

Road-Wearry Cagers Lose To Carnegie Tech, 70-57

By SANDY PADWE
Pittsburgh, Pa., March 1—Any resemblance between the Penn State basketball team that lost to Carnegie Tech here tonight, 70-57, and the one that upset Temple in Rec Hall Tuesday is purely coincidental.

From the opening minutes it was evident that the Lions' rigorous road schedule had finally caught up with them.

They dropped passes, threw the ball away, and were caught flat-footed under the boards all evening by the ambitious and well-rested Tartans.

Carnegie Tech jumped into a 5-1 lead and the Lions never caught up despite a great individual performance by Mark DuMars.

DuMars scored 19 points and had the pro scouts drooling. Lenny Litman, who owns the Pittsburgh franchise in the new American Basketball League, came away with a glowing impression of DuMars.

"He's the kind of guy we are looking for. He has everything but size. But size doesn't matter in our league because of the three-point rule for outside shooting."

MARK DuMARS ... gets 19 points

Even though DuMars sparkled for the Lions, Andy Komer and Bill Soffa turned in the top performances of the night.

Komer led Tech in scoring with 24 points and was second in rebounding with 17. Soffa had 19 points. Mike Flynn, a 6-0 forward, was Tech's top rebounder with 18. On the other hand, Jake Trueblood, who goes 6-5, was State's leader with 11.

The loss ruined State's chances for a .500 record and dropped the Lions' slate to 10-13 with only Rutgers remaining Saturday in Rec Hall.

Tech (10-12), broke the game wide open midway in the second half, and when Soffa completed a three-point play with about three minutes left Tech had a 66-51 lead.

Busy Saturday

April 22 will be a busy Saturday at Penn State. All five spring teams (baseball, track, golf, lacrosse, tennis) will have home contests that day.

KDR Nips Phi Kappa Theta For Close IM Swim Victory

By JOHN STOECKEL
A win in the final event of the evening gave Kappa Delta Rho a tight 19½-17½ win over Phi Kappa Theta in IM swimming last night. Mike Richards, Dick Campbell, Mark Daniels, and Ed Unger made up KDR's winning relay quartet.

Bill Malleon of KDR took first in the backstroke and Clarence Maurer, also of KDR, took top honors in diving. Phi Kappa Theta's winners were Walter Benecki in the freestyle, and Ed Laudano in the breaststroke.

Bucks swept by Delaware, 35-7, taking firsts in every event except the backstroke, won by Fred Wolfson from Delaware. Rowland Bowers of Bucks won the freestyle in 37.9 seconds and was on the winning relay team.

John Zott took the backstroke in 49.8 and Don James won diving honors. Bowers, Arthur Fuller, Zott, and Ray Schroeder composed Bucks' winning relay squad.

Beta Sigma Rho topped Delta Upsilon, 23-18, capturing top place in every event except diving. DU's Ed Heilbrun took top honors in that event. Steve Sussman took first in the backstroke and Jim Kridel won the breaststroke. Sussman, Arthur Axelrod, Ed Snyder, and Kridel teamed up to take a first in the relay.

Matmen's Win Over Pitt Didn't Surprise Speidel

By JIM KARL
Penn State's 17-12 victory over Pitt's highly-touted grapplers Saturday night came as a surprise to many people, but Charlie Speidel wasn't one of them.

Speidel knew the Lions weren't as bad as scores in their previous two meets indicated. Dan Johnston was sidelined with tonsillitis the week Navy beat State, 17-11, and Phil Myer missed the 16-15 loss to Syracuse when he contacted a skin rash.

Both wrestlers came through with important wins Saturday. Johnston ruined Pitt's hope for a sweep in the lightweight divisions by decisioning Daryl Kelvington at 137, 11-6.

Myer edged Jim Harrison, Pitt's highly regarded sophomore, with a last minute reversal giving State a 12-9 lead going into the 191-pound battle.

Charles Shaffer used a double-leg takedown to beat Dave Hayes, 8-6, and tie the score at 12-12.

Then EIWA heavyweight king Johnston Oberly provided the decisive points with a fall over Bob Guzik at the 7:40 mark.

Until the pin Oberly had a slim 2-0 lead with Guzik trying desperately for an escape or a reversal.

"Guzik always plays for draws when he meets Oberly," Speidel said yesterday. "He doesn't like to mix with Oberly. If he did, he'd lose."

"He just gets on his bicycle," Speidel continued. "That's the scheme of most of them."

Guzik stayed away from Oberly the first period. The "Big O" escaped shortly after the second period started to take a 1-0 lead.

He had almost two minutes riding time in the third stanza before scoring the fall. "Oberly was under instructions to get a full minute time advantage before trying anything," Speidel said.

Norton, Green Finish 1-2 In NFL Punting Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Norton of the St. Louis Cardinals won the National Football League punting title in 1960, official final statistics showed.

Norton averaged 45.6 yards for 39 punts. Bob Green of the Pittsburgh Steelers was second with a 44.2 average for 64 punts. Green had the longest kick of the season, 75 yards. Norton's best effort was 62 yards.

AN UNPAID TESTIMONIAL

Richard the Lion-Hearted says:

I would never have surrendered England ... if I'd had Jockey support

C'mon, Dick! You're rationalizing. Jockey support! might never have secured you against the Emperor! But it certainly would have provided snug protection against the physical stresses and strains of your active life. Your armor never tailored a coat of mail more knowingly than Jockey tailors a brief—from 13 separate, body-conforming pieces.

1. Other "imitation" briefs (copies of the original Jockey brand) have no more Jockey support than a limp loin cloth.
2. Richard the Lion-Hearted, 1157-99, surrendered England and a huge ransom to secure his release from Henry VI.
