

Probation, Restrictions Given Men

Six men students were placed on probation last week by the Dean of Men's office as a result of action taken by the student tribunals, LeRoy S. Austin, associate dean of men, said Tuesday.

One student was put on disciplinary probation for the remainder of the school year for drinking on campus, Austin said. This means that he will not be allowed to hold any offices in student activities or work on any committees of student organizations, Austin explained.

Another student was put on office probation for reckless driving, according to Austin, while taking part in the rally before the Syracuse game. Office probation does not result in any loss of privileges.

The student was charged with speeding in the Nittany Area and failing to stop when representatives of the Dean of Men's office attempted to stop him.

In action Monday night the same student was fined $25 and court costs of $1 by the Traffic Court because his car was not registered, according to Phillip A. Mark, Traffic Violations Officer.

Four men were put on office probation for gambling on campus, Austin said. One of the students was also restricted to his dormitory for the next two weekends since he had had two previous offenses of violation of quiet hours in his living unit.

Maryland Invasion Expected for Game

Approximately 2000 Southerners are expected to invade the campus when the University of Maryland Terrapins meet the Nittany Lions on Nov. 5.

According to Richard Haber, SGA president, two Maryland representatives came here this past weekend to make final arrangements for the "Away Weekend." They were Warren Duckett and Gene Tyndall, co-chairmen of the program. They told Haber that the students at College Park were enthusiastic about the weekend and had been given pamphlets, maps and other literature concerning the Penn State campus.

The Away Weekend idea was initiated this year by Haber and SGA in an attempt to establish a custom by which schools could exchange visits during the academic year.

A formal invitation was sent to the Maryland student government and when the reply was affirmative, plans began to take shape.

The fraternities have been asked, through the Interfraternity Council, to issue special in-

Readers to Give Oral Workshop

An oral interpretation program will be presented by the weekly workshop of the University Readers at 4:15 today in 309 Sparks. Interested students are invited to attend.

Philip Weber, senior in secondary education from West Chester, will present "The Night the Ghost Got In" by James Thurber. Patricia Kampmeier, senior in arts and letters from Wyncote, will read Ray Bradbury's "Shoes."

Our only active honor system is in the Air Force ROTC senior program.

Hat Societies to Extend Deadline for Applications

Deadline for applications to Delphi, sophomore men's hat society, and Blue Key, juniors men's hat society, has been extended until 1 p.m. today.

Applications are to be filled out in the dean of men's office, 109 Old Main.

Interviews for the Delphi applicants will be Sunday afternoon. Men to be interviewed will be informed as to the time and place.

Service Sorority to Meet

Gamma Sigma Sigma, national women's service sorority, will hold a compulsory meeting for all sisters at 7 tonight in 107 Boucke.

Sororities have not been able to do likewise due to the current housing situation and the scarcity of beds. However, this situation has been explained in a letter to the Maryland Panhellenic Council. The sororities here have agreed, however, to try to get off-campus accommodations for Southern coeds who plan to come for the weekend.

The agenda of events for the weekend includes Hubana dance for independents and fraternity parties for the Greeks. The biggest event will be the football game on Saturday afternoon.
