

Lions Lose Seckler, Turner For Michigan Battle Tonight

By JIM KARL

Penn State's undefeated wrestlers face one of their stiffest tests of the year tonight when they meet defending Big Ten champion Michigan at Ann Arbor.

And to make things even tougher for the Lions, neither co-captain Jerry Seckler nor Neal Turner, Coach Charlie Speidel's stalwarts at 147, will be able to wrestle. Both boys are sidelined with impetigo.

Speidel nominated Ray Connell, a 20-year-old junior from East Rockaway, N.Y., to replace Seckler, who was slated to wrestle tonight. This will be Connell's first varsity meet.

Misfortune couldn't have hit the Lions at a more inopportune time.

The Wolverines are a perennial wrestling power and have won ten conference championships during Cliff Keen's 36-year reign as head coach.

Michigan has finished lower than third only twice since 1925 when Keen first took over. During his 36 years Keen has produced a dozen individual conference champs and the same number of NCAA titlists.

The Wolverines, along with Lehigh and Pitt, have the best chance to crack State's budding 12-meet win streak.

JOHN BARONE . . . will start at 167

The last time the Lions were beaten was the final meet of the 1959 season, when Pitt stopped them, 15-9.

State was 9-0-1 last year. The only black mark on their log was a 14-14 tie with Pitt in the next to last meet of the season.

Michigan beat Purdue, 14-11, in its only meet to date, but the score isn't a true indication of the Wolverines' strength.

Jim Blaker, the Big Ten champ at 147 last year, missed the meet because of an exam and Karl Fink, undefeated at 177 last year, was sidelined with an ankle injury.

Keen has six conference champions back, but one, Ambrose Willbanks (130), may not see action tonight due to injuries.

Keen has Fred Kellerman at 137, Blaker at 147, Don Corriere at 157, Dennis Fitzgerald at 167 and Guy Curtis at heavyweight . . . all conference champions.

Corriere, a Bethlehem product, won his crown in 1959. He did not go to school last year.

The only possible Michigan weakspots are in the 123- and 177-pound divisions. Either Willard Root or sophomore Nick Armelagos will get the nod at 123 and two boys from Port Huron, Mich., Jack Barden and Ted Ludwig, are candidates at 177.

Speidel said that aside from Seckler he will probably use the same lineup that trounced West Virginia, 39-4, last week.

Denny Slattery (2-0) will make his third varsity appearance at 123 with Tony Scordo (2-0) going at 130.

Dan Johnston (1-0-1) is slated for duty at 137. Ron Pifer (2-0) will start at 157 with John Barone (1-0) following at 167.

Phil Myer (2-0) will occupy his usual spot at 177 and co-captain Johnston Oberly (2-0) will be at heavyweight.

Both coaches agreed to eliminate the 191-pound match in tonight's meet.

'Twins' Gone, G-Men Count On Weiss

By BRUCE HENDERSON

Two promising all-around performers, one a seasoned veteran and the other an untested sophomore, will give Lion gym coach Gene Wettstone a strong one-two combination when his squad opens its campaign at Springfield, Jan. 7.

The veteran, Gregg Weiss, won the eastern all-around title as a sophomore last year and finished third in the NCAA all-around. Seward, a sophomore, showed great potential in the freshman meets a year ago.

But graduation has taken Wettstone's famed "gold-dust twins," Jay Werner, and lean Lee Cunningham—and the Nittany mentor sees a tough road ahead.

"We're not as strong as last year," he stated flatly. "We had three all-around men in Werner, Cunningham and Weiss and this year we have only two."

"The lack of a third all-around man makes us vulnerable and we must resort to some of our specialists to make up for it. For this reason the success of our season depends on the strength of the men working individual events."

"This does not necessarily make for a dark picture," Wettstone added, "since some boys are capable of being a real aid to the team."

One of the specialists who could help quite a bit is junior Jerry Schaeffer. Schaeffer placed fifth in the flying rings in last year's NCAA tourney.

Wettstone's tentative lineup has Weiss concentrating on his three strongest events—the parallel bars, horizontal bar and side horse.

Schaeffer and Larry Yohn will make State hard to beat in the flying rings.

Boston Gets Conley In Swap with Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies in a swap of pitchers yesterday sent Gene Conley to the Boston Red Sox for Frank Sullivan, resolving a bitter player-manager dispute.

Conley, who plays for the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association during the winter, and Phillies' Manager Gene Mauch exchanged heated words two days before the end of last season.

Trophies Will Be Awarded For Top Bowl Showings.

Five different trophies will be awarded to members of the Oregon and Penn State football teams for outstanding performances in tomorrow's Liberty Bowl game.

The three-foot high perpetual game trophy, on display at Philadelphia's City Hall, has the winner, loser and score engraved each year on one of the silver footballs adorning the mahogany base.

Both Penn State and Oregon will receive exact size models of the $1,500 perpetual trophy. These awards have been presented by the city of Philadelphia.

The "Most Valuable Player" in the second annual classic receives the Whitman's Chocolates Award, a silver football and miniature Liberty Bell mounted on onyx. The winner will be selected by Philadelphia area coaches and sports editors.

Two new awards have been added. The Quaker City Football

Clinic—making its start this year—will present the Goldie Graham Memorial Award to the game's outstanding lineman.

Another new award is the Schick Safety Razor Trophy which will go to the outstanding back. This recipient also will be selected by area coaches and sports editors.

All the trophies will be presented tomorrow night at an informal awards session at 9 o'clock in the Warwick Hotel.

Players on both squads will receive miniature mounted Liberty Bells from the Liberty Bowl Association, in addition to luggage.

Both head coaches will receive gifts and there will be a cake-cutting "Victory" ceremony featuring 20-year-old Sandra Motta, "Queen of the Liberty Bowl."

There also will be a program of entertainment featuring singer Bobby Darin, and comedian Don Adams.
