

Brown Sweeps Sprints In Washington Star Meet

Penn State track star Bob Brown began to erase the bitter memory of his failure to make the U.S. Olympic team with a sparkling triple victory at the Washington Star Games Saturday.

And tonight he'll have another chance for some added glory when he competes in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden.

Brown, one of America's top sprinters, was given an excellent chance by most observers to make the three-man Olympic sprint team until he pulled a leg muscle in the national A.A.U. meet.

Under the tutelage of Coach Chick Werner, Brown worked hard all year for the Olympic tryouts in August. Always fast once he gained momentum, the Lion sprinter developed an explosive start and recorded success after success during the indoor season.

He continued his winning ways during the outdoor dual meets, and capped a tremendous year by winning both the 100 and 200-yard dashes in the IC4A's.

The leg injury shattered his dreams of Rome, but apparently the muscular sprinter is looking forward to the future.

Brown swept the 70, 80, and 100-yard dashes at Washington against a crack sprint field.

His time in the 100 was 9.6, only a tenth of a second off the board record set by Dave Sims.

In the same meet Penn State grad student Ed Moran won the eight-lap mile run in 4:11.5, far out in front of Houston's Pat Clohessy.

Quantico's Pete Close, who edged Moran for an Olympic berth this summer, started well but tumbled off the track after a brush with Clohessy at the end of the fifth lap.

The former Penn State great, who has hopes of becoming the first person to run a sub-four-minute mile indoors, set a record in this meet last year when he posted a 4:08.3, the fastest time ever recorded for eight furlongs on a flat board track.

Moran's best indoor time so far is a 4:04 at Boston last year. He will probably run the half mile in the Millrose Games tonight.

In addition to Brown and Moran, high-jumper Dick Campbell, who holds the Penn State record at 6-6, and a two-mile relay team composed of Steve Moorhead, Don Davies, Mike Miller and Herm Weber or Howie Deardorff will also compete tonight.—Jim Karl

Wettstone Says Soviet Meet Best

Penn State gym coach Gene Wettstone, the "Good Will Ambassador of Gymnastics," says that last month's Soviet-U.S. meet in Rec Hall was "the best gymnastics meet of any we've ever had here."

The Soviets scored a 285.85-281.45 victory over six of Uncle Sam's finest in the Jan. 14 meet.

The meet marked the fourth appearance of a foreign team at Penn State. The national teams of Finland (1959), Sweden (1954), and Switzerland (1956) were other visitors to the Nittany Valley.

Despite the Soviet win, American coach Tom Maloney said that the Russian team wasn't up to its usual form. "I never saw them have so many breaks," he said.

Team strength was the key to the Soviet victory. All six of the Russians scored well in each event while their American counterparts were inconsistent.

Members of the Soviet team praised the conditions for the meet, although Olympic still rings champion Albert Azaryan said that they were used to competing in larger arenas.

For playing host to the Russians, the University received a letter from the State Department in recognition of "Penn State's part in furthering U.S.-Soviet relations."

Talented Halfback

Halfback Jim Kerr led Penn State's 1960 football team in rushing, scoring, pass receiving, and kickoff returns. Kerr, a senior from St. Clairsville, Ohio, was the only non-Pennsylvanian in Penn State's starting lineup.

Top NAIA Contenders Trade 2-Point Victories

KANSAS CITY (P) — Southern Illinois University and Tennessee State are acting like leading threats for the NAIA National Basketball Tournament in Kansas City next month.

Each has beaten the other this season, Tennessee State winning 95-93 and Southern Illinois taking their second meeting 91-89.

In last year's tournament of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, Tennessee State was seeded No. 1 but lost in the semifinals and Southern Illinois, seeded third, was knocked out in the first round by unheralded Oklahoma Baptist.
