

Editorial Opinion

Good Suggestion

The president of the State College Chamber of Commerce has come up with a proposal that may help improve student-town relations.

He has suggested that a committee of local businessmen and student representatives be organized to meet regularly and discuss problems that arise between students and downtown merchants.

The committee would also consider problems common to both groups such as parking and housing in the borough.

The plan sounds feasible and we think it could be a sounding board for student complaints against prices and service. Likewise the students might gain a little insight into the merchant's side of the story.

The student members would be expected to accurately present the views of the student body and also to carry back reports of the accomplishments of the committee and requests for student cooperation.

Thus it would be important that all students be represented on such a committee by a direct line through one of the student committeemen.

For example, if the students chosen for the committee included representatives of AIM, TIM, IFC, AWS, Leonides, Panhel and SGA, every student would be represented through one of these organizations.

The businessmen have expressed an interest to hear the students' complaints. The students should take advantage of their offer.

Letters

Soph Urges Loud 'Roar' On Saturday

TO THE EDITOR: We ought to call Saturday, November 19, "Outroar the Panthers" day. Our football team is going to have quite a contest on their hands on Saturday and we (the cheering section) can give them a helping hand by putting enthusiasm in our cheers.

There is certain to be a lot of growling and roaring going on at the big "Cat Fight." Instead of giving a meek "Yeah" when the "Lions" break the huddle, why can't the team, cheerleaders, Lion and the cheering section give out with a big "Roar." (A real Lion's roar) Maybe if we would roar loud enough, we could unnerve the Panthers.

Can't you see the headlines now? "Lions Outplay, Outpass, Outrun and Outroar the Panthers." Let's show our football team that we are behind them; let's "Outroar the Panthers."

We could go back to the old "Ying-Yang" type cheer: Give me a "R" "RRRRRR." Give me an "O" "OOOOOO." Give me an "A" "AAAAAA." Give me an "R" "RRRRRR." What have you got? "Roarrrrrr."

For a more roaring Penn State,

—Jay R. Crouse, '63

Junior Answer Grabill Letter

TO THE EDITOR: In answer to Miss Grabill's letter in Saturday's Collegian, I would like to say that there are a lot of people on campus who are not the least interested in student government and who don't want one penny of their fees to help elect its representatives.

If our "leaders" want to use student government as a stepping stone to a hat society, let them put up their own money to do it with. There are many ways in which the administration could better use the seven hundred dollars than by giving it to political parties.

—Dick Diehl, '62

Gazette

- TODAY
AF Glee Club, 3 p.m., HUB assembly room.
Ag HUB Party Committee, 6:30 p.m., 214 HUB.
American Chemical Society, 7:30 p.m., 105 Osmond.
American Marketing Association, 7:30 p.m., Sigma Pi; G. M. Hostage on "Careers in Sales Management."
American Nuclear Society, 7:30 p.m., 105 Mechanical Engineering; Robert Dickson on "Nuclear Propulsion."
Block 'S' Pep Rally, 7 p.m., HUB ballroom.
Blood Typing, 7-9 p.m., 206 Patterson Campus Party, 6 p.m., 212 HUB.
Commonwealth Campus, 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., 214 HUB.
Continuing Education Directors, 8 a.m.-5 p.m., 213 HUB.
Faculty Women's Bridge, 7:45 p.m., 212 HUB.
Gamma Sigma Sigma Pledge Meeting, 6:45 p.m., 217 HUB.
IV Christian Fellowship, 12:45 p.m., 218 HUB.
Junior IFC, 7:30 p.m., Schwab.
Mike and Rostrum, 7:30 p.m., 213 HUB.
Omega Psi Phi, 9 p.m., 213 HUB.
Penn State Christian Science Organization, 6:30 and 8:30 p.m., 218 HUB.
Physics Department Reception, 7:30 p.m., HUB main lounge.
Project Joey, 7 p.m., 215-216 HUB.
SGA, 8 p.m., 203 HUB.
Ski Patrol, PSOC, 7 p.m., new members, 7:30 p.m., Water Tower.
University Party, 7 p.m., 213 HUB.
West Halls AWS Council, 2 p.m., McKeel lounge.

HOSPITAL
Martin Bruckner, Lloyd Dohner, Lawrence Fisher, Toby Goldstein, Stephen Goodstir, Mary Hewetson, Ruthann Kaplan, Stephen Kocsis, Sandra Lerner, Gloria Lockerman, Ruth Miller, Billie Niuro, Elizabeth Ohl, Richard Ost, Peggy Oliver, Jay Robins, Yetta Rostolsky, Dale Scott, Neal Sinco, Beverly Yahr.

WDFM Schedule

- THURSDAY
3:30 Stock Market Report
3:50 News and Weather
4:00 Critic's Choice
5:00 Three at Five
6:00 Studio X
6:55 Weatherscope
7:00 Obelisk
7:30 The Jazz Sound
7:55 News Roundup
8:00 This Is The Subject
9:00 Folk Music
9:30 Opinion 15
9:45 News, Sports, Weather
10:00 Chamber Concert
12:00 Sign Off

Snowed

Kennedy Image Given Credit

by joel myers

The 1960 presidential election has been in the annals of history for more than a week, but many students of political science are still busy analyzing the whys and wherefores of the result.

