For All-Around Crown

By JOHN MORRIS

Gene Wettstone, now in his 22nd year as Penn State gym coach, has tutored six team champions and 17 individual the first time in years Centre titlists in NCAA tourneys.

Last year it was Jay Werner who won the national allaround crown as the Nittanies copped their second consecutive team title. The Lions and Wettstone are just a matter of who hits his plying on junior Greg Weiss routines," he continued. relying on junior Greg Weiss to come up with a victory in this year's tourney.

Weiss won the eastern crown earlier this month with a 534.5 total that beat teammate Tommy Seward by 63 points. points. Seward tallied 471.5 for second place.

The Michigan star averaged 91.5 points per routine to beat defending champ Ray Hadley by 14.75.

The bespectacled Illinois star averaged 89.6 per event to take second place with 535.75 markers. Hadley finished fourth behind Werner, California's Art Shurlock and Weiss in last year's meet in Rec Hall.

Shurlock might have been the favorite this year, but his eligibility ran out last month.

Southern Illinois' sophomore Fred Orlofsky is now the favorite, according to Wettstone. "Orlofsky should be favored," Wettstone said, "but Greg will give him a real battle.
