

Peace Corps Adds Volunteers to Group

By DOTI DRASHER

About 15 more people have been added to the list of 54 already selected for the second Peace Corps contingent to be trained at the University, Dr. George M. Guthrie, director of the training program, said last night.

This new group of Peace Corps trainees will arrive Saturday to begin preparation for teaching English and science in the Philippines.

Most of these volunteers were given about a month's notice of their selection for training, he said. But since last week 15 more persons have been chosen for training with this group, he added.

Guthrie, who returned to State College yesterday, spent the last five days in Washington at the Peace Corps headquarters. He has been studying new methods for the selection and training of volunteers in the Peace Corps programs.

About 130 volunteers in the first contingent of 150 who trained here this summer, received notification Monday from Washington that they had been selected for Peace Corps service in the Philippines, Guthrie said.

Those 150 trainees, the first of four contingents to train here for Peace Corps duty in the Philippines, completed their 7-week program Sept. 17. The completion of the program does not mean that a volunteer will serve abroad in the Peace Corps.

Volunteers are evaluated throughout their training program by staff members and aides. The results of academic, psychological and medical examinations during the training period and security checks are considered in the selection process.

Nineteen of the volunteers in the Peace Corps contingent due here Saturday have already been training for the past month at a camp in Puerto Rico. They have been undergoing a rigorous program in survival techniques.

Nearly 5,000 ROTC Cadets To Start Drill

Come the end of the week, nearly 5,000 male cadets will be adhering to the commands of the ROTC program. Military Science and Tactics, largest of the three service groupings represented on the campus, will begin its outside drill with the advanced cadets' leadership lab at 6 p.m., on Wagner Field.

Over 2,400 students are enrolled in the Army's branch of ROTC, with 290 of these in the advanced course. In addition, 102 are enrolled in the Army ROTC program at both Pottsville and Mt. Alto campuses, and Ogontz campus in Philadelphia has a retinue of 550 men.

Air Science is close behind with 2,200 cadets on campus; however, no commonwealth campuses or centers offer the subject. Of this number, about 117 are in the advanced course.

Naval science this year will have approximately 366 cadets—30 more than last year.

While the enrollment in Air Science is almost the same as last year, Military Science reports an increase of over 500 from last year—20 additional in the advanced course—because of the increased University enrollment and a larger officers' quota.

Blue Band and Glee Club Record School Songs Album

Prompted by a great demand from alumni and students for a record album of school songs, the Concert Blue Band and the Glee Club joined forces to produce "Penn State in Hi-Fi."

The album was recorded May 7th in the State College High School auditorium under the personal direction of Jay H. Lewis, class of 1941, Dr. James Dunlop, director of the Blue Band said yesterday.

This is the first time a recording of school songs has been made available by the University.

The record contains 10 selections by the Blue Band and 11 by the Glee Club, directed by Frank Gullo.

The album, which is available in both monophonic and stereophonic sound, may be obtained through the Penn State Alumni Association. Dunlop explained that the profit received from the sales will be used for music scholarships.

The recording went on sale for the first time Friday and the many sales made thus far are quite encouraging, he said. Dunlop said that those connected with the record's production were pleased with its quality and musical performance.

On the cover there are words to such songs as "Blue and White," "Victory," "Fight On State," "Hail, Oh Hail to Pennsylvania State," "Nittany Lion" and the "Alma Mater."

Council Elects Spangler

Mrs. Margaret K. Spangler, assistant librarian, was elected to the Council of the American Library Association and to the Board of Directors of the Association of College and Research Libraries at the annual meeting of the American Library Association.

Both offices are for four-year terms.

Assembly Plans--

Only a general statement concerning this division will be written into the new constitution, Foianini said, for the shifts in the population will require reapportioning every year.

Upon completion of the Assembly's discussion, the constitution will be put into legal terminology with the aid of Dr. Robert E. Dunham, instructor in parliamentary law. The constitution should then go to the Senate Committee for Student Affairs sometime next week, Foianini said.

"After the constitution is submitted to the Senate Committee, the present SGA Assembly will no longer be an operative body," Foianini said, "unless the committee rejects the constitution and asks the Assembly to rework it."