The big mystery that shrouds the outcome is just what justified such a huge change in voter sentiment during the last four years.

In all the criticism that has been heaped upon the outgoing administration there is scarcely enough tangible evidence of the GOP's mishandling of government's operations both at home and abroad to promote the great and decisive shift in voter opinion since the last Presidential election four years ago.

MYERS

And yet Vice President Richard Nixon who supposedly had a hand in shaping these policies was sent down to defeat at the hands of a relatively newcomer to the field of national politics.

If one were to compare this election with others in the past, nowhere does one find the great shift in votes from one party to another as has occurred in the past four years excepting times of severe internal or international crisis.

What then promoted this great change in voter sentiment, a change that represents a gain of nearly eight million votes for the Democratic candidate over his 1956 counterpart and a loss of one million votes for the Republican candidate.

The answer can be partially found in many complex economic, political and social factors. However, we believe that the image of an earnest young man full of vitality who feels it his destiny to again put this nation in a position of world leadership was the most prominent issue of the past campaign.

There's no doubt that the so-called "religious issue" played a role in the final tally of votes, even though its exact effect is difficult to diagnose. It helped the President-elect secure vote margins in the Northeastern states while at the same time it probably provided the balance of power in giving many of the Western states to Nixon.

If our assumption is correct and Kennedy was capable of creating a clear and favorable image among the nation's electorate in the few months of his national exposure, we may hope that he will meet with similar success in the next four, or possible eight, years with the people of the Communist and neutral world.

Table with 2 rows: 'Each night three quarters of the HUB lot stands empty. Tuesday's count:' and 'Hour' with columns for 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, total and 'No. of Cars' with values 73, 54, 62, 47, 38, 19, 293. Includes Mean 49 and Capacity 216.

A Student-Operated Newspaper
56 Years of Editorial Freedom

The Daily Collegian

Successor to The Free Lance, est. 1887

Published Tuesday through Saturday morning during the University year. The Daily Collegian is a student-operated newspaper. Entered as second-class matter July 6, 1934 at the State College Pa. Post Office under the act of March 3, 1879. Mail Subscription Price: $3.00 per semester - $5.00 per year.

JOHN BLACK
Editor

CHESTER LUCIDO
Business Manager

City Editor: Carol Bakeslee; Assistant Editor, Gloria Wolford; Sports Editor, Sandy Pudwe; Assistant City Editor and Personnel Director, Susan Linkroom; Feature Editor and Assistant Copy Editor, Elaine Mfele; Copy Editor, Annabelle Rosenthal; Photography Editor, Frederic Bower; Make-up Editor, Joel Myers. Local Ad Mgr., Brad Davis; Assistant Local Ad Mgr., Hal Deisher; National Ad Mgr., Bessie Burke; Credit Mgr., Mary Ann Crans; Ass't Credit Mgr., Neal Keitz; Classified Ad Mgr., Constance Kiesel; Co-Circulation Mgrs., Rosland Abex, Richard Kitzinger; Promotion Mgr., Elaine Michal; Personnel Mgr., Becky Kohudic; Office Secretary, Joanne Huyett.

STAFF THIS ISSUE: Headline Editor, Carol Kunkleman; Wire Editor, Bev Cades, Dex Hutchins; Night Copy Editor, Jerrie Markos; Assistants, Barb Fritz, Brenda Brunner, Molla Eldelstein, Jackie Russiana, Carmen Zetler, Linda Leney, Linda Prunella, Ginger Signor, Carole Kismarie, Adrienne Vesson, Dee Dee Rabe, John Gilbert and Al Sharp.

Interpreting

Politics Provoke Fr. Defense Plan

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

Some people in Washington think that if the United States will provide the North Atlantic defense force with nuclear weapons, France can be persuaded to drop her plans for national striking force of her own.

But the French decision to establish her own force was not a military decision. It is a political one.

French leaders think they deserve a bigger voice than they are getting in NATO and other Allied affairs.

A nuclear striking force for NATO could completely satisfy his ideas about France's defense, even though it might always be under the command of an American without touching this uppermost political thought in his mind.

ROBERTS

A separate French striking force is not opposed for itself by the United States.

French experts say the Swedes are likely to be next after them. There have been reports that Japan is almost ready, and there is much speculation about Red China. And the more members there are in the Atom Club, the more complicated becomes the prospect of ever arriving at controls or abolition.

Aside from these problems, the United States would like to see France spend her money in other ways—particularly in aid to underdeveloped countries which is now proving a strain as this country runs a deficit in its over-all financial dealings with the rest of the world.

The nuclear striking force for NATO is expected to be one of the key topics at next month's conference in Paris, although it can be discussed on tentative basis only.