

Weather Forecast:
Much Colder,
Snow Flurries

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

Half-Holiday Again?
--See Page 4

VOL. 61, No. 50

STATE COLLEGE, PA., TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 29, 1960

FIVE CENTS

Room, Board Fees Will Not Be Raised For Next Semester

Room and board fees will not be raised for the next semester, Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration, announced yesterday.

This decision was approved by President Eric A. Walker upon assurance from the Housing and Food Service Departments that with student cooperation they would be able to erase the current deficit in the next months.

Committee Disciplines Girl, 3 Men

The Senate Subcommittee on Discipline placed one man on disciplinary probation, suspended one coed and placed two men on suspended suspension last week. In addition, the office of the dean of men put two men on disciplinary probation.

The girl, a sophomore in liberal arts, made an unauthorized visit to the downtown apartment of a male student, according to Dorothy J. Lipp, dean of women.

The girl, she added, was discovered missing when she was not present for a fire drill held in her residence hall.

The student had a long record of minor offenses, Dean Lipp said, and was also on academic probation.

The boy whose apartment she visited was already on probation with the dean of men and was placed on disciplinary probation by the committee, Leroy S. Austin, associate dean of men, said yesterday.

In another case, two students were caught shoplifting in a store downtown were placed on suspended suspension until June 1962, Austin reported.

The case was referred to the subcommittee by the dean of men after the Pollock tribunal had handled the case and in a split decision recommended office probation for both students.

These students can be suspended by the dean of men upon any further violations.

Two sophomores in forestry were placed on disciplinary probation until June 1961 by the dean of men's office for disrespectful and uncooperative behavior toward a residence hall counselor, Austin said.

Both students had prior quiet hours violations, he added.

Last spring, according to a statement issued by President Walker, Housing and Food Service were finding increasing difficulties in operating within their present budget.

Diem stressed that "complete cooperation" of the students as well as "imaginative thinking" by his organization would be necessary to continue to keep the fees at the current rate.

Diem cited the rising costs of raw food, labor and supplies besides rising costs in general as the reason for considering a possible hike in fees. However, in the areas of heat, light and water, students can help, he added.

Greater consideration of University property and greater care in the use of utilities could possibly provide enough savings to avoid a future increase in fees, Diem said.

Students should show the same consideration of University property and furnishings as they do of their home furnishings, he said.

Such a seemingly small thing as cutting across the lawn results in faster floor depreciation, hiring janitors to clean the mud from the floors and fixing up the grass in the spring, Diem said. Avoidance of wasteful and inconsiderate action would be a saving, he said.

Diem said that in view of inflation, the University has done an excellent job in "holding the line" and that his organization would continue to put forth every effort to forestall an increase.

He would make no prediction as to a possible increase for the June or October quarters. The fees were increased in 1957 and now range from $762 to $801 a year.

Bowl Ticket Sale to Start
Student tickets for the Liberty Bowl will go on sale at 8 a.m. tomorrow at Recreation Hall. They are priced at $5.65 each.

Prexy, Haber to Discuss Half-Holiday for 'Bowl'

By MEG TEICHHOLTZ

SGA President Richard Haber will meet with President Eric A. Walker today to discuss a possible half-holiday cancellation of classes on the Saturday of the Liberty Bowl game. Haber said last night that he will follow Walker's advice on the question of bringing the topic before SGA Assembly.

Haber added that he believes last year's action in declaring a half-holiday for the

Out-of-Season Temperatures To End Today

The out-of-season weather pattern responsible for the unusually warm weather the past two weeks, will come to an abrupt end today.

Scattered showers early today will give way to windy and much colder weather this afternoon and tonight. Snow flurries and squalls may develop late in the day and continue tonight.

The mercury will begin a rapid drop during the late morning which should carry temperatures from the low 50's before noon down to the upper 30's by mid-afternoon, and then below the freezing mark early tonight.

Tonight's low will be about 25 and tomorrow's high should be near 34 degrees. Tomorrow will be partly cloudy, windy and considerably colder.

A severe storm system which developed in the Central section of the nation late Sunday prompted a major shift in weather conditions over much of the nation. Blizzard conditions accompanied by heavy snow, gale force winds and near zero temperatures swept across the Northern Plains and into the Western Great Lakes late yesterday and last night.

The new weather regime that now dominates the weather pattern will probably cause progressively colder weather in this area during the next few days. The mercury may dip close to 20 degrees tonight and possibly into the teens tomorrow night.

