 er to control all operations of the book exchanges, which, he said, includes promotions of staff members.

Abrams also said that the BX was established in 1949, and revised in 1955, and has actually existed six years longer than the years for which Gregg gave statistics.

Robert Umstead, advertising manager, said that the concentration of members from the three houses is caused by the fact that there are few male candidates for BX who are not from these houses. "The announcements for BX candidates are publicized and anyone is free to try out," he said, "but as an example, this year there are only three male candidates who are not members of these fraternities."
