Los Angeles Gets AL Team After Majors Amend Rules

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Los Angeles finally became the 10th club of the American League for the 1961 baseball season when the two majors amended their territorial rules yesterday.

Commissioner Ford Frick did not have to cast a decisive vote at the joint meeting. The two leagues took him off the hot spot by getting together on an amendment that opened the way for the American to go into Los Angeles in 1961 and the National League to return to New York in 1962.

The new Los Angeles club, to be known as the Angels, will play its home games at Wrigley Field, the old Pacific Coast League park in Los Angeles which seats about 21,500. There are plans to expand it to 25,000 before the start of the season.

As part of the compromise with Walter O'Malley, owner of the Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League, the club will move into his new park at Chavez Ravine in 1962 with a 4-year lease and an option to renew for three more years.

The amendment also set up an indemnity scale to be paid by invading clubs. The Dodgers will receive about $225,000, while the New York Yankees will get $100,000 when the National moves into New York.

The amendment provides for a flat $100,000 payment, plus 50 per cent of the original cost of clearing the territory. O'Malley paid the Pacific Coast League $250,000 when his Dodgers moved into that minor league's territory. There was no such clearance problem when New York entered the majors.

Bob Reynolds, former Stanford football star, and Gene Autry, singing cowboy, head the new group that will operate the Angles.

Reynolds said he will name a manager in a few days. He has talked once with Casey Stengel, ex-Yankee manager, but old Case made no comment.
