

Juniors May Study For Credits Abroad

A revision of Senate rules on study abroad will now enable students to spend their entire junior year in college study overseas.

The program, which began at the University this fall, allows students to transfer their overseas study into credits to be used toward graduation here.

Previous graduation requirements stated that a student must earn 60 of his last 75 credits in residence at the University Park campus. (Former Senate Regulation E-3)

According to Senate Regulation B-5, "A student with an average of 2.50 or higher may be granted leave status to spend his junior year abroad in study at an approved institution. Prior approval of his program by the Office of Admissions and the dean of his college is required to obtain such a leave."

If a student should choose to attend one of the many foreign universities that is not operated on a credit-hour and final examination system as are American schools, he can arrange to take examinations set up by his college upon return to the University.

Some students may feel that their courses would best be supplemented by only one semester instead of a whole academic year abroad. This plan is also possible, according to Dr. Howard A. Cutler, assistant to the vice president for academic affairs.

It is not too late for 5th semester students to apply to spend their spring semester abroad.

Anyone interested in the program should get in touch with his advisor and begin to inquire into the institutions that can provide courses in his field of study.

The University already has one student participating in the program. Mike Winters is currently attending the Christian University in Tokyo.
