

Cold Sidelines DuMars; May Miss Weekend Trip

By SANDY PADWE

Mark DuMars can't seem to catch a break this year. Penn State's leading scorer wound up in the University Hospital yesterday with a high fever and his status for this weekend's road trip to Colgate and Syracuse is "indefinite."

DuMars, who scored 21 points in Tuesday's 80-78 loss to West Virginia, appeared to be fully recovered from an ankle injury suffered against Bucknell, Feb. 7.

"We'll check tomorrow and find out how he is," Lion coach John Egli said last night. "If he has a fever, I don't see how we can take him." The Lions plan to leave for Colgate tonight.

DuMars, who has scored 1071 points during his three-year career, has scored 266 this year in 17 games for a 15.5 average. The bad news about DuMars, coupled with Tuesday's heart-breaking defeat in Morgantown, hit the Lions hard.

"We played without him most of the time against Pitt and did OK," Egli said, "so we're not that bad off. Even so, I sure hope he can play."

DuMars had a great night against West Virginia, hitting on 9 of 19 shots and converting three fouls.

While DuMars was returning to form, Gene Harris continued his steady play and wound up as the game's leading scorer with 24 points.

"You can overdo that 'team effort' stuff," Egli said following Tuesday's game, "but I don't know of any other way to describe it. Those boys played their hearts out. We played well enough to win. You know, if we were playing anybody else we probably would have won."

State will get another shot at the tenth ranked Mounties Tuesday in Rec Hall and by that time Rod Thorn, West Virginia's leading scorer, should be back in action.

He missed Tuesday's tilt because of a virus attack but Paul Miller scored 22 points in his place, Miller had been averaging seven per game. "I don't think Thorn would have made that much difference,"

High Jumper Shows Fast Improvement

Judging by his performance at Navy Saturday, Jerry Wettstone is fast following in the footsteps of teammate Dick Campbell.

Last year Campbell set a new Penn State record in the high jump by clearing 6-6 against Navy during the outdoor season.

Before the 1960 campaign Campbell had been only a mediocre jumper, but a few pointers he picked up from track star Charlie Dumas plus plenty of hard work boosted him into the 6-6 class.

Now Wettstone, the son of gymnastics coach Gene Wettstone, is picking up those same pointers from Campbell and Coach Chick Werner. As a result the Lion junior is fast developing into a good jumper.

His 6-4½ against Navy gave him a tie for first with Campbell and established the Lion duo as one of the top high-jump combinations in the East.

The secret to Wettstone's rapid development is the straight leg kick. Dumas, a former Olympian, perfected this move and now it is used by all the top jumpers.

"I used to use the old move of bending my leg as I went over the bar," Wettstone said. "But now I keep my leg straight when I kick and it's helped me a lot."

Boston University's John Thomas is the favorite to capture the IC4A high jump title March 4, but both Wettstone and Campbell should be strong favorites to place.

Wettstone said his main problem now is to improve his style. He doesn't know what his maximum height is, but he thinks he can hit 6-6 by the outdoor season.

State Retains Seventh Spot In National Wrestling Ratings

By JIM KARL

Penn. State's wrestling team has retained its seventh place ranking in the revised national ratings compiled by the Amateur Wrestling News despite losses to Lehigh and Michigan.

The ratings were published before the Lions' loss to Navy at Annapolis Saturday. The Middies were not listed among the top 25 teams.

Other teams in the top 10 were (1) Oklahoma State; (2) Lehigh; (3) Michigan; (4) Oklahoma; (5) Iowa; (6) Iowa State; (8) Army; (9) Pittsburgh; and (10) Michigan State.

Pitt, with losses to Michigan and Army, dropped five notches from its previous spot as the 4th best team in the nation while Lehigh (8-0) advanced four places from sixth.

Penn State would probably be missing from the top 10 if the ratings had been compiled after Saturday's loss. The magazine, the official publication of the American Wrestling Coaches and Officials Association classified State as a solid team.

"Penn State took a drubbing from Lehigh but they have a solid team that should hold its own the rest of the way," the magazine said.

Rutgers, another undefeated entry in the East, was listed as a top contender to break into the first 10, but the competition the Scarlet have faced to date hasn't been of high calibre.

Rutgers and State will clash in Rec Hall March 4.

On Feb. 25 the Lions will be at home against arch-rival Pitt. Syracuse will provide the opposition in a road date Saturday.

Although the Lions are having an off-season after last year's 9-0-1 record, things could be much worse. Except for three pins in the last four bouts against Maryland, State would be 3-4.
