

Court Rules Against Depot Discrimination

Supreme Court yesterday outlawed discrimination against Negro passengers in restaurants that regularly serve interstate bus travelers.

Avoiding constitutional questions that might have had an important bearing on other issues involving Negro rights, the court based its 7-2 decision on the Interstate Commerce Act.

Snark Missile Ruled Obsolete Is Discontinued

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A missile era ended here yesterday when the Air Force fired the last Snark in its research and training program. The launching followed the successful 1600-mile flight of a longer-range Polaris.

An Air Force crew sent the Snark winging over the Atlantic on a 5000-mile training flight, ending a program which began here eight years ago. More than 80 of these 69-foot sweptwing guided missiles have screamed skyward since then.

The Snark was this nation's first missile capable of intercontinental range.

But it became a victim of advanced technology and eventually was overshadowed by the swift, more powerful Atlas intercontinental range ballistic missile.

The ruling struck down the conviction of Bruce Boynton, a Negro traveling from Washington, D.C., to Salem, Ala., who refused to leave the restaurant for whites in the Trailways bus terminal in Richmond, Va.

Boynton was fined $10 under a Virginia law which makes it a misdemeanor to refuse to leave premises on demand of persons in charge.

Justice Hugo L. Black, author of the decision, went no further than necessary to decide the case. He noted that constitutional questions had been raised in Boynton's appeal, including the due process and equal protection clauses of the 14th Amendment.

"We think there are persuasive reasons, however, why this case should be decided, if it can, on the Interstate Commerce Act contention raised in the Virginia courts," Black wrote.

"Under these circumstances, we think it appropriate not to reach the constitutional questions but to proceed at once to the statutory issue."

Kennedy Proposes Military Unification

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tightly controlled defense force, dispensing with Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries and emphasizing speedy military decisions, was proposed to President-elect John F. Kennedy by his defense advisers yesterday.

Annual savings up to $8 billion were claimed for the proposed reorganization.

The three armed services would continue to be separate units under the plan produced, at Kennedy's request, by a committee headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, (D-Mo.).

But the committee frankly recommended reducing the influence of the separate services. It said the country can no longer "afford the luxury of letting each service strive to develop in itself the capability of fighting any future war by itself."

Defense planning cannot continue to consist of compromises among the three, the committee contended.

Moreover, Symington, a former secretary of the Air Force, said the plan recognizes "the nuclear space age instead of a continuing to have this arbitrary and ridiculous division between land, sea and air."

U.N. Hears Tunisians On Algeria

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.

(AP)—Tunisia opened debate yesterday on Algeria with a demand that the United Nations guarantee by its presence the honesty of any referendum on the political future of that explosive North African territory.

France boycotted again the debate in the 99-nation Political Committee in order to demonstrate its position that Algeria is an internal matter of no concern to the United Nations.

Two African nations sympathetic with France—Chad and Congo Brazzaville—called off at least temporarily a plan to seek postponement of the debate.

Supporters of the Algerian independent movement among UN delegates expressed confidence they could defeat the move.

Tunisian Ambassador Mongi Slim, whose country has sheltered the provisional government of the Algerian rebels, accused French President Charles de Gaulle of raising new fears over Algeria.

Referring to a speech by De Gaulle in Paris on Nov. 4, Slim charged the French president with putting emphasis on the possibility of partitioning Algeria.

He acknowledged that De Gaulle still maintained the principle of self-determination for the Algerian people, but he added the French leader's statement was "full of dangers."

Slim said partition would only prolong the rebellion, now in its seventh year; jeopardize the position of Tunisia; plunge Algeria into chaos, and threaten international peace.

After shooting group pix of sorority formals this past Sat. night (which included Phi Sigma Sigma, Delta Gamma, AEPi, Delta Zeta and Chi Omega) we were forced to arrive at some cataclysmic conclusion. Thus, we publicly state that the best cookies were seen at Alpha Sigma Phi where the DG's held their party. Delicious, probably hand made... a huge plateful on a table next to the entrance.

Upon asking a sorority president why she preferred her party to be photographed in black and white rather than color, she replied that it was purely a matter of price. Poor girl was floored when we informed her that color could be had for as little as 25 cents more per picture than b. and. w.

Bunny has a pair of Kneisl Skis and a pair of size 6½ Ski Boots, both in good condition, which, for a few farthings, she'd relinquish the ownership.

Kudos to the gentleman who painted a crescent (since painted over) on door of Santa Claus house at campus main entrance. The door is too big for proportion of the house. Should have been small - - - for entrance of children.

We are attaching an extra dollar to our monthly telephone check in hopes that others will follow suit... thus that the telephone company can afford to hire enough help to enable its users to reach the operator or information without the usual interminable delay which plagues us even when the campus is empty.

If you're skiing in Vermont this Xmas, we'll be at Mt. Snow. Look for a black T-Bird loaded with diapers for Nina and a couple of crutches strapped to the roof. A rum toddy on us. LAST CALL... Pre-Xmas delivery cannot be promised if you don't make your appointment on the next 4 or 5 days.
