

4 Freshmen Disciplined For Telephone Fraud

Four freshman coeds were put on disciplinary probation for the remainder of their freshman year by AWS Central Judicial, with the consent of the dean of women.

The girls admitted making up false credit card numbers by changing one of two digits of a basic number which be-

Freshman Penalized For Stealing

A first semester student was put on suspended suspension lasting to June 1962 by the Senate Sub-Committee on Discipline Wednesday afternoon, William H. Haller, assistant dean of men said.

The student, Hassler said, had stolen two raincoats from a West Halls record hop, four sport coats from the Hetzel Union Building during Las Vegas night and other miscellaneous articles from three local stores.

A student on suspended suspension can be immediately suspended by the dean of men if any further misconduct occurs.

The student also must make full restitution, Hassler said.

In taking this action, the committee approved the recommendation of the North Halls tribunal, but increased the period of the suspension one year, Hassler said. The North Halls tribunal had recommended the suspensory period last only until June 1961, he added.

Hassler asked that the owners of the stolen raincoats and sport coats claim these items at the office of the North Halls counselor coordinator in Warnock.

longed to one of the girls' father. The telephone company issues credit cards, each with a credit number attached. The holder of the card may place calls from anywhere in the country and give his credit number. The phone company then charges the call to the credit number and the card holder is billed accordingly.

Several illegal calls were placed by the girls from Oct. 21 until they were caught by telephone investigators early this week.

Discovery of the fraud was made when one of the girls placed a long distance call last Sunday. After nine minutes of conversation, the operator accidentally disconnected the call. After reconnecting the call, the operator checked to make sure both parties were still speaking and overheard a remark which indicated the call was being made on a false credit card number.

In checking the suspicion out, the telephone company found that no such number existed. Investigators then compared similar numbers and traced the call to the closest card to the false number given out. In this way they were able to determine the basic number which the girls had changed.

After negotiations with the dean of women's office the telephone officials decided to let University authorities handle the case. The parents of the girls involved will make restitution to the telephone company for the fraudulent calls.

The penalty given the girls, disciplinary probation, involves restriction of participation in extracurricular activities. No official positions may be held by the girls, nor may they participate in activities which would involve public performances. In addition, none of the girls may go through sorority rushing this year.

Disciplinary probation is placed on a student's permanent record and may not be removed unless the student petitions for its removal in his eighth semester. No removal action may be taken before this time.

In addition, the judicial board recommended that the coeds be counseled during their freshman year and that their conduct during the remainder of the year be closely observed.

Blood Bowl Battle Will Rage Today

By CRAIG YERKES Special to the Collegian PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Penn State's victory-starved "Collegian Cowards" meet the "Pitt News Hawks" this morning in the third annual "Blood Bowl." The Lion squad appears to be in top physical shape for this crucial battle for supremacy in the powerful Eastern

BULLETIN:

The site of the "Blood Bowl" game has been changed from Forbes Field to Schenley Oval. The reason for the last-minute change is the complete sellout of Forbes Field's 37,000 tickets. Promoters have shifted the game to the larger Schenley Oval Stadium, so that more fans may witness the classic. Game time remains at 9 a.m.

Journalism Conference. "The Cowards" will use their famous "Collegian Split Type" formation, in an attempt to keep their series record (1-0-1) unblemished.

Coward Captain John Black promises a wide open attack and will have plenty of talented performers to execute the difficult formations.

Five seniors will be playing their last game for the Yellow Tide. Captain Black, who throws the pigskin like it's a medicine ball, and lead-footed Bob Tacosky, who runs like he's carrying that same medicine ball will spark the Yellow's offense.

Bobbling Bruce Henderson will see plenty of action. Dex "the Hex" Hutchins, a 290-pound giant blob and two-time letterman, will anchor the middle of the Yellow Tide's line.

Giving much needed assistance to Hutchins will be Collegian Photographer Rick Bower. If Bower can play football as he plays with the camera, he could be invaluable to the Pitt squad.

Craig "Hypocondriac" Yerkes, and Jim "Swivel Hips" Karl, two frustrated junior athletes, will give Black much needed help in the Yellow Tide backfield, if early season injuries respond to treatment. Yerkes has been suffering from a split personality and Karl from a broken heart.

"Long John" Beauge will head the impregnable Yellow Tide defense at his familiar draw-back position. Beanpole Bill Barber (7'9", 133 lbs.) will hover above the "News Hawks" at defensive end. Jovial Jim Bukata and Behemoth Brad Davis will further clutter up the Coward defense.

The Collegian offense hasn't had a chance to uncork itself this year (no games), but the defense promises to be strong, based on scrimmages with all-star teams from Leonides, AWS, Panhel and WRA.
