Counselors to Pay Part Of Orientation Expenses

Orientation counselors have been requested to pay for their board during the four-day orientation program this fall, Dean of Women Dorothy J. Lipp, said last night.

"There is just not money enough in the orientation budget to pay for the food and housing of the 195 women who will assist with the program," she said.

THE FOOD AND HOUSING committee agreed to provide the housing for the counselors and leaders but the money was not available for board, she said.

"The women are needed to help with the expanding program this year," she said, "and we hope the women will get enough personally from the program to make worthwhile, the money to be spent (estimated at $10)." Dean Lipp said.

THE JUNIOR RESIDENCE counselors will be the most continuous link with the women during the year and so it was decided to include them in the orientation program. They will greet the women assigned to their floor when they arrive Sunday, Sept. 17.

The orientation leaders will act as "specialists" in telling the women about activities and regulations and serving as guides on campus.

Construction Nears End

By DICK O'BRIEN

Construction of new buildings and facilities at the University continues with several projects scheduled for completion this fall.

Work on the East Residence Halls has been completed and personnel are preparing the buildings for occupancy in September. John Fishburn, head of the operations division of the department of housing and food service, said yesterday.

ON GENERAL STATE Authority projects now underway at the University, Walter H. Wiegand, director of physical plant planning and construction, reports that all of the structure for the east and west units of the classroom wing of the Education have been completed and the structure for the administration wing has been started. The project should be completed by June 1, 1962, he said.

Exterior building work is nearly completed on the Horticulture Research Buildings on the campus while exterior masonry walls have been completed on the unit on the Horticulture Research Farm near Pine Grove Mills.

Footings and foundation walls are in place and masonry work should soon be started on the addition to the Mineral Sciences Building.

ON EXPANSION AND revision of utilities, which includes the installation of a new boiler and auxiliaries at the Power Plant, work is progressing on schedule and should be completed prior to the beginning of the heating season in the fall.

Masonry work is underway on the addition to Borland Laboratory which will provide a milk unloading area, while a hay drying barn has been completed and construction of a heifer barn is expected to be completed this month.
