

Goldberg Claims U.S. In Recession

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, touring unemployment areas, said yesterday "We are in a full-fledged recession."

He urged bipartisan support for President Kennedy's bail-out program.

Goldberg, former labor union attorney, said the country can be restored to full employment and prosperity if government, business and labor all pull together.

Prompt action, he said, is needed to reverse the economic downtrend.

Goldberg flew from Washington to Chicago and then on to hard-hit Gary and South Bend, Ind., for conferences with local officials and unemployed workers and their families.

The tour, one of several planned on-the-spot inspections of unemployed areas in five states, is aimed as a concrete expression, Goldberg said, of Kennedy's "deep concern" with the unemployment problems.

"Above all," Goldberg said, "we in the administration are conscious that unemployment is not only a statistic. If it were, I'd stay in Washington."

"It's a human problem affecting the lives of men, women and children."

Saying his mission is above politics "because the problem is far too serious," Goldberg added that bipartisanship in solving domestic economic problems is just as needed as a common stand in tackling foreign problems.

"We ought to bury our politics," Goldberg said, in dealing with the problem of idle plants and the 5,385,000 unemployed.

In his home town of Chicago, Goldberg found conditions not so bad as in Gary and South Bend, where slack steel and auto production have caused an idle rate of nearly 12 per cent.

Illinois State Labor Director Robert W. Johnston said his state's unemployment has reached 315,000.

Widespread Search for Lumumba Continued by Katanga Government

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (AP) — A wide ranging air and ground search by dusk yesterday had turned up no trace of Patrice Lumumba, the mysteriously missing ex-premier of the Congo. His Katanga Province jailers reported 24 hours previously he had escaped but their version was met with skepticism.

Some U.N. officials said they believe Lumumba is dead and the escape story may be a deception used by the Katanga government — arch foe of the leftist-leaning unpredictable Congolese leader.

The official Yugoslav Communist newspaper Borba of Belgrade said yesterday in a Leopoldville dispatch that Lu-mumba had safely reached Bukava, capital of Kivu Province.

Bukava is some 550 miles north-east of where Lumumba was being held.

Ten pro-Lumumba nations in the United Nations in New York — all skeptical — asked Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold yesterday to investigate the Katanga reports that Lumumba escaped.

U.S. Chief Delegate Adlai Stevenson said the United States would deeply deplore Lumumba's assassination if that turned out to be his fate.

Katanga officials said security troops, helicopters and planes scoured the isolated area where Lumumba was held.

They reported spotting a black Ford sedan parked on a road about 25 miles north of the Portuguese Angola-Katanga border.

Eleven Swiss Skiers Killed by Snow Slide

LENZERHEIDE, Switzerland (AP) — A massive snow slide buried a vacationing party of 19 teen-age Swiss skiers and their three teachers in the Alps yesterday. Only 11 of the 22 survived.

Viet Nam to Release 1000

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The government said yesterday it will release 1000 political prisoners as part of the celebration of South Viet Nam's lunar new year, next Wednesday.

The government says the bulk of prisoners were arrested in connection with Communist activity.
