

STEEL BEAMS are being unloaded for the three Horticulture Buildings being constructed between Tyson and the agriculture experimental station. The construction of the green house and the two work buildings is part of the long term University expansion program. The buildings are not scheduled to be completed until late next fall term.

Expansion to Give Campus 'New Look'

The University will have a new look for the next several years, as planned buildings and additions take shape all over the campus.

The next project to be completed will be the new East Dormitories located on the north side of Curtin Road opposite the Wagner Building. There are three six-story buildings and a four-story dormitory located in the living area. The dining hall will be two stories high.

The design for East Halls is basically the same as the Pollock Residence Halls except for furniture arrangement. Walter H. Wiegand, director of physical plant, said.

He said that the halls will be opened to 1050 students next fall.

By June 1 the interior will be completed, he said, and by July 1 the exterior should be finished.

Wiegand said that the University is presently expanding facilities for study in the arts and humanities. This project will include converting Carnegie Building into a journalism and "The facilities here at the University are much better and the people we might need to talk to as Encampment progresses will be nearby," he said.

Haber had appointed Robert Fry, TIM president, to Encampment chairman and John Witmer, U-Jr., as business manager after giving Foianini a three-hour notice of his intentions.

The Assembly protested this action and gave Foianini 24 hours to name his choices and present them for approval.

Foianini also commented last night on a resolution presented to the Assembly Thursday night by Duane Alexander. The resolution proposed that $27,145.19 in old Class Gift Funds be used to build a beach at the Stone Valley Recreation Area.

"I favor using the funds to build up our library. There are several other recreation areas near the University which can be used for the time being and our library definitely needs money," Foianini said.

Women's Week Called Success By Ruth Rilling

The first Women's Week was termed a success yesterday by AWS president, Ruth Rilling.

Women's Week, which ended Sunday, was designed to acquaint coeds with the expanding role of women's student government.

Women's Week will be an annual event, Miss Rilling said, but added that next year's program will be slightly different.

The program will probably be held in the winter, instead of the spring term, she said. Many women simply didn't have the extra time to attend Women's Week events because of spring activities and the approach of finals, she added.

The attendance at various discussions and lectures during the week was small, "but very worthwhile for those who attended," Miss Rilling said.

The week began with lectures sponsored by the community councils Monday through Thursday, a dress-up dinner and a bridge tournament Tuesday.

The new AWS officers were installed at a banquet Friday night. The banquet was highlighted by a speech on the Peace Corps presented by Sally Bowles, a member of the Corps executive staff.

Sunday, the community councils sponsored teas and receptions in the various residence areas for Mother's Day. A student art exhibit in the Pollock area ran from Thursday through Sunday.

broadcasting building, enclosing the Ice Rink, converting the Stock Judging Pavillion into a theatre, and constructing three buildings in Hort Woods, he said.

These three buildings will include one for the Music Department, one for a theatre and a large classroom structure, Wiegand said.

Wiegand said that a new education building is being constructed on the Old Beaver Field. Half of the building will be used for elementary education and the other half for secondary education, he added.

The additions to Electrical Engineering Building and to Recreation Hall are still in the planning stage, but they will be constructed in the next several years. Also being planned are an addition to the Atomic Reactor Building and two new accelerator buildings.

Three buildings for the Horticulture Department are being constructed behind Tyson Building, Wiegand said. He added that one will be another green house and the others will be work buildings.

June Grads to Get Higher Starting Pay

June graduates will draw starting salaries three to five per cent higher than graduates of a year ago, George N. P. Leetch, director of placement, estimated this week.

Leetch said that the Class of 1961 will add an estimated $300 million to the state and national economy. A college degree adds an average of $100 thousand to the lifetime earning capacity of the individual, he said.

"By and large seniors were able to choose between two or more job offers," Leetch said. The highest salaries, six hundred dollars and more a month, went to engineers and other technically-trained people, he said.

There were many opportunities in retail sales, insurance, management and training," Leetch said, "and some recruiters went away empty-handed only because supply was unable to keep up with demand."

Leetch said that almost 400 recruiters interviewed an average of one thousand students a week over a ten-week period and that business and industry were still pursuing the more outstanding graduates in early May.

"The relatively new field of data processing was especially active this year," Leetch said. He estimated that the opportunities for women in this field were just as plentiful as they were for men. He said that a technical background was not considered essential for this field.

Raymond H. Amalong, in charge of teacher placement, said that there were plenty of jobs for seniors in education.

"No senior who wants to teach needs to be without a job," he said. "However, some hold back because they don't want to go where the need is greatest or because they are looking for better compensation," he said.

IFC-TIM to Play Donkey Baseball 'Grudge Match'

Donkeys, fraternity men and Town Independent Men will fight out the "grudge match of the year" Friday night when the Inter-fraternity Council meets the Town Independent Men in a donkey baseball game.

The game will start at 6:30 p.m. on the State College Community Field between Prospect and Atherton St. In case of rain the game will be played at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Donkey baseball is a 7-inning contest like all other baseball games except that participants will ride donkeys in the outfield and around the bases.

IFC's hardhitting team will consist of such well-known stars on the diamond as Dick Haber, Chet Lucido, Hank Oppermann, Benny Bronstein, Rich Pigossi, Ron Novak, Larry Abrams, Jim Ettelson, Don Claggett, Gary Robinson and Bob Umpstead.

TIM's starting lineup of pros will include George Reece, Phil Haines, Lloyd Bobb, Frank Burkett, Frank Albertini, Dick Ashe, Bob Fry, Fred Phance, Leo Miluszusky, Barry Rein and Earl Ger-shenow.

According to the rules of the contest, the team in the field will use donkeys at all times, except for the pitcher and catcher. A baserunner will be called out if he falls off his donkey three times, or loses his mount while rounding the bases.

The highlight of the night will be the "Lady Godiva" race, the details of which are a secret closely guarded by TIM members.

TIM will sponsor free buses which will go around campus Friday evening to take spectators to the site of the contest.
