

Pgh. Symphony Orchestra To Perform This Sunday

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of William Steinberg, will perform at 8 p.m. Sunday in Recreation Hall. The program will include major works of Mozart, Paul Hindemith, Schumann and Wagner.

Tickets for the performance, which is sponsored by the University Artists Series, will be distributed beginning tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. at the Hetzel Union desk.

In its lifetime, the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra has experienced two beginnings.

The first was in 1896 under the direction of the world renowned Victor Herbert who composed many of his famous operettas during his six-year affiliation with the group.

The original orchestra lasted only 15 years before the move was abandoned.

The modern history of the orchestra began in 1926 when a group of theater musicians, determined to build an orchestra for their city, formed an orchestra to recognize the first group.

Under the direction of Edward Spector, this group financed themselves privately and gradually picked up more and more support as the people of Pittsburgh began to realize the advantages of a symphony orchestra.

By 1937 the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra had firmly established themselves by successfully challenging the "blue laws" which had prevented the sale of tickets on Sunday.

Following four seasons of guest conductors, the present director, William Steinberg, came to Pittsburgh to conduct the orchestra.

Thompson Becomes Visiting Prof

Dr. Laura Thompson, visiting scholar at the University of North Carolina, will serve as distinguished visiting professor of anthropology during the spring semester.

Currently completing another book on "Man and Society," she is author of such well-known books as "The Fijian Frontier," "Guam and its People," and "The Hopi Way," one of the most widely used interpretations of Indian life.

She has worked in Hawaii, the Marianas, Iceland, Saxony, for a number of years with the United States Indian Bureau and this past summer travelled in Europe and Iceland.

Dr. Thompson will teach Sociology for undergraduates, and a seminar in anthropology on "Personality and Culture." She will give a limited number of public lectures to the general community during the semester.

An Alumna of Mills College, she has studied at Radcliffe and the University of Chicago and has her doctor of philosophy degree from the University of California.

Concert Set For March 5

The Women's Chorus will combine with the Men's Glee Club in their first secular mid-winter concert at 8 p.m. March 5 in Schwab.

Mixed chorus concerts in the past have been limited to sacred music concerts presented by the University Chapel Choir.

Rehearsals for the combined mid-winter concert will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday from Feb. 8 until March 1 with a final rehearsal from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturday, March 4.

Members of Women's Chorus are chosen by auditions with Dr. W. Paul Campbell in 213 Carnegie and are registered for Music 89.2. Regular rehearsals are held each Wednesday in the Hetzel Union Building assembly room.
