Death of Cuban Ambassador to U.N. Postpones Debate on Congo Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cuban Ambassador Manuel Bisbe, 55, Cuban scholar-diplomat, died of a heart attack in the hall outside the U.N. General Assembly yesterday. Because of the death of the permanent U.N. representative of the Fidel Castro regime, the 99-nation assembly put off until this morning a speech by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko opening debate on the Congo crisis.

University Party Leads Registration

University party led in primary political party registration Sunday night with a total of 188 students signing registration forms.

Campus party registration totaled 65 while 16 students signed up for Liberal party.

Students may also register at the party meetings next Sunday. Last night's registration completed the first of the three party meetings which will continue until Sunday April 9 when final nominations for Spring Elections will be conducted.

In order to vote in the primary and final nominations, students must have registered either Sunday or at the primary nomination meetings scheduled for this coming Sunday. In order to vote for party offices attendance was required at Sunday's meeting and at the next meeting.

During its first meeting, University party elected Neal Rhoads, junior in Arts and Letters from Allentown, vice party chairman for campaign and Dorothy Lerew, sophomore in Arts and Letters from York Springs, secretariat.

Campus party held nominations for party offices at Sunday's meeting. Dennis Eisman who served as party chairman last semester was nominated for party chairman. Eisman is unopposed as are the other nominees for party offices.

The other nominations were vice clique chairman, William Laman; corresponding secretary, Sandra Tait; recording secretary, Barbara Krauth; Ralph Friedman; senior class clique president, Thomas Loman; junior class clique president, Harriet Emdur; and sophomore class clique president Susan Odenheimer.

Liberal party officers were elected at a recent meeting.

Cage Scandal May be Sent To Grand Jury

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The District Attorney's office kept silent today on the latest basketball scandal involving two players from Seton Hall and one from Connecticut.

Meanwhile reports circulated that the matter would go before a Manhattan grand jury later in the week.

While District Attorney Frank S. Hogan refused further comment, the World Telegram and Sun said sources close to the investigation disclosed the case would be presented to the grand jury.

David Worgan, Asst. District Attorney, declined to comment, saying "there is nothing on the investigation other than it is continuing."

Two New York men, Aaron Wagman and Joseph Hacken, have been arrested as fixers. Both have been convicted previously as gamblers.

The DA's office said two 21-year-old Seton Hall players, Art Hicks and Henry Gunter, were paid $1000 each to shave points. (Continued on page seven)

SGA Group States Discrimination Stand

The stand of the SGA Committee on Inter-Racial Relations against DARE's (Direct Action for Racial Equality) campaign was clarified yesterday by Cynthia Xanthopoulos, former committee chairman.

DARE is currently conducting a drive to solicit statements from student organizations asking that discriminatory clauses be abolished from the constitutions of sororities and fraternities on campus within the next five years.

Miss Xanthopoulos said that her committee will not issue such a statement because, according to the DARE representative, only five or six fraternities and sororities on campus have such clauses.

In view of this small number, Miss Xanthopoulos said that the committee felt that DARE's campaign is magnifying the issue.

She also said that since several of the groups which the DARE representative mentioned as having these clauses are working to revise their constitutions, outside intervention would do more harm than good.

Miss Xanthopoulos explained that the elimination of fraternity and sorority prejudice from within the groups themselves would be the best method. She said that they should work with their national offices in repealing discriminatory clauses in constitutions.

The campaign, which is now in its second week, will continue to request statements from student groups. Aaron Konstam, president of DARE, said that his organization hopes to begin work on a bill this week to present before the SGA Assembly sometime in the near future.

Bisbe collapsed while talking to Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa, who has played the leading role for the Castro regime in bringing anti-U.S. charges before the assembly.

Oxygen treatment was administered to the ambassador as he reclined on a couch in the hall.

Bisbe was stricken at 2:30 p.m.—about a half hour before the assembly was to convene. A priest administered last rites of the Roman Catholic Church. Bisbe was pronounced dead before he could be removed to the U.N. Clinic.

Ireland's Frederick H. Boland, assembly president, announced the death to the shocked delegates at 3:29 p.m.

They stood for a minute of silent tribute to Bisbe. Then Boland said that out of sympathy for the Cuban government the assembly would adjourn until 10:30 a.m. today. The blue U.N. banner outside the building was lowered immediately to half staff.

The assembly's Political Committee plans to meet this afternoon. It will choose between taking up immediately Cuba's longstanding charges that the United States is planning a military invasion to topple the Castro regime, and an African-aid program suggested by the United States.

While Bisbe was Cuba's permanent delegate to the United Nations, Roa overshadowed him in pressing Castro's accusations against the United States.

Last week Roa circulated a letter charging the Kennedy administration with intensifying the campaign against Castro.

Guatemala, in a reply yesterday, charged that Castro was making the charges as a pretext for launching a military attack.

