

Ten Profs Chosen In Primary Election

Ten professors and former professors at the University were elected to run for various borough and county offices in the primary election yesterday.

Guy G. Mills, incumbent justice of the peace and commandant of ROTC at the University from 1941 to 1946, more than doubled the number of votes captured by his rival for the Republican nomination.

Poet Gives Reading Of Works

By DIANN RABE

Advice to young writers was given last night by British poet Robert Graves as he presented selected readings from his poems last night in Schwab.

"You know what truth is and what to say in your own, bold, unmarketable way," he said in one of his poems, "Burn, It."

Commenting on the plight of the poet, Graves said "I write poems and I've been writing prose to keep alive. It's like breeding dogs to keep cats."

Poems on love, children and death were read by the poet. Included were "Nobody," "Never Such Love," "My Name and I" and "With Her Lips Only."

Many of Graves poems were written in a humorous vein with touches of irony.

Asked why he selected certain poems for the reading, Graves said, "Perhaps it was instinct. I wanted to choose poems that would not be too hard for the audience to understand."

"The audience was extraordinarily good and quiet. It was easy for me to read," the poet said.

Graves' reading was sponsored by the English Department, Dean Euwema's Office and the assistant dean of research.

Prof Accepts EE Post

Dr. Ralph E. Armington has resigned as associate professor of electrical engineering to accept a position as professor and head of the Department of Electrical Engineering at the University of Maine.

In the county-wide primary for district attorney nomination, Tom Irvin Gill, instructor of business administration, ran unopposed on the Democratic ticket.

Both the Democratic and Republican nominees for Burgess of State College are retired professors. Ray D. Anthony, the incumbent running on the Republican ticket served as professor of pomology at the University. His Democratic opponent, Chauncey P. Lang, was a professor of agricultural extension, retired in 1959.

Lawrence J. Perez, assistant dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture, is again a Republican nominee for borough councilman. Perez is now president of the council.

Another professor, Wallis Al Lloyd, assistant professor of chemical engineering, will oppose him on the Democratic ticket for councilman.

Both Democratic nominees for school director are University professors — Lynn Christy, associate professor of English composition, and Richard E. Bland, assistant professor of engineering research.

Democratic nominee for borough auditor is also a professor, R. Hadley Waters, professor of transportation.

An estimated 43 per cent of registered voters turned out to select their nominees for the general elections in November. Unofficial returns showed that approximately 46 per cent of registered Republican voters turned out as compared to 37 per cent of the Democrats.

In State College, voting was light, but victories were wide in the disputed contests — tax collector and justice of the peace.

Jazz Concert Will Be Held Tonight at 7

"Jazz Under the Stars," a jazz show featuring the Kenny Kuhn Swingtét and campus singer, Freida Lee, will be presented tonight on the Hetzel Union terrace. The program is being presented as part of the Jazz Club's week long series of entertainment "to give non-jazz fans a chance to hear more jazz and to give jazz fans more to listen to" Alan Pollon, president of the jazz club, said.

The Jazz Week series will also feature a half-hour television show designed to furnish insight into the history and development of modern jazz, Pollon said. The show will be televised at 9 p.m. tomorrow by Channel 10, Altoona.

The jazz entertainers scheduled to appear on the program are the Don Krebs and Ken Kuhn combos and Freida Lee. Narrator for the television presentation will be Judson Sanderson, Jr., graduate student in theater arts from Lehigh.

Pollon will also appear on the telecast along with the club's adviser, Robert Napier. The program is being presented jointly by the Jazz Club and the Department of Public Information.

Gilbert S. Aberg, radio-television specialist of the Department of Public Information, wrote the program.

Orchestra, Choir To Give Concert

The University Chapel Choir and Symphony Orchestra will present their annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in Schwab.

Complimentary tickets are now available at the Hetzel Union desk, Mrs. Willa Taylor, director of the choir, said. The tickets will assure a reserved seat until 10 minutes before the performance. Non-ticket holders may obtain seats at 7:50 p.m., she said.

The combined program includes works by Bach, Gibbons, Handel, Schuman, Barber, Creston, Brahms and Kodaly.

Professional soloists for the concert are Martha Morris, soprano; Sonja Brown, contralto; Peter LaMann, tenor; and Raymond Brown, baritone.

Rain Expected Tonight; Cool Weather to Remain

After several days of rather pleasant weather, dismal conditions are expected in Central Pennsylvania.

A storm system moving towards the Commonwealth from the mid-west is expected to bring rain to this area late today and tonight.

Today should be mostly cloudy and a high of 60 is expected. A low of 52 degrees is forecast for tonight.
