Walker Maintains Project Too Risky at Present

By CAROL KUNKLEMAN

President Eric A. Walker said yesterday he would not ask the Board of Trustees for authority to establish a University-owned and University-operated bookstore.

In an hour-long session with Dennis Foianini, SGA president, and John Black, editor of the Daily Collegian, Walker said he is working under an edict issued by the board this summer which bans all expansion projects for the present time.

However, Walker did not attribute his decision solely to this ban. Rather, he said, exhaustive study convinced him that the proposal "involves financial risks which this University is in no position to undertake at this time."

Walker revealed to Black and Foianini the contents of a report submitted to him by Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration. The report discussed the feasibility of establishing a student-run bookstore. Walker asked Diem to make the report at the request of the Trustees last June.

Basing his estimates on a 17,000 student enrollment and a bookstore of 25,000 sq. ft., Diem in his report approximated that an initial outlay of slightly over $1 million would be required to attempt the initiation of a bookstore.

Judging that the store would receive 50 per cent of student business, Diem listed $725,000 for income and $700,000 for expenditures. $750,000 was allotted in the report for the actual construction of a bookstore, and $250,000 was apportioned for working capital.

Diem estimated in the report that if textbooks and merchandise were sold, sales would bring about $25,000 in profit.

If profits were given back in rebates, this might mean about $2 per student.

"We must be realistic about these matters," Walker told the two students.

"We would need more floor space than the commercial bookstore, superior managerial skills, and a major share of the total business to operate profitably. None of these things will come easily. They will require time, and money, to achieve. In short, they involve financial risk which the University is in no position to undertake at this time."

Walker made it clear that for the present, at least, that a University bookstore is financially impossible. But the president did say that there may be a time when interest rates are low enough or the University in a financial position to merit such an undertaking.

Foianini said he believes Walker is genuinely interested in establishing a bookstore.

"He expressed this feeling last year at the time of the SGA bookstore report," Foianini explained. An SGA Bookstore Committee was formed last February to investigate the need for a University bookstore.

"The role of a college president today is that of a financial procurer," Foianini said.

"The University is expanding so rapidly that the president must keep control of the budget.

"This does not mean the project is halted forever," Foianini continued, "but that it is temporarily stopped because of present financial conditions."

Both students reported that

State Routs Powers May Agree Boston U. On U.N. Post Soon In 32-0 Win

By JIM KARL
Sports Editor

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 6 — Penn State rolled up 22 points in the second half against Boston University tonight to turn a close 10-0 ball game into a 32-0 rout.

The Lions, using an effective passing attack to augment their usual strong running game, scored almost at will in the last two periods to demoralize 10,150 fans who watched the game in moderate 70 degree temperatures at University Field.

The Lions rolled to their second victory in three games despite the absence of first team quarterback Galen Hall, who watched the game from the sidelines with a bruised shoulder.

Pete Liske and Don Caum, two first year men, performed like seasoned veterans in Hall's place. Together Liske and Caum completed 12 out of 21 passes for 178 yards against the outmanned Terriers.

State drove 65 yards after the opening kickoff for its first score and kicked a 17-yard field goal with only 10 seconds left in the second period to take a 10-0 halftime lead.

BU came back after State's first score with a drive of its own, but a fourth down pass from Jackie Farland fell incomplete.

The Lions scored the first time they got the ball in the second half with Dave Hayes bulging over from the one.

Caum ran BU's right end for the 2-point conversion and State took a commanding 18-0 lead.

Near the end of the second period Junior Powell returned a BU punt from the State 46 to the BU 45 and it took the Lions exactly two plays to get their third touchdown.

A penalty set State back to the 50 where Caum rolled out to his right and threw a perfect strike to Powell, who had a step on the BU safety man near the sidelines. He gathered in the ball near the 25 and went the rest of the way unmolested.

Don Jonas' kick was good and State led, 25-0. The Lions drove 95 yards at the beginning of the final period to close out the scoring. The big gainer was a 47-yard burst up the middle by Hayes.

Liske got the TD on a beautiful, twisting run from 33 yards out. He rolled to his left, cut down the middle, and then cut sharply to his right and outraced four BU defenders to paydirt.

