

New Lighting Fixtures Improve Pattee Library

The University program to improve lighting in areas of the Pattee Library is being carried out at present by installing new light fixtures in the main reference room, Ralph W. McComb, university librarian said yesterday.

For the past few days, the Physical Plant Planning and Construction Department has been installing new fluorescent lights in the main reference room on the second floor, McComb said. Future plans include new lighting in the offices adjacent to the room and in portions of the stacks, he added.

The new fixtures are part of the University's long range program which is expected to bring the level of lighting up to a suitable point in all areas, McComb said.

As part of the plan, lighting already has improved in the arts reading room on the first floor and the card catalog room on the second, he added. McComb said that the installation of new fluorescent fixtures in Room 107 has already been completed.

McComb explained that the program to give the library satisfactory light for reading will improve conditions in all the reading rooms as well as in the stacks. He added that previously lighting conditions had been very poor.

Much time has gone into the planning of the proper kind of lighting for the various rooms, McComb said. He added that attention was given not only to providing the right amount of light but also to furnishing fixtures which would be attractive and add to the appearance of the rooms.

'Blood Bowl'--

Friday with the Collegian Cords, a powerful team which has sacrificed playing in the bowl due to ineligible team members. The Cowards were trampled by the Cords, but the optimistic Cowards voiced the opinion, "What we were to the Cords, Pitt News will be to us."

When asked to comment on this statement, Coach Myers said that he was a great believer in the rule of inverse proportions and besides all recent polls seem to indicate a Coward victory.

Ag Party Choses Bratzler as Queen

Lois Bratzler, sophomore in medical technology from State College, was selected Miss Agriculture of 1960 Saturday night at the annual Ag Hill Party.

Miss Bratzler received a trophy and roses from David Graham, president of the Agriculture Student Council. She will appear as "The Farmer's Daughter of the Month" in one of succeeding issues of the Penn State Countryman.

Following a turkey a la King dinner, David Wilson, emcee for the party introduced Thomas Roberts who led the party in group singing.

David Graham then dedicated the 1960 Ag Hill Party to "Agriculture" explaining that agriculture is a mature industry in its own right and needed a new term to give proper meaning to its total scope.

Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the College of Agriculture and guest speaker for the party, said he thought the theme of the dedication could be seen in the many new industrial associations which were presenting scholarships and awards to outstanding students in the College of Agriculture.

Russell B. Dickerson, associate dean and director of agriculture, and A. Chester Richer, professor of soil technology, announced and distributed 106 scholarships amounting to $22,230, three Gamma Sigma Delta honor certificates and the Alpha Zeta Scholarship Cup. Miss Pearl O. Weston, former dean of women, presented one of the scholarships.

William Coleman, student chairman of ticket selling, estimated that 1000 tickets were sold and that approximately 1200 people attended the Ag Hill Party.
