

Hays Proposes Group To Handle Ed Report

By PAT DYER

A resolution to form a special committee to handle the governor's education committee report has been referred to the state Senate Rules Committee, Senator Jo Hays, D-Centre, said last night.

Early this week Hays co-sponsored the resolution to form

University Originates Radio Show

A weekly radio series, originated by the University, is being broadcast concurrently by 15 radio stations throughout the state.

The half-hour programs, which are designed to furnish an insight into some of the nation's major problems and developments, are being produced by Gilbert Aberg, radio and television specialist. Tapes are furnished weekly to the stations by the Department of Public Information.

Automation, radiation, modern jazz, automotive safety, reading, and American youth are among the topics already explored in the 13-week series.

"This is no ordinary series," James H. Coogan, director of public information said. "Before it was released, the pilot tape was presented to each station for suggestions. From that we proceeded to explore other topics of timely interest."

Radio stations in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Wilkes-Barre, Altoona, York, Lewistown and State College are among those currently aligned with the network.

Women's Chorus To Give Concert

The Women's Chorus, under the direction of Dr. W. Paul Campbell, associate professor of music education, will present its annual Spring Concert at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab.

The program will include selections varying from "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," a pre-classical selection by Johann Sebastian Bach, to the show tune, "A Wonderful Guy" from South Pacific by Rodgers and Hammerstein.

Bette Kulig, senior in music education from West Hazleton, will sing the solo part in "Serenade" by Franz Schubert. Another German number will be "Cradle Song of the Virgin," Opus 91, No. 2, by Johannes Brahms.

Contralto soloist, Dorothy Miller, freshman in liberal arts from Winston Salem, N.C., will present the spiritual, "Jesus Walked This Lonesome Valley." She will be accompanied by Sally Llewellyn, junior in education from Taylor.

Janmarette Cipyak, freshman in education from Lansford, will be the soprano soloist in "There Is a Balm in Gilead," a modern spiritual.

Carol Rights, sophomore in applied arts from Abington, will be the soprano soloist in "The Nightingale," by Tchaikovsky.

Other numbers on the program include "O Sing Your Songs," by Noble Cain; the madrigal, "My Bonnie Lass She Smileth"; and "Were My Songs With Wings Provided" by Victor Hugo and Reynaldo Hahn.

Volunteers May Delay Draft Duty

Peace Corps volunteers can be deferred from military service under the present laws, according to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service.

In an editorial in the Selective Service Bulletin, Hershey said that under the present Universal Military Training and Service Act, men who register for the draft may qualify for deferment if engaged in activities in the "national health, safety or interest."

Hershey said that the Selective Service classification of men of draft age who become members of the Peace Corps can be handled in the same way as any other men deferred for participation in such activities.

Volunteers could also qualify for further draft deferment when they return, Hershey said, listing such factors as age, physical condition and marital status as important in consideration of deferment.

Hershey said that "whether or not the registrant on his return from service with the Peace Corps, engages in an activity which permits him to be deferred in the national health, safety or interest," would also be considered in determining his draft classification at that time.

"The fact that the registrant has been a member of the Peace Corps will not prevent him from qualifying for further deferment, the same as any other registrant who is engaged in this type of activity," he said.

Applications for Peace Corps volunteers are now available in the dean of men and dean of women's offices. It is expected that between 500 and 1,000 volunteers will be sent abroad in the fall in the initial Peace Corps projects.

Segovia Enchants Schwab Audiences

By BARB BROWN

"I am my pupil and my teacher, and we get along very well together," said Andres Segovia after his Thursday night concert sponsored by the University Artist Series.

Segovia, world-renown Spanish guitarist, said that when he decided to make the guitar his career, he was determined to give it an as-of-yet-unknown place on the concert stage. For this reason and the lack of a capable instructor, he became his own teacher.

Segovia came to the University on an annual tour, marking the 52nd anniversary of his first public appearance at 14 years of age. He is nearing the end of this tour of the United States and Canada. He will go to Boston from here and then to New York.

Segovia performed before a capacity house both last night and Thursday night in Schwab. His audience expressed its enjoyment of the performance by insisting on numerous encores.

"I have had two or three hundred pieces composed through me for the guitar," said Segovia. Some of the composers who have dedicated works to him are Castelnuova-Tedesco, Casella, Tansman, Roussel, Ibert and Terreba.

His program contained works of Milan, de Visee, Sor, Bach, Hayden, Mendelssohn and Albeniz. He has three or four programs planned for his tours. The one given at Schwab was one "planned for a big city," he said.

When asked to comment on his audience, Segovia said, "my audience was very nice and very sensible."

As a child Segovia played the violin, piano and cello. "I chose the guitar to become my career because it pleased me very much," he said.

That his determination to make the guitar a concert instrument proved successful is evidenced by the many tours and the great responses he has received throughout the world.

Fraternities to Request Special Permissions

Fraternities must file a written activity form at the dean of men's office if women students are to be permitted in the houses to work on Spring Week projects.

These forms, which must be filed by Tuesday, will permit women in the houses until 10 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday.

an eight man committee to work on the report. No action on this resolution was taken by the rules committee during this week's session.

If the resolution is passed, the new committee would start work immediately, on the recommendations to improve Pennsylvania's educational system made in the report, Hays said.

At the present time, no bills have been introduced in the legislature to carry out the report's recommendations.

If the Hays resolution is not passed, any proposals to implement the education report would go through the regular legislative process and would be referred to the standing Education Committee.

Hays said that if the resolution is defeated "as chairman of the Education Committee, it would be my intention to work on the recommendations as soon as possible."

Governor David D. Lawrence has indicated that he does not plan to change his budget recommendations on education. He has said he supports the education committee's recommendations, but asked the legislature to "clear up pending legislation" and then act on the report.

"Pending legislation now includes a House bill for the $18.5 million Lawrence recommended for Penn State. Two other bills calling for the full $23.1 million requested by the University are also in appropriations committees.

Hays said that if the legislature should adjourn before acting on the education report, "I suppose the Pollen bill ($18.5 million for Penn State) would be passed."

The Centre County senator said that at the present time the only major controversial issue before the Senate is reapportionment.
