

Foianini to Present Encampment Veto To SGA Assembly

By ANN PALMER

SGA President Dennis Foianini will formally veto Thursday the Assembly's decision to hold Encampment at the Mt. Alto campus.

Foianini announced his intention to veto the decision Friday after the Assembly voted down his recommendation to hold Encampment at the University Park campus.

Assembly to Meet Twice This Week On Constitution

By SANDY YAGGI

The two sessions of the SGA Assembly this week will culminate more than a month's work in the attempt to establish a new constitution for the Student Government Association.

At a special meeting of the Assembly called by SGA President Dennis Foianini for 7 tonight in 203 Hetzel Union Building, the Assembly will continue its appraisal of the final draft of the proposed constitution submitted by the Reorganization Committee.

The SGA Assembly last week began its work of approving the final constitution draft, taking a section at a time. This procedure will be continued at tonight's meeting, Foianini said.

The work that is not completed on the constitution tonight will be continued at the regular Assembly meeting 7:30 Thursday night, Foianini said.

"It is important to finish the constitution this year," Foianini said, "as I feel it will be detrimental to return next fall to the same old things."

Early last month the SGA Assembly temporarily adjourned itself to form a "committee of the whole" to discuss revisions for a new SGA Constitution. Sub-committees were established and open meetings and hearings were held by the committees. Debate on the final draft presented to the Assembly on May 11 was delayed for two meetings because the Assembly did not have a quorum. Discussion of the constitution began at the Assembly meeting last week.

Nancy Williams is scheduled to report to Assembly on work she has done on Encampment and workshop plans.

Nancy Williams, Encampment chairman, supported Foianini's recommendation stating that cost would be reduced if it were held at University Park due to the lower cost of food provided in the residence halls.

She also pointed out that transportation and general facilities at the University are better than at Mt. Alto.

"By holding Encampment at the University, we would give the general impression of more work and less play," Foianini said.

John Witmer, U-Jr., and a strong advocate of holding Encampment at Mt. Alto, said last night that he feels that Foianini's action was wrong.

"I think it was clearly shown by the Assembly's action how those who have attended Encampment before feel about the matter," he said.

Foianini expressed doubt that the Assembly would override his veto of their decision.

Miss Williams announced six workshops last night.

They are Evaluation of SGA, On-Campus Problems, Off-Campus Problems, Social and Academic Organizations Under the Four-Term Plan, Public Relations, Rules Regulations and Student Welfare.

"There will be no appointed positions to Encampment as such," Miss Williams said, "but certain persons will receive invitations to attend Encampment."

Foianini does not plan to discuss either Encampment or his veto at the reorganization meeting tonight, but feels that both matters should be held until Thursday's meeting.

Encampment Applications

Applications for any one wishing to participate in Student Encampment next fall are available at the Hetzel Union desk, Nancy Williams, Encampment chairman said. Interviews for applicants will begin Wednesday, she said.

Today's edition of The Daily Collegian will be the last of the semester. The first edition of The Summer Collegian will be published Tuesday, June 13.

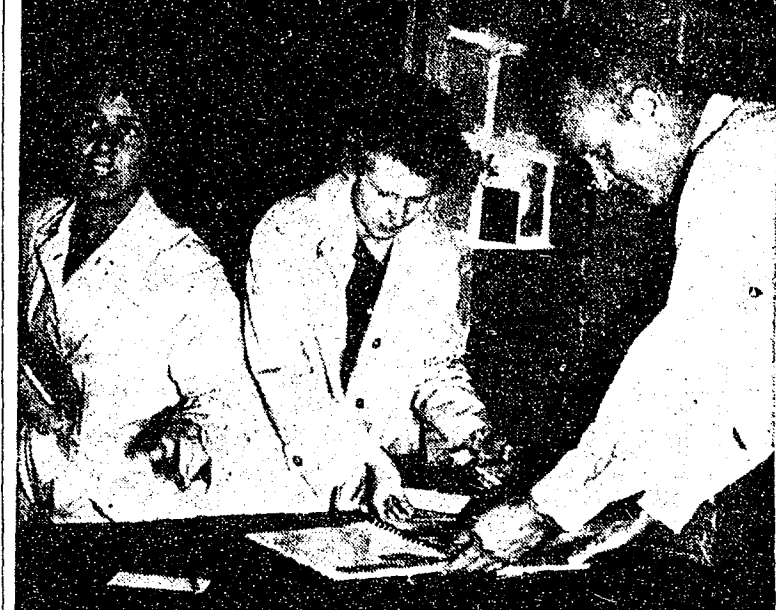

Senate Approves Library Aid Bill

By CAROL KUNKLEMAN

The state Senate yesterday passed a multi-million dollar bill establishing a state-aided library system in Pennsylvania.

The bill, which was passed without debate, will now be sent to the House for approval on Senate amendments, Sen. Jo Hays, D-Centre, said last night.

"We have made only minor changes in the bill and it should have no trouble passing the House," Hays said.

LA VIE PLEASE was the byword yesterday when Sandra Girvin, senior in elementary-kindergarten education from Springfield, and Alberta Zilinski, senior in secondary education from Boyertown, picked up their copies during the first day of distribution in the HUB cardroom.

