

Governor's Ed Committee Prepares to Give Report

By PAT DYER

The governor's special committee on education will probably be unable to report until about April 1, Senator Jo Hays, D-Centre, said last night.

Previously, Hays had announced a possible date of March 25 (tomorrow) for the committee to report. The findings of this committee may affect the governor's recommendations for state appropriations for the University, since the allotments in his January budget message were tentative, pending the report of this committee.

Hays said a majority report has already been distributed to all 32 members of the special citizens committee. Each member has until today to file a dissenting report.

The majority report is already printed, Hays said, but it can't be released until it is presented to the governor.

If there are no dissenting reports or only a few short ones, Hays said, the final report could be presented in a few days. However, if there is a large amount of dissenting opinion, he added, the report will take longer to complete.

At present, three bills are before the Assembly for appropriations for Penn State. Two were introduced this week by Centre County assemblymen for the full $23.1 million requested by the University.

The third was entered two weeks ago by Rep. Dean J. Pollen, chairman of the House appropriations committee. This bill called for $18.5 million, an adjustment to this year's 13-month fiscal year of the governor's recommendation of $17.1 million. The three bills are now in the Senate or House appropriations committees.

The legislature has taken no final action on any of the governor's education recommendations and the Associated Press reports that rumors running through the Assembly indicate that the legislature may recess until next fall without taking any action on education.

However, Hays said, this would not seem possible for present appropriations run out June 1. "Some appropriations will have to be made to enable educational institutions to operate," he said.

Library To Stay Open Nightly to 11

The Pattee Library will extend its hours to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday for the rest of the semester, Ralph W. McComb, Librarian announced yesterday. The new hours will begin Monday.

The library has previously closed at 10 p.m.

No service will be provided after 10 p.m., but first floor rooms: 103, 104, 105 and 107 will remain open for study purposes.

The extension of hours was made at the suggestion of the SGA Library Committee, which met recently with McComb. Unsatisfactory study conditions in residence halls was one reason for the recommended change, Lois Haegley, committee chairman, said.

Because enough students will profit by this extension of one hour, the Library feels justified in maintaining later hours, McComb said. Since no service will be provided, a minimum of help will be needed.

The library has extended its hours to 11 p.m. during finals in previous semesters, but this will be the first time that it will be open to 11 p.m. during the semester.

Orientation Forms Due Next Week

Applications for both men and women's orientation leaders for the fall semester are available at the Hetzel Union desk and must be returned to the HUB desk before Wednesday.

The deadline for the women's applications is Tuesday but the last day for returning men's forms is Wednesday.

Earl Gershenow and John Witmer, chairmen of the men's orientation programs, said that over 100 men are still needed to counsel freshman men next fall.

The requirements for the men orientation leaders is second to seventh semester standing and an all-University average of a 2.2 or better. A knowledge of student affairs would be helpful for the leaders, Gershenow said.

The men's leaders will work with the freshmen as counselors during orientation week and will attend the faculty lectures, president's convocation and other events scheduled for freshman orientation week.

French Horn Soloist

Philip Farkas, French horn artist, will be guest soloist at the concert to be presented 3 p.m. Sunday in Schwab by the Concert Blue Band.

Farkas, a member of the Chicago Symphony Woodwind Quintet, will also conduct a clinic on French horn at 2 p.m. tomorrow in 117 Carnegie. It is open to the public.

Spanish Soprano To Present Classics

Victoria de los Angeles, Spanish soprano praised by opera-goers all over the world, will present a program of works by Handel, Schubert and Brahms at 8:30 tonight in Schwab.

Tickets are still available for the performance at the Hetzel Union desk.

In Barcelona, her native city, Miss De los Angeles is associated with the story of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

This association began when Miss De los Angeles graduated from the Conservatory of Barcelona. At that time a group of amateur musicologists called "Ars Musica" or "The Seven Dwarfs" came to hear Miss De los Angeles in a graduation recital at the conservatory.

The Seven Dwarfs were known to search for ancient Spanish music and attempt to revive it. They became well-known in Spain since they traveled throughout the country giving concerts in their spare time.

The Seven Dwarfs were so impressed by Miss De los Angeles' concert that they decided to give her a three-year scholarship to pay for her living expenses, lessons, music and concert attire.

"With their help I didn't have to work my way up singing in small theaters. They gave me several years' start in my own country," said Miss De los Angeles.

The Seven Dwarfs followed her wherever she went to perform and when Miss De los Angeles returned to Barcelona recently, they held a celebration and officially crowned her their "Snow White."

Miss De los Angeles returned to the U.S. in January from a tour of Europe where the Paris Opera presented a new production of "Traviata" for her and the Royal Opera, Covent Garden in London staged "Manon."

During the summer she sang in such major festivals as Granada and Montreux and continued her series of recordings with stereo versions of "Faust" and "Madame Butterfly," "Carmen" and "La Traviata."

Miss De los Angeles was brought to the U.S. by Impresario Hurok and made her debut in Carnegie Hall ten years ago. That concert was so successful that it resulted in scheduling of two extra sold-out performances in the next six months.

Campus Hits Cabinet Proposal

By LYNNE CEREFICE

Campus party has announced that it will accuse the SGA Reorganization Committee of deception "because it is proposing to change Cabinet into a super-legislative body."

Dennis Eisman, acting chairman of Campus party, said that the power allotted Cabinet under the proposed constitution, would turn the Assembly into a mere rubber stamp with the sole function of approving or rejecting legislation.

According to Article III, Section 6a, of the proposed constitution, Cabinet would be composed of the presidents of Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic Council, Town Independent Men, the Association of Women Students and the Men's Residence Council as well as the presidents of the various student councils and the senior class president.

In Section 9a of the same article, the Cabinet is given the power "to (1) advise the President on any matter, (2) to investigate and report on any problem, and (3) to introduce legislation as a body to the Assembly by a majority vote."

The section further states that "such legislation shall be the first order of new business on the Assembly agenda and shall be introduced by the SGA President or a member of Cabinet, who shall be able to debate the issue."

Eisman explained that, according to this provision, Cabinet would become a super-legislative body in that it could write, introduce and debate its own legislation.

"This would also reduce the assembly to a 'yes and no' body," he said. It's only function, he said, would be to approve or reject the already investigated and debated proposals of Cabinet.

In addition, he said that the President's veto power would be in name only since the Cabinet, which is supposed to advise him, would have the power to introduce objections over his veto.

Therefore, Eisman said, the Cabinet, instead of being an advisory body would be a legislative body taking the power away from the president.

"A real advisory body doesn't supersede the man it advises and this is the implication of the proposed SGA re-organization," Eisman said.

THE QUEENS OF HISTORY WOULD ENVY SUSAN SMITH

You know Susan Smith! She represents every modern housewife in America.

No queen in the past ever had such a wonderful servant as the electricity she uses in her home every day.

Chances are it comes from an independent electric company like the one that serves you. Most of the nation's electric power does.

Today, the more than 300 independent companies are building new plants and lines for the new homes, new jobs, new industries and increased strength America will have in the future. These companies are ready and able to supply all the additional electric power America will need.
