Food, Noise, Fights Fill Dead Week

Welcome to dead week — the one time out of the year when all the organizations have a legal excuse for doing nothing.

Heard some of the boys in one of my Hubology classes talking about the yelling and loud talking coming from the fourth floor of Simmons nightly between 10:30 and 11:30.

It's a good thing the downtown stores are having clearance sales. The boys on the third floor of Thompson have been having so many shaving cream battles that they'd go broke if they couldn't get the stuff half-price.

Anybody know why the Campus Patrol members on duty in Rec Hall on Saturday didn't salute the flag when the National Anthem was played?

Administration members can only blame themselves if people don't obey their recent edict banning car parking on Fraser Rd.

Students here shouldn't complain so loudly about the quality of food the gourmets in Food Service dish up. Before Christmas, an Ohio University student found a worm in his meat while another found particles of glass mixed in with his food.

Request department: softer seats at Rec Hall for those who want to sit through double-headers.

I have to close now so I can go to the funeral of Archibald K. Turtle. As you remember, he was Elaine Miele's pet turtle but just before Christmas she accidentally tossed her books on him.

Turks Learn Reactor Uses

Four Turkish scientists who are enrolled in a training program to learn how to operate a reactor participated in an international broadcast transmitted recently by the Voice of America over several transmitters as a part of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atoms-for-Peace program.

The four are Galip Baran, Nihat Eyuboglu, Ayhan Pekun and Recep Sevdik, all of Istanbul.

They discussed various phases of their training program at the Nuclear Reactor Facility and their experiences at other nuclear research centers they have visited in the United States.

Turkey expects its first atomic reactor to be put into operation in 1962.

Lehigh Flattens—

Charles Moore, Lehigh's heavyweight who has wrestled as low as 177 on occasion, didn't have a sling shot so he did the next best thing by waltzing circles around the mat to keep out of the clutches of State's 250-pound Johnston Oberly.

After a scoreless first period Moore let Oberly escape in the second stanza and then stayed away from the EIWA champ the remainder of the period.

However, the final step in his strategy, to escape from his bottom position in the third period before Oberly could gain riding time, didn't work.

The "Big O" played with Moore like a rag doll but couldn't pin him and had to settle for a 2-0 decision.

THE ENGINEERS HAVE HAIRY EARS

Today in this age of technology when engineering graduates are wooed and courted by all of America's great industries, how do you account for the fact that Rimbaud Sigafos, who finished at the very top of his class at M.I.T., turned down hundreds of attractive job offers to accept employment as a machinery wiper at the Acme Ice Company at a salary of $20 a week with a twelve-hour day, a seven-day week, and only fifteen minutes for lunch?

I know what you are thinking: "Cherchez la femme!" You are thinking that Mr. Acme, head of the Acme Ice Company, has a beautiful daughter with whom Rimbaud is madly in love and he took the job only to be near her.

Friends, you are wrong. It is true that Mr. Acme does have a daughter, a large, torpid lass named Claudia who spends all her waking hours scooping marzipan out of a bucket and staring at a television set which has not worked in some years. Rimbaud has not the slightest interest in Claudia; nor, indeed, does any other man, excepting possibly John Ringling North.

So how come Rimbaud keeps working for the Acme Ice Company? Can it be that they provide him with free Marlboro Cigarettes, and all day long he is able to settle back, make himself comfortable and enjoy the filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste?

a large, torpid lass named Claudia

No, friends, no. Rimbaud is not allowed to smoke on the job and when he finishes his long, miserable day he has to buy his own Marlboros, even as you and I, in order to settle back and enjoy that choice tobacco, that smooth, mellow flavor, that incomparable filter, that pack or box.

Well, friends, you might as well give up because you'll never in a million years guess why Rimbaud works for the Acme Ice Company. The reason is simply this: Rimbaud is a seal!

He started as a performing seal in vaudeville. One night on the way to the Ed Sullivan show, he took the wrong subway. All night the poor mammal rode the B.M.T., seeking a helping hand. Finally a kindly brakeman named Ernest Thompson Sigafos rescued the hapless Rimbaud.

He took Rimbaud home and raised him as his own, and Rimbaud, to show his appreciation, studied hard and got excellent marks and finished a distinguished academic career as valedictorian of M.I.T.

Rimbaud never complained to his kindly foster father, but through all those years of grammar school and high school and college, he darn near died of the heat! A seal, you must remember, is by nature a denizen of the Arctic, so you can imagine how poor Rimbaud must have suffered in subtropical New York and Boston, especially in those tight Ivy League suits.

But today at the Acme Ice Company, Rimbaud has finally found a temperature to his liking. He is very happy and sends greetings to his many friends.
