

Parties to Prepare For Spring Election

Campus politics will begin to buzz with activity later this month as the political parties prepare for the spring election.

The parties will nominate candidates for SGA president, vice president and secretary-treasurer. A total of 21 assembly seats will also be filled, according to Joan Cavanagh, chairman of the SGA Rules Committee.

'62 Class Gift Suggestion Box Recommended

A recommendation to put a suggestion box in the Hetzel Union for ideas for the class gift of '62 was presented to the junior class advisory board at a recent meeting.

Tim Nelligan, chairman of the senior class ('61) gift committee, said that he is compiling a report which will be given to President Eric A. Walker on the problems of electing a class gift under the new four term system.

The suggestion box would be located at the HUB desk for two weeks next fall and juniors would place ideas in the box.

The class gift committee is composed of Richard Kelley, chairman, Marcia Katzen, George Haney, Mary Ruth Martin and Barbara Yunk.

Air Society Attends Pittsburgh Convention

Ronald Maturi, senior in business administration from Trucksville, was named outstanding Squadron Commander of eight colleges in Pennsylvania and West Virginia at the Arnold Air Society area conclave held last weekend.

The convention, held in Pittsburgh, was attended by members of Arnold Air Societies from colleges in Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and Washington, D.C.

Nine senior, six junior, three sophomore and three freshman assemblymen will be elected. Presidents will also be elected for the junior and senior classes.

Elections have been scheduled for April 18, 19 and 20, but Robert Dufner, Elections Committee chairman, said he may recommend that the Assembly move the dates to the 25, 26 and 27 of April. Dufner said that because of the Easter vacation, the parties may not have enough time to campaign if the elections take place as presently scheduled.

All three parties — University, Campus and Liberal now plan to run a full slate of candidates in the elections. This will be the first year Liberal party has participated in the spring elections. It is also the first year since 1955 that three political parties have run candidates in a spring election.

The election's committee has set the dates for the primary and final nominations of candidates. Each party must have its slate made up by April 9, Dufner said. The primaries will be held March 26.

Primary party registration will begin March 19 and final registration has been set for March 26. The registration is mandatory for all party members. Those who register must attend two party meetings in order to vote in the primaries and final nominations.

Six Readers To Compete In Festivals

Representatives for the Eastern Poetry Reading Festival and for the Pennsylvania State Reading Festival were selected last week during try-outs held in a regular workshop of the University Readers.

Michele Ohrman, sophomore in arts and letters from McKeesport, will represent the University at the Eastern Poetry Reading Festival which will be held at Dartmouth University.

Reading poetry at the state festival to be held here will be Susan Wertz, senior in applied art from Donora; Helen Jewells, junior in arts and letters from Tamaqua; and Ray Altman, junior in arts and letters from Tramore, will compete in the prose division, Mary Louise Pappas, senior in arts and letters from Villanova, will present a drama selection.

Peggy Mitchell, freshman in liberal arts from Leesburg, Va., will act as the toastmistress for the banquet which will be a highlight of the state festival.

The Inter-collegiate Reading Festival at Michigan State University to which representatives were to be sent has been cancelled for this year.

Pink and black were first adopted as Penn State's colors in 1887.

Borough to Enlarge Lot

The borough is tearing down a house at 135 S. Frazier St. in order to enlarge the Municipal Parking Lot. Demolition of the house, which has been empty for some time, began last week.
