

Meriwether Given Committee Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — By a single vote, a Senate committee approved Charles M. Meriwether yesterday to be a director of the Export-Import Bank. Approval came after Meriwether, a segregationist, denied membership in the Ku Klux Klan.

It was the closest any nominee of President Kennedy has come to committee rejection, and it could foreshadow trouble in the full Senate. Chairman A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., said the nomination would not reach the floor before Monday.

With six senators not voting, the Banking Committee approved Meriwether by a 5-4 vote.

For 2½ hours, the Alabamian was questioned closely about his views on segregation, the Klan, anti-Semitism, and politics.

Meriwether, state finance director, is a former campaign manager of Gov. John Patterson of Alabama. Patterson was one of the first Democratic governors to support Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Most of the controversy over Meriwether has been stirred by his past association with retired Adm. John G. Crommelin.

In recent years, Crommelin has run for a variety of offices in Alabama. Meriwether was Crommelin's campaign manager when he ran for the Senate in 1950. But Meriwether testified he severed ties with Crommelin later.

Meriwether added that Crommelin, in his campaign against Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., in 1950, had not made the extreme racist statements he said Crommelin has made in later campaigns.

A hint that Meriwether's nomination was headed for trouble emerged Wednesday at Kennedy's news conference.

Twice, the President was asked about Meriwether. In terse replies, the President supported the nomination but did not elaborate.

Asked if there was anything in Meriwether's background that might embarrass the administration, Kennedy replied: "No, I have sent Mr. Meriwether's name up there after reading the FBI report and records."

Then, in reply to a second question, the President merely confirmed that Meriwether once had been Crommelin's campaign manager.

Geyser Erupts in Italy

REGGIO EMILIA, Italy (AP) — La Salsa, Reggio Emilia's "Old Salty" geyser, erupted yesterday night for the fourth time in 40 years. The 30-foot spout of boiling, salty water failed to live up to a century-old prediction that La Salsa would erupt some day into a true volcano and leave Reggio Emilia in ruins.

European Mob Attacks Moslems, Burns Vehicles

ORAN, Algeria (AP) — More than 2000 irate Europeans marched into the center of Oran last night manhandling Moslems and burning their vehicles to avenge the deaths Tuesday of two middle-aged French women at the hands of a mob.

Emergency reinforcements of soldier and mobile guards set up barricades to separate mobs of Europeans on one side and a quickly growing mob of Moslems on the other.

Officials said eight persons had been injured, including one seriously hurt and four vehicles had been overturned and set aflame.

The Europeans paraded into town from a cemetery after attending burial services for one of the two women burned to death in their car by a mob of Moslem youths.

Shouting the battle cry of Algeria's European settlers, "Algeria is French!" The Europeans sought to lay their hands on every Moslem they spied. Two Moslems simply abandoned their vehicles and fled.

The crowd, its numbers growing rapidly, set fire to a motor scooter and an automobile.
