

Weather Forecast:
Heavy Rain,
Windy, Cool

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

A Real
Service
--See Page 4

VOL. 62, No. 2

STATE COLLEGE, PA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 20, 1961

FIVE CENTS

UN Plans Interim Authority

Registration Changes Set In 4-Terms

By KAREN HYNCKEAL
Personnel Director

Students returning to campus this week and preparing to embark on the new four-term plan will have their first taste of change when they register.

First of all, students must present two Number Two cards instead of one in order to be admitted to Recreation Hall today, tomorrow and Friday.

One card must contain the student's schedule for the fall term and the other, his schedule for the winter term.

The latter will be handed in before the student reaches the main floor to register for the fall courses.

The winter term schedules will then be turned over to the staff in the Registrar's office and during the fall term, this staff will try to make it possible for students to be assigned to the courses they want to take during the winter term.

This process will also make it easier for the various departments to schedule additional and/or fewer classrooms and professors according to the demand for the different courses, Warren Hafner, assistant to the registrar, said last week.

"Because this new system is designed to help students get the courses they need, it is especially important that they cooperate by making a serious effort when planning schedules in advance to request only the courses they really want to take," he said.

Toward the end of the term, all students will be able to go to the Registrar's office and verify the schedules they set up in September. Students will be told at this time if it has been necessary to make any

(Continued on page five)

—Collegian Photo by Dan Milsom

PART OF EVERY FRESHMAN'S LIFE is a dink and name card. Ralph Wise, sophomore in business administration from Altoona, assists Elaine Walker, from Pine Grove Mills, as she tries on her dink. Frosh may still pick up these items at the Book Exchange in the HUB.

Doffed Dink, Curtsy Mark Polite Frosh

"If I have to wear this card around my neck any longer I might as well be a walking sandwich board for Burma Shave."

Overheard—one conversation in which a frosh has not yet caught the True Spirit of Customs.

The show of spirit is a way of welcoming first semester students to Penn State, and is carried out wholeheartedly by all male students anxious to have an excuse to stop a pert frosh coed and to ask her to curtsy. (Once more, frosh, and what did you say your phone number was?)

AWS Judicial Forms

Applications for all positions in the AWS judicial system are now available at the Hetzel Union desk. Applications must be filled out and returned by 6 p.m. Friday or brought to the interviews. Interviews will be held from 8:30 to 12:30 Saturday morning and from 6:30 to 10:45 p.m. Sunday in 212 HUB.

The official opening of this traditional show of class spirit and unity will be the annual Dink Debut Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the ice skating rink. Included in the festivities will be Frosh Talent Night, featuring the performances of freshmen entertainers and also the Ivy Rocks, a campus rock and roll band.

Customs will be in effect for the Navy game Saturday, Susan Starbird and Greer Cooper, co-chairmen of the Freshman Customs Board, announced. This means that all frosh must wear dinks and namecards and carry their handbooks.

There are certain forms of etiquette unknown to Amy Vanderbilt. All requests on the part of upperclassmen must be cheerfully fulfilled. Or if not cheerfully, then just fulfilled.

Woe to the freshmen who haven't studied their handbook "bible" religiously or have dared to venture out of the dorm without it. This is not to mention what might happen to the frosh who forgets which side of the mall is forbidden to him for this period of customs.

The steps of Schwab are transformed into an auditioning stage for Ted Mack's amateur hour, where frosh bellow school songs and spirit. No auditions are necessary, and there is no limit to the number of times one frosh may be "recruited."

Days will be designated where men may address only frosh men, and women must limit their requests to the female half of the freshman class.

On another day, the reverse is true, and there will be a special day where the frosh may tell the upperclassmen to button, curtsy or skip down Pollock Road singing a nursery rhyme... ah sweet revenge.

(Continued on page three)

West Wants Mongi Slim—Soviet Pushes for Troika

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Delegates worked behind scenes yesterday trying to set up a stopgap authority to keep the United Nations functioning until a secretary-general is chosen to succeed the late Dag Hammarskjold.

Faced with an East-West deadlock that could paralyze the secretariat, Western powers were reported behind a plan to turn the interim authority over to Tunisia's Mongi Slim, who is sole candidate for the post of assembly president.

Western diplomats believe Slim, as president of the current session, would be best qualified to handle the secretary-general's duties until a successor is chosen.

Hammarskjold's death in a plane crash Monday faced delegates with the task of naming a successor to run the mammoth secretariat, administrative arm of the world organization.

The Soviet delegation, main question mark in the succession question issue, said it has no instructions as yet from Moscow, but a spokesman said the Kremlin still favors its disputed plan to replace the secretary-general with a three-man board. In this triumvirate would be a Communist, a Westerner and a neutral representative, each with veto power.

