Early Thaw Brings Jazz And Puddles

Once again the weather is the topic of conversation in informal jam sessions. Two weeks ago it was about all the snow, but now it's about the coming monsoons.

The snow melting did cause one problem. That was how to get across the wide puddles. However, some coeds in the Pollock area were fortunate enough to have a delivery man ask them if they wanted to ride in his truck to get over some of the puddles.

If you see a lot of the senior men looking at a lamp post on the mall near the library, don't think they are going out of their mind. They are just jealous of its number—4-F.

Carried away, I guess, would be the best way to describe the four or five spectators who started to do the twist while standing on chairs during the Ray Charles concert.

I am sure glad to see that basketball programs are being sold at Rec Hall for the home games. It's so much easier to enjoy a game when you know who is playing.

A sure sign that spring is just around the corner is the men tossing baseballs on the lawns where the snow has melted.

It seemed like the old days last week as several unsuspecting visitors tried to drive down the forbidden sector of Pollock Rd. in front of Carnegie. The chain had been taken down to help facilitate snow removal.

I have just been informed by the registrar that I will be able to schedule my classes at Whipples when the weather warms up.

Display Shows Summer Jobs

Information on summer job opportunities is displayed today by the University Christian Association on the Hetzel Union ground floor.

Projects sponsored by churches of all faiths offer chances for travel abroad or study and wage earning while aiding with community and church programs. Many of these opportunities are available in Pennsylvania and in states across the country.

After today, information will be available in the UCA office on the second floor of the Eisenhower Chapel.

Meeting for Camp Jobs

There will be a meeting for all students interested in summer jobs as camp counsellors at 7:30 tonight in the Hetzel Union assembly room.

Two Maine camp directors will lead an illustrated discussion on camp life and duties.

The production of television sets in the United States jumped from 10,000 in 1946 to 7½ million in 1950.

Frantic Coed Invents Chatter Date Topic

Sorority spring rush is well underway, and by now approximately 650 women have learned that the one thing that every rushee absolutely must do at a chatter date is, obviously, chatter.

The primary object of any rushee is to impress sorority women, and one of the best ways is with a topic of conversation so new and exciting that it couldn't possibly have been discussed before. Naturally, after discussing the same old campus topics hour after hour, sisters will appreciate anyone who can bring u. something new.

Tuesday night, some rushee outdid herself in this area. She found a conversational topic that was bound to attract attention. She simply told the sisters at her first chatter date that Elizabeth Taylor had died. It seemed plausible, after all, Liz had been sick.

Her statement, dropped like a bombshell. She found herself the center of attention, happily answering all the questions sisters asked her about the star.

Naturally after the sensation she caused in the first suite, the imaginative rushee couldn't resist trying it again in all the sorority suites she visited that night. The word spread to other rushees and other suites — chaos reigned.

Worried Liz Taylor fans called The Daily Collegian office to ask if the actress was really dead. Surprisingly, no word had been received from the news and wire services on the subject. However, staff members assured anxious callers that a speedy investigation would be made.

The rushee, whoever she might be, went back to her dorm, confident that she had made an impression that sisters would long remember. There was no doubt that no one would equal her conversational topic for days to come.

Loans for Summer Will Be Granted

Students wishing to apply for a loan for the summer term should file an application before April 15 at the Office of Student Aid, 218 Willard.

Loans will be awarded on the basis of financial need and scholarship.

A budget of income and expenses for the loan period is required and the applicant's parents are asked to complete a statement of their income.

Superior students planning to teach in elementary or secondary schools and those majoring in science, mathematics, engineering or modern language are given preference.

Any student with a financial need with at least a 2.00 All-University average may apply.

3 Freshmen Get $500 Scholarships

Three freshmen are currently holding $500 scholarships made available by the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers' Association.

They are James Distefano, major in mining engineering from Johnstown; Jan Miller, major in mineral preparation engineering from State College; and George Yeager, major in metallurgy from Ephrata.

All of the students were chosen on the basis of scholarship and character, with need also considered.

ISA Will Sponsor 3 Bridge Lessons

The Independent Student Association will sponsor a series of three bridge lessons for 80 interested students.

Registration for the lessons is at the Hetzel Union desk. A deposit of $1 is required for registration but this deposit will be returned when the lessons are completed.

The first class will be from 6:30 to 8:30 tonight in the HUB card-room.
