Lion Cagers Face Middies Tomorrow

By SANDY PADWE

Penn State can look forward to the same treatment from Navy tomorrow that it received from Army the last time out Jan. 14.

The Lions (7-6) face the Middies (5-8) in Annapolis, Md., tomorrow afternoon at 2 p.m. and the Lions figure Navy will throw a switching man-to-man defense at Mark DuMars in an effort to stop the State attack.

Army was successful with this plan at West Point a few weeks back, holding the highscoring DuMars to 12 points. As a result, the Cadets posted a 56-49 win.

Navy used the same strategy

Navy used the same strategy last year and the Middies came away with an 87-71 win.

"They'll probably do the same thing this year," DuMars said yesterday. "And they have the men to do a good job."

DuMars was referring to Navy's slick backcourt combo of Dave Tremaine and Allen Hughes. These two bottled Du-Mars up last year with their defensive maneuvers and the little Magician has plenty of cause Hughes and Tremaine are the only veterans left from the 1959-60 Navy squad which made it to the NCAA playoffs.

Such strongmen as All-American Jay Metzler and sharp-shooting Jim Bower have graduated along with rugged re-bounder Dick Brown and coach Ben Carnevale has been battling inexperience this year.

Kirvan is averaging 13.1 and Miga 9.5. Soph Ron Terwilliger, a freshman whiz last year, is hitting at a 9.2 pace.

However, Hughes, the Middie captain, seems to have lost his scoring touch and is averaging just 3.9 points per game this year.

The slumping Middies, who were beaten at Annapolis by Rutgers, 74-73. Wednesday, are battling a three-game losing streak but that means nothing to Lion Harriers Elect Norman, coach John Egli who knows how Moorhead Co-Captains