Snow, Rain Due

Although today is the second day of spring, snow, sleet and rain are expected in this area.

The precipitation should begin this morning as a mixture of sleet and snow, but will probably change to mostly rain by late afternoon as temperatures rise. A high of 36 is expected this afternoon.

Tomorrow should be partly cloudy and warmer. A high of 52 is likely.

Referred to Committee; Senate to Act in April

By PAT DYER

A bill for the full $23 million requested by the University for the 1961-62 academic year was introduced in the state Senate yesterday by Centre County Sen. Jo Hays.

The bill was immediately referred to the Senate Appropriations committee for legislative processing.

$16 Million Proposed For Building

The University may get financial backing for 16 major construction projects if recommendations presented by Governor David L. Lawrence are passed by the state legislature.

The governor recommended slightly over $16 million for new construction at the University during the next two years in his annual Capital Funds Budget presented to the General Assembly yesterday. The projects will be built under General State Authority financing.

The Capital Funds Budget provides for construction only and is separate from the administration's proposed General Fund Budget which includes a recommendation of $17.1 million for Penn State.

Money for the Capital Funds Budget is raised by authorizing the sale of bonds, while money for the General Fund is raised through taxes.

In addition to the $16 million recommended for Penn State, the governor's budget includes $12.5 million for the University of Pennsylvania; $12.2 million for the University of Pittsburgh, and $10.2 million for Temple.

The $16 million recommended for the University is about one and a half times the $10 million average appropriated in previous years, according to Centre County Senator Jo Hays.

"The recommendation encourages me very much," Hays said last night. He added that it may indicate that the governor regards Penn State as a "going concern" and may indicate sympathy with its financial problems.

5 O'Clock to Stage Play

The 5 O'Clock Theater will present "Holiday Spirit" by Royal Brown today in the Little Theater in the basement of Old Main.

The production will be directed by Michael Goff, sophomore in counseling from Shenandoah, and will star Richard Lewicki, Jay Stewart and Linda Freid.

The play is a modern satire on the old-fashioned Christmas and Easter stories.

Hays said last night that no action can be expected on his bill for about a month. The Senate will recess next week for the Easter holidays and will resume sessions April 4. Even then action may be slow since appropriations bills are traditionally among the last for consideration, he said.

The bill is a response to the University administration's urgent request for increased state appropriations of $23.1 million, the Senate said.

President Eric A. Walker has indicated that tuition will have to be raised if the funds are not forthcoming.

In January Gov. David L. Lawrence recommended a stand-still budget on education pending the final report of his special committee on higher education. He had recommended $17.1 million for Penn State.

Two weeks ago Rep. Dean J. Pollen, chairman of the House appropriations committee, introduced a bill into the state House of Representatives allotting $18.5 million for the University in the next year. This figure is an adjustment of the governor's recommendation for $17.1 million since the original figure was for a 12-month period and this year's budget will cover a 13-month fiscal year.

In a statement presented with his bill, Hays pointed to Penn State's traditional acceptance of about 12 per cent of the Pennsylvania college population. He added that his bill would enable the University to accept about 1100 additional freshmen next year to maintain the 12 per cent ratio.

In evaluating the chances of the bill, Hays said he felt that if the money is available, the legislature will probably pass the bill.

However, he said, this would probably mean a vote for another tax. "I am willing to vote for such a tax if necessary," he said, but added he was doubtful if a majority of the legislators would support him.

Pigossi Elected New IFC President

Richard Pigossi, president-elect of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, was elected president of the Interfraternity Council for the 1961-62 term. The election was held last night at the regular IFC meeting.

Other officers elected were Richard Moyer, Alpha Gamma Rho, vice president; and Eugene Chaiken, Beta Sigma Rho, secretary-treasurer.

The election was conducted by written ballot and a majority vote was required. Gerald Logue, Acacia and Herbert Goldstein, Phi Sigma Delta, were the other candidates running for the presidency. No majority was reached on the first vote. Pigossi was elected after the second ballot.

Moyer defeated Steven Baron, Phi Epsilon Pi, for vice president and Chaiken defeated Thomas Ritenbaugh, Phi Mu Delta, for secretary-treasurer, both on the first ballot.

Installation of the new officers will be held and year-end reports given at the March 27 meeting, according to Ronald Novak, outgoing IFC president.

In other business, the IFC passed its proposed four-term rush program which was discussed and amended at last week's meeting. Novak asked for the question to be brought out of committee, where it had been referred at the end of the last meeting. The question was called for and a vote taken without any further discussion. It was passed by a majority vote.

Ben Bronstein, secretary-treasurer of IFC, reported that yesterday was the final day to register pledges for the spring term. He said 271 pledges were registered by 43 houses. Ten houses have not registered any pledges, he said. If these houses have pledges, action will be taken by the IFC Board of Control for failing to register the pledges before the deadline.
