

Three Fraternities Suspended by IFC

Three fraternities were suspended from the Interfraternity Council at last night's IFC meeting.

Lambda Chi Alpha, Theta Delta Chi and Sigma Nu were suspended from the IFC for failing to pay bills owed to the council, Ben Bronstein, secretary-treasurer, said. These fraternities have had outstanding bills for over two months, he said, and according to IFC regulations, all fraternities with such bills are eligible for suspension.

Letter Cites Plan For Ed Training

Methods to provide training for graduate students and staff members in continuing education were outlined in a letter submitted recently to the University Senate by the Senate Committee on Educational Policy.

Continuing education provides adult education, as well as supplying films, tapes and records from the audio-visual aids library, the letter said. One practical application of continuing education is in the field of agricultural and home economics where agents offer programs to 4-H Clubs, church, school and civic groups, it continued.

A policy statement adopted by the Senate last year called for each University department, school and college to provide training experience in continuing education.

A request for some means of developing this program resulted in the adoption of suggestions by the Senate Committee on Continuing Educational Policy.

Most of the suggestions dealt with opportunities for graduate students to work with staff members in preparing courses and reading correspondence lessons. As the student became experienced, the letter said, they could conduct off-campus classes.

Another training opportunity for students could be in developing a new course to be presented by correspondence or in off-campus classes, the letter said.

Shull to Speak Tuesday On Plant Management

Ken Shull, of Proctor and Gamble Co. and a 1952 mechanical engineer graduate of the University, will speak at 1:15 p.m. today in 105 Mechanical Engineering.

He will discuss typical starting positions, subsequent assignments, training, and what it takes to make progress in plant management.

$2 Million Needed to Expand

By PAT DYER
(This is the third in a series of articles concerning President Walker's request for increased state appropriations.)

One-third of the six million dollar increase in state appropriations requested by the University will be used for expansion, according to President Eric A. Walker.

One million dollars is earmarked for admitting 1200 new students next fall and another million for initiating new research projects. The other $4 million of the requested increase is necessary to maintain the present services, Walker said.

Governor David L. Lawrence has recommended a standstill budget on education of $17.1 million until his special committee presents its report. President Walker has warned the parents of all University students that if State appropriations are not allocated for his $23.1 million budget, tuition will have to be raised.

The portion of the increase earmarked for expansion is necessary to enable the University to take its share of the 12,000 new Pennsylvania college students anticipated in 1961 and to help the State's lagging economy through research, Walker said.

Last year, in the face of an unprecedented demand for admission, 1200 additional full-time students were admitted to bring Penn State's statewide total to a record of 21,656. Already, nearly 20,000 high school seniors have requested application blanks for 1961.

Funds for admitting the additional students last fall were obtained by postponing essential maintenance work and continuing essential research projects. At least $1 million is necessary in order to increase the 1961-62 enrollment, Walker said.

The other half of the expansion budget is earmarked for new research aimed at developing Pennsylvania's secondary natural resources and at finding ways to use the State's unemployed manpower, according to a special budget booklet, "Penn State and the Future of Pennsylvania."

"For years," Prexy explained, "Pennsylvania's economic growth has been slowing under competitive pressures which no longer can be overcome unless more people are properly trained to make effective use of the commonwealth's vast supply of undeveloped physical resources."

Until the bills are paid, Bronstein said, these fraternities lose all their privileges including social ones. Following payment they are automatically reinstated.

After the meeting Bronstein said that the presidents of the houses involved promised payment by midnight last night. In the past, Bronstein said, IFC has let such delinquencies ride, but they have become an annoyance and nuisance.

In other business representatives of the P. Lorillard Co. explained the current contest sponsored by their company for fraternities and sororities at the University. The contest will award a color television set to the fraternity and sorority who have collected the most cigarette wrappers from Lorillard products by March 22.

In other business Ronald Novak, president of IFC, announced the official pledging date for the spring semester is 12:01 a.m. Feb. 25.

Nominations for IFC offices will open at the Council's Feb. 25 meeting and close at the March 13 meeting.

12 Fellowships To Be Given

The Graduate School is offering 12 fellowships for 1961-62 to outstanding advanced graduate students. The deadline for filing applications is March 1.

One of the fellowships, provided through a gift from the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, is restricted to a terminal-year doctoral student who is planning to enter college or university teaching as his career.

The fellowships provide a tax-free stipend of $2000 for the fall, winter and spring terms, plus a grant-in-aid to cover all tuition for the three terms.

Application forms and further information may be obtained at the Graduate School office, 106 Willard.

When the company you keep is mainly faculty members, it is inevitable that living in a college town makes for a large turnover of friends. The turnover is caused by other institutions offering our underpaid faculty a livable salary. If he isn't already attached to a well-heeled matron, the individual must be tremendously dedicated to remain in a teaching post, well knowing that industry will tap his brains for double his present salary. Perhaps, fate has ordained that the ruling diety of this University finds solace in knowing that poverty breeds creativity. The fact remains that talented instructors are being drained in droves by other far-sighted quality-conscious institutions.

Interested in an experiment? We've been fortunate in acquiring for a short trial period a most unique camera which is capable of many unusual possibilities. For those who allow us to use this camera while making their portraits rather than our standard camera, we will accord a 25% discount on their order of finished prints. We have sufficient film to do about thirty sittings with this camera, so do besiege us within the next few days.
