groups," Blum said.

DPhiE Sorority To Get Charter

The Delta Pi chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon sorority will be chartered today, after which a reception and banquet will be held at the Nittany Lion Inn.

The new Delta Pi chapter was Chi Lambda sorority before it pledged Delta Phi Epsilon last spring.

Mrs. Howard G. Rossner, international president of the sorority, will install the chapter. Undergraduate members from the chapters of the University of Pennsylvania and Temple University will also be present.

Dorothy J. Lipp, dean of women; Mrs. Ronald Mountain and Mrs. Richard Vanderpool, assistants to the dean of women and other members of the administration will be guests of honor.

Delphi, Blue Key Forms Available for Students

Men interested in becoming members of Blue Key, junior men's hat society, or Delphi, sophomore men's hat society, must fill out applications in the dean of men's office, 109 Old Main.

Participation in activities and a 2.0 All-University average are required.

Delphi applications will be available until Tuesday.

Librarian Volunteers Aid in Japanese

By PAT HALLER
Anyone wishing to consult Japanese books in the library can get help from Kimi Hisatsune, newly appointed cataloger, who reads and writes the language.

Mrs. Hisatsune is the wife of Dr. I. Clarence Hisatsune who recently came here as assistant professor of chemistry, from Kansas State at Manhattan, Kan. There she was a cataloger in the university library.

She will demonstrate how to read Japanese books, starting with what we consider to be the back cover. Japanese pages are printed in columns of characters, starting at the right top of a page and going down the column. She will also help in translating.

"Japanese is a difficult language to translate into English," according to Mrs. Hisatsune. She explained this by saying that she has seen Shakespearean productions in Japanese which have an entirely different flavor from the same plays she has seen in English.

Today the Japanese publisher often uses our conventional format with pages reading from left to right and from front to back, with the Japanese characters in lines instead of columns.

Mrs. Hisatsune has observed that advertising signs in Toyko and elsewhere in Japan also tend more and more to follow the Western style and read from left to right. Scientific journals are usually printed in the Western format, also, she added.

Mrs. Hisatsune is American born, a native of Palo Alto, California. She is a graduate of Santa Rosa Junior College, and earned her bachelor of arts degree at the University of California in Berkeley, where she majored in philosophy.

Mrs. Hisatsune learned the Japanese language from her parents. She has a fluent speaking, reading and writing knowledge of Japanese and has a reading and writing knowledge of French, German and Spanish.

Her only visit to Japan was in 1958 with her husband. Both she and her husband found it incredibly crowded and were glad to get back to America.

Harriers Win--

Miller started falling behind the pack at 4 1/2 miles while the Lions' Lionel Bassett started edging up on Rogers.

Spelsberg, hampered by a stomach cramp, started falling behind in the last half mile while Bassett turned on the power and passed Rogers.

Bassett beat off a strong finishing kick by West Virginia's Charlie Rea to take eighth place for the Lions.

Rogers, Rea, Baldwin, and Spelsberg snagged the next four places for the Mounties.

Dave LaHoff, Fred Larson, and Walt Miller copped 13th, 14th, and 15th places respectively for the Lions.

West Virginia's Doug Kersey and Glenn Hunt took the next two places while Penn State's Herb Carver captured 18th in his first varsity appearance.
