Whistleball Takes College Spotlight

By Sandy Padwa, Collegian Sports Editor

Collegiate basketball steps into the spotlight on most college campuses tomorrow night and the nation's attention will be focused on the Midwest where Jerry Lucas, Walt Bellamy, Terry Dischinger and Chet Walker frolic.

These four young men may very well be the best basketball players in the nation and because of their talents Ohio State, Indiana, Purdue, and Bradley will be in the race for national honors.

Lucas, Bellamy, and Dischinger, All-Americans all, capped their sensational 1959 showings by helping the U.S. Olympic team win a Gold Medal in Rome this summer.

Local fans will have the opportunity to watch Dischinger Saturday night in Rec Hall provided they don't follow Penn State tradition which calls for a mass exodus after the wrestling match.

Last year, Dischinger led the Big Ten in scoring and he wound up in a sixth place tie with Lucas in the national race. Both averaged 26.3 points per game.

The experts feel that Lucas and Ohio State have too much depth for Purdue and Indiana, but Walker and Bradley could knock the Buckeyes from their throne as defending champions.

As a sophomore last year, Walker led Bradley to the NIT championship and the Braves were not hurt much by graduation.

Besides Walker who averaged 21.7, Chuck Orsborn has two other bona fide All-American candidates in Mack Herndon and Al Saunders.

The East will have its share of outstanding teams and stars, too. In New England, Providence with Johnny Egan and Jim Hadnot, will battle Holy Cross and Jack Foley for district honors.

Competition will be extremely keen in the Middle Atlantic States.

In the metropolitan area of New York, St. Johns with Tony Jackson and NYU with Ray Paprocky appear to be the strongest teams.

Upstate, St. Bonaventure has high-scoring Tom Stith back and the Bonnies mean business.

In Pennsylvania, Villanova has Jimmy Huggard and Hubie White; St. Josephs has Vince Kempton and Jack Egan; Temple has Bruce Drysdale and Russ Gordon; Penn has plenty of hustle and Bob Mlkvy.

All this adds up to a pleasant season for Philadelphia area fans. Moving South, North Carolina, and two Penn State opponents—Duke and Wake Forest—will battle for Atlantic Coast Conference honors.

Georgia Tech, Kentucky and Auburn will stage a real fight for the Southeastern conference crown.

West Virginia, another Lion opponent, should top VPI in the southern conference race although the Mounties lost coach Freddie Schaus and Jerry West to the Los Angeles Lakers.

However, new coach George King has a sophomore named Rod Thorn who could crack the All-American ranks.

Texas A & M, Arkansas, and Texas will slug it out in the Southwest with Utah and Utah State putting on a real show for the Sky-line crown.

Loyola of Los Angeles, Seattle and Washington look strong in the far West.

Going out on a limb we'll pick Ohio State, Bradley, North Carolina, Villanova and Indiana as the top five with Utah State, Kansas, Kentucky, St. Bonaventure and Providence rounding out the Top Ten.

Going out even further, the All-American team should line up something like this: First Team—Terry Dischinger, Purdue; Walt Bellamy, Indiana; Jerry Lucas, Ohio State; Roger Kaiser, Georgia Tech; and Mark DuMars, Penn State.

Second Team—Chet Walker, Bradley; Tom Stith, St. Bonaventure; Tony Jackson, St. Johns; Al Butler, Niagara and John Egan, Providence.

Seckler, Turner Wage Battle For Starting Assignment at 147

By JIM KARL

(This is the first of a two part series on the 1960-61 Penn State wrestling squad by weight Classifications. Today's article covers the lightweights from the 123 to the 147-pound class.)

Five veterans and some promising sophomores give Lion mat coach Charlie Speidel plenty to work with in the four lightweight divisions this year.

Co-captain Jerry Seckler and Neil Turner will battle for the 147-pound spot while Dale Confer (123), Tony Scordo (130), and Dan Johnston (137), all previous letter winners, add experience in the other classes.

Although Confer is the only Lion grappler with any varsity experience at 123, he is being pressed for a starting berth by Denny Slattery, a sophomore from Williamsport, and Ray Nunamaker, junior from West View.

Confer, one of the best matmen ever to come out of Bald Eagle High School, won his letter as a sophomore last year in the 115-pound division. Slattery was a two-time district champ in high school.

Nunamaker has lost close pre-season tryouts to Confer and Slattery, but he can't be counted out of the picture yet.

Judging from his performances in practice, Slattery may get the nod against Army Saturday, but it's not likely that Speidel will make a decision until then. Scordo moves from 123 to 130 this year. The former two-time district champ from Tyrone compiled a 7-1-2 record as a sophomore last year.

Milton Brubaker, Bill Hicks, Tom Canty and Neal Newhouse also are candidates at 130. Canty transferred from Auburn last year.

At 137 Speidel lost a first-class wrestler through graduation in Guy Guccione, but he may have a new star in Dan Johnston.

Johnston won a letter as a junior in 1958-59, but he didn't wrestle last year. Judging by his showings in practice, he seems to be back in top form. The slim senior has an all-time varsity record of 10-4. Two years ago he racked up five straight victories before losing to Pitt's Larry Lauchle. He also was runner-up to Lauchle in the Easterns.

Sam Minor, last year's captain and a Lion stalwart at 147, has graduated but paradoxically this class may prove to be one of Speidel's strongest.

Both Seckler and Turner are dropping down a class from 157 to 147.

Seckler was undefeated as a freshman and won the Eastern crown at 157.

As a sophomore he posted a 1-1 varsity slate but last year he developed into one of State's top grapplers.

He went through 10 matches without a defeat and advanced to the finals of the EIWA tournament before bowing to Thad Turner of Lehigh.

A former district champ at Clearfield High School, Turner compiled a 4-3 record as a sophomore. He didn't wrestle last year.

Both Turner and Seckler have battled each other on even terms in pre-season tryouts, and Speidel is going to have a tough time nominating a starter this week.

Bellino Wins Heisman Trophy

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Bellino, the squat, chopped-stride halfback who led Navy's march to the Orange Bowl, has won the 26th Heisman Memorial Trophy as the outstanding college football player of the year.

He is the first Navy player to win the trophy awarded by the Downtown Athletic Club, and was an overwhelming choice over Tom Brown, Minnesota guard, in the nationwide balloting by 1,130 sportswriters and broadcasters.

Bellino, 5 feet 9 and 181 pounds, drew 436 first place votes and a total of 1,793 points. Brown, the backbone of the line for Minnesota's national champion Gophers, received 127 first and 731 points.

Jake Gibbs, Mississippi quarterback, was third; Ed Dyas, Auburn fullback, fourth, and Bill Kilmer, UCLA tailback, fifth in the point totals.

Three points are awarded for a first place vote, two for a second and one for a third.
