

Bell Will Manage Budget Hodges Awaits Appointment

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—North Carolina Gov. Luther H. Hodges, reportedly President-elect John F. Kennedy's choice for secretary of commerce, headed last night for this community where Kennedy is spending the weekend.

And Kennedy headquarters announced about the time Hodges was leaving North Carolina that the president-elect will fill a Cabinet post today.

Kennedy's assistant press secretary, Andrew Hatcher, announced Kennedy's plans to appoint a Cabinet official, but declined comment when asked whether it would be Hodges for the commerce post.

Kennedy himself has ruled out selection of a secretary of state before next week.

Kennedy yesterday tapped David E. Bell, a towering, experienced Harvard executive, to manage the government's vast budget. And he said he hopes to have his Cabinet nearly complete by the end of next week.

He announced Thursday night that Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan will be assistant secretary of state for African affairs. He followed up by selecting Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut as secretary of health, education and welfare.

Kennedy never had met Bell until Wednesday night. In a job paying $22,500 a year, the 41-year-old Bell will draw up for Kennedy's approval plans for spending some 80 billion dollars a year.

Bell will go to work next week. The outgoing budget director, Maurice E. Stans, will be coaching him until Jan. 20 as part of a cooperative arrangement between the Eisenhower administration and the new regime that will replace it.

Dwarfed by the sandy-haired, slender, 6-foot-4 Bell, Kennedy stood on his doorstep and announced his selection for budget director.

At the moment, Bell is secretary of the Harvard Littauer Center for Public Administration.

He comes to the Kennedy administration with good credentials from that of former President Harry S. Truman.

Bonn May Buy More From U.S.

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany yesterday was reported willing to buy more military equipment from the United States, including missiles, to help stop the drain on American gold and dollar reserves.

Diplomatic sources here said this was the preliminary result of talks between U.S. and West German defense officials that began Tuesday.

The U.S. officials, headed by Henry J. Kuss Jr., chief of the Pentagon's military assistance planning division, flew to Paris Friday for the weekend. They are due back here Monday for further talks. Their mission covers these two areas:

•To determine how much money the West German government is prepared to spend on increased military purchases in the United States.

•To find out whether the West Germans will put up funds for military assistance to some European countries now being helped exclusively by the United States.

The talks follow the apparently unsuccessful mission to Bonn of U.S. Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon.

Rockefeller Doubts Nixon's Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller persisted yesterday in calling Vice President Richard M. Nixon the leader of the Republican party in name only.

The New York governor did so in the face of a second statement by President Eisenhower—this time with Rockefeller present—that Nixon should be regarded as the party's leader in the next four years.

Ordinarily the man a party nominates for president is looked on as the party's leader even if he loses the election. But Rockefeller refuses to go along with that, declaring instead for a collective leadership.

Rockefeller showed up 13 minutes late for breakfast with Nixon. He explained he had been taking "the tour"—that is, looking over the reconstruction of the Capitol's east front and the erection of stands for the inauguration of Democrat John F. Kennedy, Jan. 20.

Nixon, who ran Kennedy a close race, commented: "I'll have to do that myself some time."

Reporters overheard the exchange but detected no particular wistfulness on Nixon's part nor any hint that Rockefeller might be dreaming of the possibility he will someday face the inauguration ceremony stands himself.

He has announced for re-election to the New York governorship in 1962, but has declined to say whether he'll try again in 1964 for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller and Nixon were together for an hour and a half.

The governor, under questioning by reporters, repeated his stand that Nixon is the party's titular leader but that the actual head is the chairman of the national committee, Sen. Thurston B. Morton. He said that is so because the party operates through the national committee.

Ike Aids Refugees Of 'Red' Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States yesterday took a $1-million step in behalf of Cuban refugees and in doing so, officially described Cuba for the first time as a Communist-controlled country.

The $1 million was released for the aid of an estimated 30,000 to 40,000 Cubans who are in Florida and elsewhere in the United States as refugees from the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The action was taken by President Eisenhower under a provision of the Mutual Security Act which authorizes assistance to refugees from Communist-controlled countries when the chief executive judges such spending important to the security of the United States.

Many U.S. officials, from the President on down, have publicly expressed conviction that the Castro government is Communist-dominated but yesterday's action was the first which made the designation official under U.S. law.

Castro has consistently denied his revolutionary government is communistic although some of his top aides are known to be Reds. But his growing hostility toward the United States has been accompanied by increasing friendship with the Soviet Union, Red China and other Communist nations. And he has received great quantities of arms and technical and economic aid from behind the Iron Curtain.

For his part, Soviet Premier Khrushchev has threatened the United States with retaliation through nuclear weapons if it takes aggressive action against Cuba.

New Orleans Problem Eases Despite Governor

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A white boycott of New Orleans integrated schools loosened still more yesterday but Gov. Jimmie H. Davis pledged a continuing fight for segregation.

The legislature moved quickly along the road toward state aid to those parents who want to send their children to private, segregated schools.

Ten white and one Negro pupils attended classes at William Frantz School and three Negro girls attended McDonogh No. 19.

Only six white children attended school at William Frantz Thursday.

Feelings among the women picketing both schools still ran high.

It was comparatively quiet at both schools. Most vocal moment came around noon when the Rev. Lloyd Foreman escorted his kindergarten daughter, Pamela Lynn, and a boy out of the school for the day. Foreman came out the door which put him directly across the street from massed pickets.

While the pickets jeered and hooted, Foreman stood — his daughter's hand in one of his, the boy's hand in the other. He faced the crowd and stared silently, without expression.

The day's principal developments came far from the two schools.

In Baton Rouge, the state House of Representatives passed a key bill to provide grant-in-aid funds for parents who wish to send their children to private schools.

The bill, passed without debate, went to the Senate on an 84-0 vote.

One representative — Arthur Crais of New Orleans — explained the measure and said there was nothing in the bill to tamper with the public school system.

Just where such money would come from was the question.

Gov. Davis said the state would continue to fight for school segregation. If another special session is needed, he told a Baton Rouge press conference, he would call one.

On the question of funds to finance another special session or private schools, Davis told reporters: "We'll sell some butter and eggs — or something."

"I don't believe in integrated schools. We'll do all we can. It's a little difficult to know what you'll do and where," he said.

WELCOME BACK . . .

(all of you who came back, that is — there seem to have been a few people missing all week in those classes where the prof still insists on taking role!) After a week of good eating, it's back to the old round of dorm food (and diets for those girls who ate too much). It was really a struggle to get up for that first 8 o'clock Monday morning!

SPEAKING OF STRUGGLES . . .

to get up, it helps to have a watch to know how late you're going to be to class (and whether or not to cut). Ethel has a very nice selection of Sheffield watches. Or if you're just tired of your old band, she has a wide range of men's and women's nylon bands — plain, plaid, or striped.

22 MORE DAYS

until Christmas, and about time to buy your Christmas cards. Ethel has any kind you want in a wide choice — contemporary, traditional, and personalized. You'd better get on the ball and send one to all those people you haven't written to all year just to let them know you still remember they exist.

See you next week, Gabbi

Soviet Rocket Burns in Space

MOSCOW (AP) — The latest Soviet space ship and its cargo of two dogs disintegrated in the outer parts of the earth's atmosphere yesterday.

Moscow Radio said Friday night the signal sent to the globe-circling satellite failed to return it to earth on a precalculated orbit and the vehicle burned out.

The broadcast did not mention the two dogs — Pchelka (Little Bee) and Mushka (Little Fly) — by name.

But it said they had earlier borne easily enough the process of being carried into orbit and had quickly become organically normal.