Budelman Will Address Business Group Tonight

Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, will hold its business meeting at 7 p.m. tonight at Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Members of Phi Chi Theta, women's business sorority, will be guests of the group to hear Robert Budelman from the Fidelity and Casualty Co. of New York City. His talk on "Fidelity Bonding — A Stop-gap to Employee Dishonesty" will begin at 8 p.m.

bowl game set a precedent and that students would be willing to make up classes missed on the day preceding final examinations.

"The bowl is as much of a University function as classes are," Haber said.

Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, special assistant to the president for student affairs, told Haber yesterday that if the students wished to request the half-holiday it would have to be through SGA action.

Bernreuter later told the Collegian that it was "unlikely the administration would approve such a holiday." He explained that students had requested the free day before finals for study and that making up classes on this day would defeat the purpose of having such a free day.

Another plan for the altering of Christmas vacation to permit attendance at the bowl game was advanced yesterday by Anthony Gitt, junior in electrical engineering from Springfield.

Gitt is now petitioning for an extension of Christmas recess by three days. He would like to see vacation begin on the Friday evening before the bowl game and suggests that the time missed could be made up by students returning from vacation one day earlier and attending classes on the freeday before examinations. He said he has not found a way to make up the third day.

Gitt's petitions are posted in the Hetzel Union building, Waring lounge and at his fraternity house, Sigma Alpha Mu.

When Penn State hosted the first Liberty Bowl game in Philadelphia last year students were given a half-holiday. Saturday morning classes were cancelled and the classes missed were made up on the morning of the free day just preceding final examination week.

Last year, however, Christmas recess was to have begun that same Saturday afternoon and with the added holiday it began Friday evening. Christmas vacation does not begin until Wednesday afternoon after the bowl game this year.

Collegian To Sponsor Workshop

Are you interested in knowing how to publicize the dance or the meeting that your organization is having? Would you like to know whom to contact for radio and newspaper coverage, what type of posters make good eye-catchers and what type of publicity is appealing?

The Daily Collegian is sponsoring the second annual publicity workshop to answer some of these and other questions concerning the why's and wherefore's of publicity. The purpose of the workshop is to show campus groups how to plan effective publicity programs.

The workshop will be held at 7 p.m. tonight and tomorrow night in 9 Carnegie and is open to representatives of all campus groups and organizations. Both workshops will be identical so those who are interested may come either night.

Among the speakers will be members of the Collegian staff and radio station WDFM. They will discuss placing stories and ads in the Collegian, receiving radio publicity, constructing and distributing posters and other methods of publicity both on campus and in town.

An informal discussion will follow the talks and coffee will be served.

Army Smashes Venezuelan Rioting

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Crack army troops poured into the battle-strewn streets of Caracas last night to smash bloody and destructive rioting against the government.

President Romulo Betancourt said the systematic waves of violence were launched by Communists and other leftists seeking to overthrow him and set up a Castro-style revolutionary regime in Venezuela.

Even schoolboys subverted by the leftists were reported firing on police with pistols during the day.

The fourth straight day of hoodlum attacks, without let-up, prompted the Moderate Socialist President Betancourt to call out the army and suspend civil guarantees.

"We do not want, we will not tolerate and there will be no civil war in Venezuela," Betancourt declared in a radio-TV broadcast from tank-guarded Miraflores Palace.

Betancourt specifically blamed Communists and the Movement of the Revolutionary Left for the disorders. They have resulted in 3 dead, more than 120 wounded and vast property damage from vandalism and sabotage.

At least 16 persons were injured in the latest outbursts, including 6 wounded by gunfire.

Eyewitnesses said police were shot at by snipers on rooftops and leftist students holed up in a downtown school.

Street violence subsided, at least temporarily, following the appearance of army units flown here from the interior.

Troops patrolled thickly populated working class sections in western Caracas while riot police and national guardsmen guarded the central and eastern sectors.

Earlier, several hundred youths, mostly teen-agers, roved in small bands, battling police, smashing windows and burning cars and buses. They were armed with guns, fire bombs and stones.

With tear gas and smoke mingling in the city streets, Betancourt denounced the disorders as preliminaries in an effort to oust his government and install in Venezuela "a regime similar to that which exists in Cuba."

High Venezuelan leaders rallied quickly behind the President. Ex-President Romulo Gallegos made an emotional broadcasting appealing for support of Betancourt.

Many persons were reported injured, including seven policemen winged by sniper fire.

SANTA CLAUS COMES TO TOWN: The Christmas season officially opened in State College last night when Santa and one of his helpers arrived. Students wishing to tell the jolly old fellow what they want for Christmas may visit him in his house at the foot of the Mail on any shopping day.