Senate legislators agreed to pass the bill before recessing for primary elections last week. Hays said, which accounts for the Senate's 35-15 approval.

The statewide program will cost the state approximately $500,000 next year but nearly $6 million yearly when in full operation, Hays said.

Under the bill, four regional research library centers will be set up, he said. They will be located in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Harrisburg and University Park at Pattee Library.

Ralph W. McComb, University librarian, said last week that if the bill passed Pattee could eventually receive a $100,000 annual addition to its budget.

Of the $500,000 to be used next year in establishing the statewide system, Hays said Pattee will receive only a "partial amount" and the rest will be distributed throughout the state to other centers and district libraries.

Commenting on the bill's approval, McComb said last night the bill is a "fine thing" because it provides for real development of libraries on a statewide basis.

Now we'll have a chance to catch up to other states such as New York which are ahead of us in establishing good reference centers, he said.

Pattee library will service libraries in this district, one of the 30 to be established under the bill, by exchanging reference materials and loaning books not available because of lack of funds and facilities, McComb said.

In passing the bill, the Senate did not determine the district boundaries, Hays said. They will be determined when the House approves the bill and the program can be more definitely planned, he said.

Last week the University librarian said passage of the bill will mean indirect benefits to students because Pattee will have to enlarge its own staff and facilities to provide service to the district.

Seniors to Get Instructions Next Week for Graduation

An estimated 2,860 candidates will receive degrees at commencement exercises beginning at 10:30 a.m., June 10 in Beaver Stadium.

Approximately 443 will receive associate degrees, 1,941 baccalaureate degrees and 476 advanced degrees. Last year a total of 2,692 degrees were conferred.

In the event of rain, the graduation exercises will be held in Recreation Hall. Times for candidates receiving degrees will be staggered according to colleges.

Students in the Colleges of Engineering and Architecture and Mineral Industries and those eligible for associate degrees will attend exercises beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Agriculture, education, home economics and physical education and athletics students will graduate at 1:30 p.m. Students in business administration, chemistry and physics and liberal arts will receive their degrees at 3:30 p.m.

Approximately 145 seniors who are to be commissioned in the Armed Forces will receive their commissions at a program at 9 a.m., June 10 in Schwab.

If commencement is held in Recreation Hall, seniors will be given three tickets for guests when they receive their caps and gowns. Beginning next week, seniors can pick up commencement instructions at the offices of the deans of their colleges.

Trustees to Hear Bookstore Report

President Eric A. Walker will report to the June meeting of the Board of Trustees the findings of the SGA Bookstore Committee on the need for a University-supported bookstore.

The announcement was made last night by Phil Steinhauer, chairman of the SGA Bookstore Committee.

Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration will report to the board in either July or August on the financial aspects of the committee's recommendations to solve the bookstore problem.

Steinhauer said that his committee will recommend three alternative solutions for the problem of obtaining textbooks which was shown to exist by a recent survey involving 792 students.

The first recommendation made to the board will be that a bookstore be established — owned and operated by the University.

A second alternative will advocate the formation of a coordinating committee composed of downtown bookstore managers and University administrators and students.

This committee would coordinate University and commercial efforts in the ordering and supplying of textbooks for students.

A third recommendation made by the committee is to invite another commercial bookstore to operate in the State College area to alleviate the problem of overcrowded store conditions.

The committee will present Walker with a summary of all findings made concerning a bookstore.

Background material supplied by the committee for Walker's report will include a summary of the results of the recent student survey, an historical background of previous bookstore attempts and a review of data received from other schools which already maintain their own bookstores.

Walker Sends Letters to Legislators

President Eric A. Walker yesterday asked Gov. David L. Lawrence and leaders in the Senate and House to "provide the leadership necessary to gain approval of Penn State's full appropriation request for 1961."

In identical letters to the legislators, Walker said "The next move is up to you." With the help of the requested $23 million budget, he said, recommendations from the Governor's Committee on Education can be carried out by him at the University.

Walker listed five ways he can carry out the recommendations:

- Raise the salaries of the faculty to "near" competitive levels.
- Keep tuition fees within "financial reach" of Pennsylvania students.

• Admit 6,000 of the 27,000 freshmen who have applied to the University.

• Get back on the long range schedule to educate 35,000 students a year by 1970.

• Reinforce national academic prestige of the University and initiate $1 million in new research projects.

Besides citing the recommendations of the Governor's committee in his letter, Walker listed the facts it reported. He said he did not see how the facts and need for action could be stated more clearly than had been done by the committee.

"Time is running out," he said, "while Pennsylvania's youth are leaving the state and Pennsylvania's opportunity to regain first rank among the United States is being lost through sheer inertia."

Walker said that in the five years he has been president of the University, faculty and staff have worked hard to make inadequate budgets cover major demands for instruction and research.

"Many of the students could not survive another fee increase at this time," he said.

Students and their parents have shouldered a 37 per cent increase in fees that have placed Penn State's tuition charges at the top of the list of the 67 land-grant colleges, Walker said.

In the last five years, he said, enrollment has increased by 4,700 students.

"Will you provide the leadership necessary to gain approval of Penn State's full appropriation request for 1961 in time for it to be used in 1961?" Walker asked in his letter.

Also attached to the letter was a copy of the appropriation bill, number HR 773, now in the House.
