

SGA Forum Suggested Under New Constitution

A University Forum may be established next year if the revised SGA constitution now under consideration is approved by Assembly.

The Forum, which is listed under the executive branch in the constitution, would be formed "in order to improve communications between the students, faculty and administration."

Participating on the Forum would be the three SGA officers and the presidents of the Inter-college Council Board, AWS, MRC, TIM, Panhel and IFC.

In addition to the student members, the president of the University, the deans of men and women, the assistant to the president for student affairs, the coordinator of student activities, the chairman of the Senate Committee on Student Affairs, the SGA advisors and two faculty members chosen by the Senate would also be members.

The Forum would meet monthly and, according to the constitution, would have "free and open discussion of any problem of concern to the University."

In addition, the new constitution states that Assembly may invite any member of the administration or faculty to appear before it to discuss matters concerning student welfare.

During the past year, Lawrence E. Dennis, vice president for academic affairs, and Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration, appeared before Assembly to explain administrative policies.

Another addition to Assembly's powers under the revised constitution is the establishing of regulations for student conduct. This power, however, would be given with the advice and consent of the University Senate.

Honor Program for Runkle Postponed for Experiment

Runkle Hall will not be an honor dorm next year, rather it will be an experiment in group living open to junior and senior women which may lead to the establishment of an honor system in future years, according to Marion B. Davison, assistant to the Dean of Women.

Previously, Dean Dorothy J. Lipp had announced that she would try out the honor dormitory system using Runkle Hall.

This would have meant that each girl would have her own key to the dorm, there would be no curfew or sign-in and sign-out regulations and there would be no staff member living in the residence hall.

According to the latest plans, there will be four units of 70 women each who will govern themselves, following the rules

Pollock Area Record Hops To Begin Again

The Pollock Area record hops will resume Friday night after being cancelled last week by a vote of the presidents of the three other men's residence hall areas under the authority of the Men's Residence Council.

Raymond O. Murphy, assistant to the dean of men, explained that the council presidents had voted to close the record hop.

It was necessary to call in the executive board after Bruce De-woolfsen, Pollock Council president, objected to the action taken by the dean of men's office in withdrawing approval from the record hop, according to Murphy.

The objection of both the dean of men's office and the executive board was to the give-away prizes, trips to Fort Lauderdale during spring vacation.

Murphy said that the money for the give-aways had come from the allocation each residence area receives. In the case of Pollock's allocation, the entire sum was being used for the give-aways. The council didn't have enough money to continue giving such substantial prizes, Murphy said.

TIM To Ask Change In SGA Constitution

A "watchdog" executive committee composed of Town Independent Men will suggest that the lines reading "the SGA assembly shall be final authority . . . dealing with the welfare of all subordinate groups" found in the proposed Student Government constitution revision be altered or dropped at SGA's meeting tonight.

The motion which was made by Alan Moses, junior in business administration from Gloversville, N.Y., suggested that such a committee have the power to voice any objections to provisions made by SGA which would prove detrimental to TIM. This motion was passed by the TIM council at a meeting held last night.

TIM members felt that such wording leaves the definition of the word welfare entirely up to the executive members of the student government, who have no real knowledge of what is considered to be the welfare of subordinate groups. If the proposed constitution goes into effect TIM will be subordinate to SGA, whereas under the present system, TIM is entirely independent of the student government. It was pointed out that such a plan would prevent TIM from being the independent organization that it now is.

Frank Phanca, vice president, commented that the proposed system would provide a more closely knit body that would work for the betterment of the University.

Further discussion led to no real conclusion as to what policy the council would support.

Soph Heads EE Society

William Sharpley, sophomore in electrical engineering from State College, was recently elected chairman of the Electrical Engineering Society.

Other officers elected are Modesto Martinez, vice chairman; Val Djurdjevic, secretary; and Jerome Concer, treasurer.
