

Alexander, Foianini Rally Against ROTC

By ROCHELLE MICHAELS

Two candidates for student body president began vigorous campaigning today for abolition of compulsory ROTC.

Dennis Foianini, Campus party, and Duane Alexander, Independent, both sponsored groups of sign-waving students in front of Wagner.

Foianini's signs read "Tired of R.O.T.C.? Vote Campus for Action!" Alexander's platform calls for student action on the Air Force scholarship bill now before Congress which would make ROTC completely voluntary by September 1963.

Foianini, who remained at the site of demonstration in order to personally present his views to passers-by, stated "College students should not be indoctrinated here at school."

He had petitions available for signature which called for the University to put ROTC on a voluntary basis. Foianini said that he "plans to present the signed petitions to the University Senate for immediate action."

"This is how I intend to act if I am elected student body president," Foianini stated. "I will take a definite stand on all issues and appeal directly to the students," he added.

When Alexander was asked why he did not use an action similar to Foianini's petition, he stated that he did not believe it was necessary at this time.

"Since the Air Force is making this proposal, I think the University will put off any action at the present time," Alexander said last night.

"Our chances look good — especially if students support the plan in the ways I have proposed in my platform," he continued.

Alexander's proposals include a "massive letter campaign to Congress in support of the (Air Force scholarship) bill" and a trip to be taken by himself to Washington as a student representative "to speak to our Congressmen and secure their votes for the bill."

JR's to Be Orientation Counselors

Both junior residents and specially-selected orientation leaders will serve as guides to freshmen women during Orientation Week next September, according to Mrs. Nancy M. Vanderpool, assistant to the dean of women.

It was the decision of the dean of women, Dorothy J. Lipp, to use junior residents as counselors for freshmen, Mrs. Vanderpool said. Formerly members of women's hat societies and specially selected counselors have done this, she said.

Junior residents will instruct freshman women about AWS residence hall regulations and life within the dorms.

The orientation leaders, selected because of outstanding scholarship and participation in activities, will talk with freshmen concerning University traditions, campus activities and scholarship.

Mrs. Vanderpool said that the new program will provide more continuity throughout the year, since junior residents will be living on the same floor as their counselees and will have continuous contact with them throughout the year.

Throughout the year, junior residents will meet with their groups for further discussion and counseling on aspects of campus life stressed during Orientation Week, she said.

In addition, orientation leaders may also meet with their counselees throughout the semester, Mary Sue Hersey, women's orientation co-chairman, said last night.

The number of orientation leaders who will participate in the program has not yet been determined, Mrs. Vanderpool said.

Carnival Committee Announces Construction, Clean-up Rules

Regulations concerning the Spring Week Carnival on Saturday were announced this week by Gene Chaiken and Skip Berents, co-chairmen of the carnival committee.

Booth construction may not start before noon Saturday. All vehicles must be off the field by 4 p.m. and may not return until cleanup at midnight.

At 6:30 p.m. all booths will be checked for fire extinguishers which are listed in the Spring Week rules as necessary equipment.

At 7 p.m. members of the committee will check the booths for other items mentioned in the rules such as good taste of dances and skits. Any violation of the regulations will result in disqualification and closing of the booth involved.

All areas must be cleared by 1 a.m. and groups should begin cleaning up at midnight. All material must be taken away and lime should be placed around all holes made by equipment.

Each booth must be checked out by a committee member so that the group can receive its $25 deposit.

Groups who have trouble getting equipment over the curb at North Atherton Street may use the dirt road by the railroad tracks which curves along behind Food Service.

There will be a central area where groups may dump their garbage after the carnival. The groups will be notified Saturday night of the exact location.

All tickets should be collected in a suitable container and arranged in stacks of ten. Each group should bring its tickets to 203 Hetzel Union at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Lipp Recommends Vacation Rushing For Sororities

By JOAN MEHAN

A concentration of the rushing program at the end of the fall term will be in the best interest of the sorority system's long range development, according to Dorothy J. Lipp, dean of women.

Speaking informally before the Panhellenic Council Tuesday night Dean Lipp said that rushing when the University is not in session would eliminate the "free for the ride type of rushee who is rushing just for the experience."

The council is considering three rush code proposals. Two of the proposals call for concentrating rush at the end of the fall term when classes are not in session. The third proposal calls for the rushing program to be concentrated at the beginning of the winter term.

Dean Lipp said that the advantages of holding rush when classes are not in session are that rushing costs would be lowered, the period would be shortened, and it would not take time away from studying.

She recommended that the council try to "figure out ways to overcome the disadvantages in the proposal and not to look for flaws."

Some of the objections council members had to this proposal were that sorority women and rushees would have to pay additional room and board costs for the extra time on campus and would probably have to use public transportation to get home for vacation.
