

Assembly Will Discuss Appointment Of Steinhauer to Bookstore Committee

The Assembly will get back into action tonight after the semester break when it meets to discuss the executive appointment of Philip Steinhauer as chairman of the SGA bookstore committee.

Steinhauer, junior in business administration from Kingston, was named by SGA President Richard Haber Monday night to chair the committee after the Board of Trustees

Spring Rush Registration Totals 726

The final number of women registering for Formal Spring Rush is 726. This is an increase of 159 over last year, Mrs. Nancy M. Vanderpool, assistant to the dean of women, announced yesterday.

Of the number, 520 of this year's rushees are freshmen. Mrs. Vanderpool said. She said that this amounted to about 32 per cent of the 1602 freshman women originally enrolled. This figure is not entirely accurate since many of the freshmen have since dropped out, she said.

Rushees have been divided into 26 guide groups for conduct throughout rush, and for information distribution.

Rushees and sorority women are now in a semi-strict silence period until the end of the rushing events, Marcia Hamm, Panhellenic Rush Chairman said.

She said this rules out unnecessary conversation, telephone conversations and walking to class. Sorority women may not visit rushees in their dormitories and rushees may not visit sorority women in their rooms, she added.

AEPHI Wins IM Bridge

Alpha Epsilon Phi placed first in the Women's Recreation Association's intramural bridge tournament. Alpha Xi Delta placed second with Chi Omega and Phi Mu taking third and fourth place honors.

called for more information on the bookstore proposal before it would accept it.

When making the appointment, Haber said the chairman would work with a committee in compiling a report to be presented at the June meeting of the trustees.

The appointment itself must be placed on the Assembly agenda by the Rules Committee, headed by Joan Cavanaugh.

Haber appeared before the Rules Committee Tuesday night to give justification of his appointment and Steinhauer's qualifications for the position, Miss Cavanaugh said.

Although Steinhauer will be working personally with Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration, and President Eric A. Walker in compiling a report, Haber will present it before the Board of Trustees.

Miss Cavanaugh said that Haber cited the fact that he will give the presentation as the reason for making the appointment. This position is considered an executive appointment.

If the nomination had been placed before Assembly, it would have been a legislative appointment, Miss Cavanaugh said.

Another "discussion" issue confronting the Assembly tonight is the possibility of creating two separate committees from the Inter-racial Problems and Housing Committee.

Cynthia Xanthopolous, chairman of the present committee, will recommend in her report tonight that a Housing Committee and an Inter-racial Problems Committee be formed.

Miss Xanthopolous said a separate Housing Committee is needed to handle the mechanics of running the non-discriminatory housing list placed in the Hetzel Union Building by SGA.

'Cover Girl' Beauty Contest Ends Today

Campus lovelies have until noon today to submit their photographs for the selection of the University's entrant in the "Campus Cover Girl" contest, according to John Black, Chief Connoisseur.

The Pittsburgh Press, sponsor of the contest, picked the male editors of The Daily Collegian to select this University's representative. "They chose us because they wanted an unbiased, amorously inclined group," Black said.

"The devil-may-care reputations of our Beauty Review Staff are world famous," Black said. The staff includes such bon vivants as Sandy Padwe, (the casanova of The Daily Collegian City Room), Joel Myers (the only man who has had an AWS meeting devoted exclusively to him) and Richard Bowers (whose last three girl friends committed suicide when he left them). John Black, the terror of Panhel, will act as coordinator of the group.

Photographs of those wishing to compete for the contest should be turned into the Collegian office in the basement of Carnegie. The photos must be 5x7 or 8x10 glossy or mat finished portraits.

Five finalists will be selected by the Review Staff and the University's representative will be chosen after the finalists have been personally interviewed.

Open House to Be Held In Theater Arts Studio

An open house will be held at 7:30 tonight in the new Theater Arts Production Studio, Vince Landro of the University Players announced Tuesday.

All students interested in seeing the expanded theater production facilities are invited to attend.

No formal plans have been laid for the open house but Theater Arts majors and members of Players will be available to answer questions and conduct tours around the studio.

11 Students Receive Disciplinary Action

A male student was dismissed from the University, another one was suspended for the spring semester and nine other men were put on disciplinary probation in recent action taken by University judicial groups.

An education student was dismissed and a freshman in engineering was suspended for the spring semester by their respective college committees on academic discipline after one of the students substituted for the other in an important class assignment, according to Leroy S. Austin, associate dean of men.

In other academic dishonesty cases, three students were put on disciplinary probation. The three were: a junior in education, who was caught copying during a final examination, a senior in engineering who used another student's materials for meeting certain course requirements and a sophomore in chemistry who was caught cheating during an examination in a chemistry class, Austin said.

The Senate Sub-Committee on

Discipline, in a meeting yesterday, placed a freshman in liberal arts on disciplinary probation until the end of the fall term 1961. The student, Austin said, had been uncooperative with residence hall counselors. The behavior persisted, Austin continued, to the end of the semester when it was learned that the student had failed two courses. It was at this point that the case was referred to the sub-committee, he said.

In action taken by the Dean of Men, four sophomores who were caught drinking in the residence hall were placed on disciplinary probation until the end of this semester, Austin said.

In addition, a sophomore in engineering, who previously had been on probation with the office of the dean of men, was given disciplinary probation until the end of his 11th term, when he continued to misbehave in the residence hall, Austin said.

Senate May Change Discipline Recording

The University Senate will consider a recommendation to alter the procedure for recording disciplinary action on student transcripts when it meets at 4:15 p.m. today.

A proposal calls for notations of disciplinary action to be removed at the time of graduation or after a petition by the student when the probation period has elapsed, according to Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, special advisor to the president in charge of student affairs.

This change is necessary, Bernreuter said, because the inclusion of the action does not allow the transcripts to conform to the standards of the Committee on Transcript Adequacy of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers.

Formerly the record of disciplinary action remained until the student petitioned for its removal.

The Senate may also hear a request by radio station WDFM to send a reporter to its meetings. According to Stephen Milner, the station's news director, the request has been submitted to Dr. Monroe Newman, chairman of the Senate Committee on Student Affairs. Milner said Newman had agreed to submit the request at the meeting.

The only existing coverage of Senate meetings has been by The Daily Collegian.

The extension of Senate meetings which was proposed at the last meeting will also be voted upon. The motion for amendment called for the meetings to be extended into July and August.

A proposed change in this amendment would move the meeting day from the first Thursday to the first Tuesday of the month at the beginning of the sixth period or at 3:55 p.m.

Dunne Receives Honor

Howard W. Dunne, professor of veterinary science, has been elected to membership in the American College of Veterinary Pathologists. Dunne received the honor following completion of the board examination in veterinary pathology.

Student Enrollment Now Totals 15,030

Late registration brought the total enrollment for the semester to 15,030 by late Tuesday. Students will continue to register for the rest of the week.

About 200 more students are expected to register, according to Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, dean of admissions and registrar. Most of these will be part-time students, Bernreuter said.

The final enrollment, including the 200 more expected to register, will still be below last fall's enrollment of 15,741.