Liske kept State on the ground for all but two plays in the first scoring drive. He hit Bob Mittinger with a 14-yarder with a third and six situation on the BU 34 to keep the Lions moving.

On the next play Al Gursky

The doors will open for the concert at 7:30 p.m. and tickets will be sold at the door.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States was reported highly optimistic yesterday that it could reach agreement with the Soviet Union for the naming of an interim U.N. secretary-general.

U Thant, veteran Burmese delegate, was said to be acceptable to both countries, and available for the post provided they could agree on the terms of service.

One source in touch with U.S. thinking expressed "all the highest optimism" that a solution would be found to fill the gap left by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's death Sept. 18 in a plane crash in Northern Rhodesia.

A neutralist diplomat in a position to know about negotiations that have been going on here stated his belief that U. S.-Soviet agreement was 90 per cent complete.

Delegates generally said those negotiations had been suspended almost entirely during the day to see whether President Kennedy and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko would complete the agreement in the White House talks yesterday.

With the avowed aim of getting "public reports back into focus,"

a U.S. delegation spokesman restated his government's recorded position on the whole matter in these five points:

• "The new secretary - general should have a clear mandate to carry out the full functions of his office.

• "The troika concept of dividing the world into three blocs is contrary to the spirit of the U.N. Charter and damages the integrity of the Secretariat.

• "There should be no political representation in the Secretariat.

• "The General Assembly has full authority to appoint an interim secretary-general.

• "The new man should be appointed promptly."

He added: "The United States and the U.S.S.R. have not agreed either on appointing an interim secretary-general with full powers or on the man. There is no lack of qualified persons, but we have no candidate."

Beautiful Weather Should Continue

Bright sunshine and unusually warm weather for this time of year should continue through the weekend.

Daytime temperatures will reach into the upper 70's today and again tomorrow, and nighttime readings will be in the low 50's.

Cloudy skies, possible showers, and a return to more seasonable temperatures are forecast for Monday.

AWS Hours Extended

All women students who attend the Dave Brubeck-Stan Kenton concert tomorrow night will have an additional 20 minutes in which to return to their residence halls if the concert is not over by 11:10. Patricia Dyer, AWS Judicial chairman, announced yesterday. Coeds must keep their ticket stubs to use the later hours, she said.

Foianini Reports to Students

Dennis Foianini last night began the first attempts in recent years by an SGA president to speak directly to his constituency, the student body.

This was the first in a series of weekly broadcasts, "Student Government Reports," which will be heard on WDFM and WMAJ from 9:00 to 9:05 every Friday night, to keep the student body informed on the happenings of SGA.

"Through these broadcasts," Foianini said last night, "I hope to present the student government to the students."

Foianini also said that he would be available at any time to speak to students personally in the SGA office in the Hetzel Union Building or at his residence.

The story of SGA for this term actually began last spring, Foianini said. At that time the Assembly was in a state of disorganization and began work on a constitution to reorganize student government.

Work on the constitution culminated on Sept. 27, Foianini said, when the remaining Assembly members met and finished the work to be done on the Constitution.

Since the constitution has been completed, Foianini said, it is now being processed. This week, Foianini said, he presented it to the Senate Committee on Student Affairs.

Foianini said that he was also authorized to call for work on preliminary election plans.

In connection with the election preparations, Foianini reminded the students that each political party can nominate a candidate for every vacant seat. Also, he said, students may run independently by securing 100 signatures on a petition.

Both independent and party-sponsored candidates, Foianini said, will receive some financial support from SGA for their campaign expenses.

The new system of representation, Foianini said, provides for representation at the "grass

DENNIS FOIANINI, SGA president, in a broadcast last night, calls the system of election of SGA Assemblymen in the new SGA Constitution "representation at the grass roots level." A first in a series, this broadcast will be heard from 9:00 to 9:05 every Friday night over WMAJ and WDFM.

roots level," since it is designated from the living areas.

In the past, Foianini said, Assemblymen came from organizations and at times pursued the interests of these organizations rather than those of the student body.

Turning from internal SGA problems, Foianini also said that he met with Dr. Eric A. Walker yesterday to discuss the bookstore report.

Although President Walker said that the venture could not be considered at this time, Foianini said, "the matter is far from dead." Support was expressed for the idea, Foianini said, if the University were in a better financial situation.
