

SGA Committee OKs Majority of Budgets

By PAT DYER

The SGA Budget Investigation committee approved most activity budgets as submitted last spring, William F. Fuller, manager of the Associated Student Activities, said yesterday.

Only five of the 31 student activities which receive funds administered by ASA had any changes in their requested budgets. Three activities did not receive the full amount of their requests, while two organizations got budget appropriations for the first time.

Organizations whose requests for increases were denied or who received cuts in their former budgets were the Daily Collegian, the agriculture judging team and the Inter-College Council Board.

The University Readers and the Chapel Choir received new appropriations.

The only real budget cut was in the funds approved for ICCB. This organization which formerly had a budget of $1800 will now receive only $100 for administrative purposes. Fuller said the major reason for the reduction was the changes in programs provided by ICCB.

Since ICCB no longer sponsors the career exposition now financed by the placement and alumni offices, it was merely acting as a kind of "middle man" to channel the funds back to the college councils, he said. The councils will now get their funds directly from ASA.

The Daily Collegian request for an additional $3800 was denied. Fuller said the student members of the committee felt that the money would be used solely for salaries which would be "unwarranted at this time."

The agriculture judging team's request for additional funds for an extra judging trip was also denied.

A new appropriation of $1500 was approved for the University Chapel choir. This will be "matching funds" for those provided by the chaplain's office.

Another new appropriation of $500 for the University Readers was necessary, Fuller said, since the organization was formerly only partially supported by the Forensic Council and the rest of the necessary funds had been provided by the advisor.

A total of $144,391 was approved by the committee for student activities budgets for this year. Publications take the largest chunk of this budget with LaVie getting $48,000 and Collegian $31,700. Student government also gets a large slice with SGA allotted $11,200 and AWS $6800. The smallest allotment is ICCB's $100.

Money for student activities comes from the student affairs fund administered by Robert G. Bernreuter, special assistant to the president for student affairs. The SGA Budget committee heard and reviewed all budget requests and made recommendations to Bernreuter who then approved the appropriations.

William C. Pelton, director of the department of security, has predicted that the game will attract a "record crowd and more vehicular and pedestrian traffic than we have ever had to handle on the campus."

"No one should leave for the game at the last minute and expect to see the opening kickoff," he added.

NBC Broadcasts Piece Sung by Chapel Choir

An original selection written by George E. Ceiga, University organist, and performed by the Chapel Choir was broadcast nationally by NBC radio Sunday.

The number, titled "Credo," was first presented by the Chapel Choir under the direction of Mrs. Willa Taylor at the 1958 Easter Service in Schwab.

Accompanying the choir were Ceiga and the Brass Choir under the supervision of Rex Rockwell.
