

Ed, LA, MI Councils Meet, Conclude Semester Business

The Education, Liberal Arts and Mineral Industries Student Councils met last night to plan final semester activities and to begin preparations for next spring.

The Education Student Council will begin reorganizing after the first of the year in an effort to increase its effectiveness and lengthen its activities.

Panhel Accepts Plan for Change In Representation

A plan for a change in the structure of the Panhellenic Council was accepted as presented at a meeting last night.

An announcement was also made concerning the reactivation of Alpha Kappa Alpha, an international sorority active on campus until 1958, when its membership dropped below the required minimum.

Under the structural plan, which constitutes a change in the constitution, a special Panhellenic delegate would be chosen by each sorority as a council representative. The second delegate would be the sorority president and delegates would change at the first meeting in March.

Under the plan, three Panhellenic Council standing committees would be established: a rush committee to handle the rushing code and schedule and the freshman orientation program, a social committee in charge of planning the workshop, workshop banquet and inter-sorority relations committee in charge of the rush booklet and publicity for the freshman Panhellenic orientation program.

Alpha Kappa Alpha was reinstated by the Senate Committee on Student Affairs at a meeting two weeks ago, according to Monroe Newman, chairman of the committee.

Mrs. Nancy M. Vanderpool, assistant to the dean of women, said the sorority would participate in spring rush and that delegates would sit on Panhel although they would not have voting privileges as yet.

The sorority will have a provisional status until 12 or more girls are pledged, Newman said.

At present the sorority has eight members and five pledges, many of whom are transfers from Ogontz Center, Miss Regina Olivis, sorority member, said. She said that although no definite provisions have been made for a suite as yet, the sorority plans to resume activity next semester.

This move was prompted by the University's adoption of the four term plan, and the council's effort to begin operation on a year-round basis. The council hopes to tackle the problems of the reorganization at its next meeting.

In cooperation with the College of Education, the council committee evaluated the controversial course, Education Services 10, reporting last night that the course could be improved by decreasing the size of the classes and by dividing the students by majors.

The council expressed the hope that the course could be conducted as an informal discussion among the faculty, the students and their advisors. Council members said they felt the purpose of the course—to integrate the students into the educational system—was being neglected.

A suggestion that an informal discussion be held early next semester with incoming students in the College of Liberal Arts, was heard by the LA Council last night.

This discussion would give the students an idea of the requirements necessary to complete the liberal arts program, Herbert Goldstein, council member said.

Joan Kemp, council president, said she would talk with Richard C. Maloney, associate dean of the College of Liberal Arts, to find out how many students are expected to enroll in the college.

A decision on an orientation program was therefore postponed until the next council meeting.

In other business the council passed a motion to contribute $50 to the World University Service drive.

Mineral Industries Student Council unanimously approved two appointments last night.

Dr. Howard L. Hartman, head of the Department of Mining, was appointed advisor to the council and William Polacek, junior in metallurgy from Charleroi, Pa., was appointed to serve on the council until spring elections. He is replacing Irvin Shore, junior in ceramic technology, who has resigned for scholastic reasons.

Council also discussed plans to include the Departments of Mining and Petroleum and Natural Gas in the academic honesty program. At present the Departments of Geo-chemistry - Geo-physics and Mineral Preparation are operating under the program.

Love Bells—Not Clock's Now Ringing

If you're hearing bells—it's love, not Old Main! The "infallible" electronic mechanism that synchronizes the clock and the chimes has failed.

In addition to the woe that students have expressed since their automatic clock-watching device has stopped, many stories have circulated about the cause of this phenomena.

One boy called the Daily Collegian office and reported that the chimes had been shut off to accommodate the chickens on Ag Hill. The informant explained the hens had to work further past sundown to lay their eggs and "the constant ringing disturbs what little sleep they can get."

However, according to Henry L. Yeagley, director of maintenance and utilities, the real disturbance is a broken-down part that needs replacing.

Block 'S' To Sponsor Pep Dance

Coeds! Here's your opportunity to dance with the Nit-tany Lion! At the Block "S" Club's pep dance from 7 to 9 tonight in the Hetzel Union ballroom, the Lion will be on hand to help lead cheers and to dance with all pretty Penn State fans.

The cheerleaders will conduct a pep rally starting around 8 p.m., Miss Segal said.

The Block "S" Club is sponsoring the combination dance and pep rally as one of its efforts to promote spirit for next Saturday's Liberty Bowl game, according to Betty Segal, club president. Richard Haber, student government association president, will act as master of ceremonies and dance music will be presented by the Ivy Rocks. Sever Toretto, Lion defensive line coach, and Henry Oppermann, captain of the football team, will be the speaker.

Last week Block "S" Club members began to distribute blue and white "Whip the Web-foots" tags. Miss Segal said that the Independent Students Association, the Inter-fraternity Council, the Student Government Association and the Daily Collegian have purchased 1000 bumper stickers to be distributed at the pep dance.

Broader SGA--

(Continued from page one) Darran said that his main reason for introducing his resolution at this time is that "SGA is doing more now than it has ever done in the past and the student body is demanding more from student government than it ever has before."