The Western powers have stood fast against the Soviet plan — introduced by Soviet Premier Khrushchev last year — on grounds it would hamstring the U. N. ability to take firm action on any disputed issue.

As to the suggestion that Slim might be named to serve as a kind of interim secretary-general, Khrushchev replied, "We hold to the principle position of this matter that any one person would not be good."

He acknowledged that amendment of the U. N. Charter was required to change the U.N. executive machinery, and said that this would be impossible without admission of Communist China. He said charter amendment requires agreement of all five permanent members of the Security Council — "and Communist China rightly is one of the five."

Navy Pep Rally To Spark Season For Nittany Lions

A "Sink the Navy" pep rally in front of Old Main at 6:45 p.m. Friday will kick off the new football season in Nittany Valley.

Head football coach Rip Engle and team captain Jim Smith will be on hand to talk to the fans about the Lions' "lidlifter" with the Midshipmen Saturday in Beaver Stadium.

Hank Opperman, last year's captain, who is helping tutor the gridders this fall, will also speak at the rally.

That devilish old Lion, mascot of the team, will be up to his old tricks, cavorting with the cheerleaders, who expect the students at the rally to raise a roar loud enough to make Admiral Hymen Rickover shake in his boots.

The freshmen, who made their entrance on campus such a vociferous one Monday night in Rec Hall, will get a chance to match their lung capacities with the upperclassmen.

The women orientation counselors plan to bring their counselees to the rally. This should cause an automatic increase in the male attendance.

Scrolls, senior women's hat society, and Parmi Nous, senior men's hat society, will present a skit.

Sheila Cohen, graduate student in speech, and Barry Nellinger, sophomore in Liberal Arts from East Meadow, N.Y., will emcee the rally.

Block "S" Club will sponsor this rally, the first of 10 for the season.

Hurricane Esther Heads Toward State

By JOEL MYERS
Editorial Editor

Mighty hurricane Esther, the largest and most intense Atlantic hurricane of the season, maintained its steady movement toward the Middle Atlantic coast last night.

At 4 a.m. daylight time the center of the dangerous hurricane was 130 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, North Carolina and it was moving towards the north-northwest at 15 miles an hour.

The storm was expected to continue toward the coast during the night and then turn northward today. (See map on page 3)

This movement would keep the center just off the coast as the storm pushed northward today. Then the full brunt of the hurricane was forecast to strike the New Jersey coast late today or this evening.

Esther, generating sustained winds of 130 miles an hour and gusts up to 150 miles an hour in a small area near its center, is following a course somewhat to the north and east of the hurricanes that have ravaged the Middle Atlantic coast in recent years.

It is a very large storm—gale force winds extend outward 350 miles from the center in all directions, except only 200 miles to the southwest.

Hurricane force winds extend 170 miles to the north and east of the center and 110 miles to the southwest.

Advance winds of the hurricane, which was first discovered by a Tiros weather satellite more than a week ago, buffeted the North Carolina and Virginia coast yesterday evening.

Monsterous waves, heavy surf, heavy rains and gale force winds pounded eastern North Carolina beaches last night.

Tides along the coast of eastern North Carolina and Virginia are expected to rise to 4 to 8 feet above normal early today.

The approach of the hurricane will cause rain in this area to be

54 Peace Corpsmen To Arrive Sept. 29

By DOTI DRASHER

The second contingent of 54 Peace Corps volunteers for teaching assignments in the Philippines will arrive on campus next Friday for a 10-week training program.

The volunteers will be housed—three to an apartment—in graduate circle housing. Meals will be provided for them in the Pollock dining area. Their classes and the main Peace Corps office will be located in Engineering D.

This second contingent of volunteers, numbering about one-third as many as the first contingent which graduated last Thursday, includes 27 women. The selected trainees represent 21 states and the District of Columbia. Two of the 54 are Pennsylvanians. Several more volunteers may yet be selected to train with this group.

This contingent represents part of a group of volunteers the University is under contract to train before June, 1962. The Philippine government has requested a total of 1,500 Peace Corps volunteers as teachers aides in English and science.

About 25 of the men in this

Guthrie to Direct

Dr. George M. Guthrie, associate professor of psychology, will direct the training program for the second contingent of Philippine Peace Corps volunteers, with C. O. Williams, former special assistant to President Walker, assisting.

Dr. Paul W. Bixby, director of the program for the first contingent of 150 volunteers, will leave Saturday for six-weeks in the Philippines. Guthrie has been appointed director during Bixby's absence.

Bixby will help with the final six-week phase of training for the first contingent at the University of the Philippines.

(Continued on page thirteen)