The philanthropic program sponsored by the Sociology Club will be discussed at a meeting at 7:15 p.m. tomorrow in Simmons lounge.

The club will collect items to be distributed at Christmas time to the patients of the state-operated institutions for mental illness at Laurelton and Hollidaysburg.

A drive will be conducted after Thanksgiving in which any of the following items, new or used and in good condition, will be accepted: books, outer clothing, jewelry, toilet articles except for liquid lotions, creative art materials, writing materials, games, tobacco articles such as cigarette holders and food stuffs such as candy, cookies, dried fruit and canned goods.

Teaching Machine--

According to James B. Bartoo, acting department head of mathematics and a consultant in the mathematics subject area, a course taught with a teaching machine is only as good as the person who writes the programmed cards. "He is the key person involved," Bartoo added.

He said that a unit in basic algebra designed for students with inferior background in algebra is the first one being studied for teaching via machine.

The machine method may be used for teaching slower students but in high school testing it has proved very effective in teaching advanced courses, Bartoo said.

Jazz Workshop To Be Held

The Penn State Jazz Club will hold a workshop from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday in 117 Carnegie.

The workshop will feature the Don Krebs quartet; a new group on campus, the Collegiates; Miss Frieda Lee and other Penn State talent.

A demonstration of different types of jazz drumming will be given at the workshop.

The purpose of this workshop is to give jazz musicians a chance to play before an audience which has come for the explicit purpose of hearing jazz and to give the audience a chance to hear what is happening musically in jazz on campus, according to Alan Pollon, president of the Jazz Club.
